BRITISH ADMIT DAMAGE TO LARGE CRUISER

Strike of 35,000 In Film Industry Looms for Today

Technician's Demands for Higher Wages Are Refused

LEADER SAYS THEY WILL BE CALLED OUT

Declares Workers Are Underpaid and Must Have 10 P.C. Boost

Hollywood, Nov. 24. (AP)—Movie producers rejected the demands of studio unions for ten percent wage increases today and union officials countered with an announcement they would call a strike closing every motion picture theater in the United States and Canada.

William Bioff, chairman of the conference of studio unions, said that unless the wage increases were granted tomorrow, there would be a "general strike closing all studios and theaters."

Bioff did not mention specifically the projectionists employed in the 20,000 movie theaters in the United States and neither he nor his associates would discuss strike strategy. But in previous negotiations Bioff said bluntly the pay increases would be obtained, if all other means failed, by the expedient of closing the theaters.

Hollywood, Nov. 24 (AP) — Motion picture producers today rejected demands of studio unions for a ten percent wage increase and union officials announced a strike of 35,000 technicians would be called unless the increase is granted by tomorrow.

The union announcement, by William Bioff, Western representative of the AFL studio technicians, did not fix a more definite deadline for the strike call.

Referring to a statement of producers in rejecting the demands, "due to the necessity of a complete readjustment with which the industry is faced," the union announcement said:

"We feel that the underpaid workers should get that increase now."

Twelve thousand studio employes who are members of unions affiliated with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes were granted a ten percent wage increase recently.

When the producers asked that they consent to its withdrawal because of demoralized condition of the foreign film market, the unions refused and delivered an ultimatum demanding the same increase for 23,000 other union employes with the alternative of a strike.

Witness Accuses Bowser of Plot To Defraud State

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—The commonwealth's principal witness in the trial of David L. Lawrence, Pennsylvania Democratic chairman, on blackmail and conspiracy charges was accused today by another prosecution witness of approaching a state official with an improper suggestion.

H. H. Temple, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania department of highways from 1935 to 1937, testified that Spurgeon Bowser, then president of the Pioneer Materials Company, came to his office one time and asked if "there was any place he could leave a package for me."

Temple said he ordered Bowser out of the office.

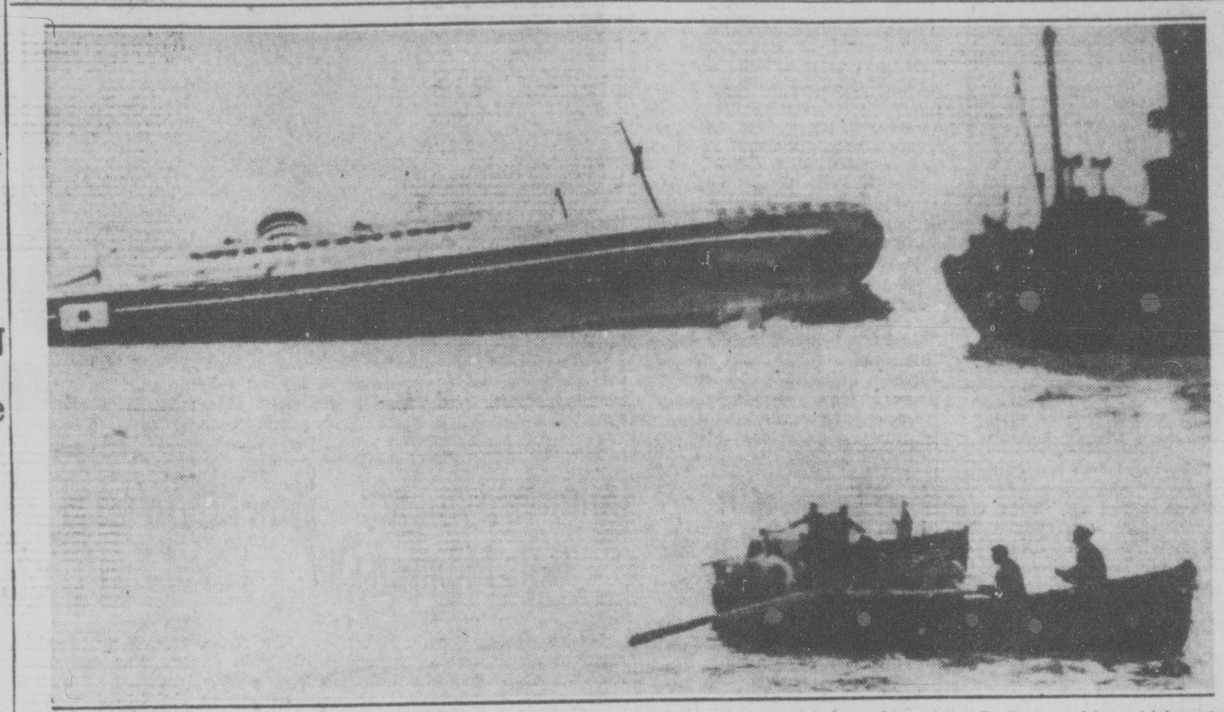

Temple said the incident took place a short time after the department withheld from Bowser company twenty percent of the total money owed so that the commonwealth would be protected in view of reports that gravel delivered was sub-standard.

Bowser has testified that Lawrence compelled him to hand over $5,000 in cash. The commonwealth Charles Lawrence, secretary of the commonwealth under Former Gov. George H. Earle, with conspiracy to procure unlawful contracts for Bowser's firm, blackmail of Bowser, and violation of the election laws in not reporting the purported $5,000 as a campaign donation.

More Than 2,000 Lives Lost Since Start of the War

Half a Million Tons of Shipping Destroyed in Sea Warfare

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Europe's war, quiescent ashore where millions of soldiers await the shock of battle, has taken heavy toll at sea and in the air since it started less than three months ago.

More than 2,000 lives, many of them those of neutrals or noncombatants, and more than half a million tons of shipping have been lost at sea in the savage struggle between Franco-British naval power and German U-boat and air strength—a struggle upon which the outcome of the war increasingly hinges.

Air Losses Heavy

Air losses by both sides also have been heavy. Conflicting reports from the belligerent capitals leave the actual casualty figures uncertain but they do not conceal the fact that the destruction of pilots, crews and planes has already been great.

With a week to go in the third month of the war, allied and neutral sea losses have bounded upword. Allied spokesmen say German use of mines in violation of treaties is responsible. They report that Nazi planes have been joining with U-boats in laying the mines.

For naval experts, there is no surprise factor about flying mine layers. Use of planes to lay mines in enemy areas unreachable by surface craft or submarines has been a move played out in theory on game boards of all navies since the first air bomber lifted its heavy load successfully.

Moreover, every navy has developed since the world war devices for launching submarine torpedoes from the air, and experimented with piloting them by radio control to their chosen targets. And self-propelling torpedoes are heavier loads for planes than any normal form of sea mine.

Netherlands Warned Not To Safeguard Spies

Berlin Newspaper Points Out That British Agents Are Protected

Berlin, Nov. 24 (AP)—The semi-official commentary Deutsche Diplomatische-Politische Korrespondenz tonight directed a guarded warning at the Netherlands in connection with the seizure of two alleged British spies on the Netherlands-German border Nov. 9.

Without mentioning the neighboring state, although the reference was obvious, the foreign office mouthpiece said:

"Neutral states are guarded (by England) as most suitable—because they are the safest—place where necessary preparations can be undertaken in order to threaten or undermine Germany's security.

"This connection in certain places already has developed so far that the determination no longer exists to see matters the way they are and act accordingly.

"On the contrary, sinister elements notorious for the fact that they are expressly commissioned from London to work for the disintegration of Germany, are passed off as harmless apostles of peace who, in the sense of their efforts, are worthy of every possible support.

"Such laughable matters provoke x x x serious thought. For the way matters exist today symptoms thereby are disclosed which Germany can not disregard, but rather require its most earnest attention."

DNB, official news agency, disclosed that George Elser, German accused of planting the Munich beer cellar bomb intended for Adolf Hitler, was within forty-five feet of freedom when he was caught at the Swiss border.

The agency added that Elser had in his pockets materials left over from the construction of the infernal machine and other documents including the beer cellar

King, a World traveler and ardent student of international affairs, added in an interview that the Italian premier, as the "most powerful European leader outside the belligerents, is probably the only man who could lead a successful peace move."

The Utah senator said the war would be halted if a powerful peace bloc of European nations demanded an end to hostilities.

Japanese Troops Take Nanning in 100-Mile Advance

Announce Cutting of China's "Lifeline" Supply Routes

Hongkong, Nov. 24 (AP) —The capture of the Kwangsi Province capital of Nanning today at the end of a ten - day, 100-mile thrust by Japanese troops aiming at China's southwestern "lifeline" supply routes was announced by Japanese army headquarters.

While Chinese official quarters remained silent, Japanese said their troops were completing occupation of the Nanning area tonight. The city has been a nerve center for China's incoming war supplies and outgoing trade.

Although not minimizing the importance of its fall, which they said was possible, Chinese contended that the invading Japanese force, about 40,000 strong, had not achieved its announced objectives of cutting China's "lifelines" and smashing the Kwangsi Province army, rated among the best of China's soldiers.

Admit Loss of City

Nanning is on a highway from French Indo-China over which war supplies have been moving into China. Chinese officials acknowledged that loss of the city would end theu se of this highway, but asserted that the Chinese already were developing a loop line road running 130 miles west of Nanning.

Chinese pointed out that more than 200 miles of mountains, rivers and deep valleys separate the Japanese from Kweilin, South China's new military and political headquarters.

Japanese entry into Nanning was preceded by air and artillery bombardment which reduced its defenses and badly damaged the outskirts of the city, the Japanese said. Japanese cavalry units were said to have crossed the shallow Pearl river on which Nanning lies.

Chinese officials said they doubted that the Japanese actually intended to carry cut their threat of pushing into Yunnan Province, 150 miles away, and said they doubted Japanese ability to complete such a drive.

Cleveland Schools To Remain Open

Cleveland, Nov. 24 (AP)—Cleveland schools will remain open for the rest of 139, the board of education decided today, but it looked as if the teachers might have a not-so-plentiful Christmas.

The school board voted to continue present school activities, but it means that teachers' salaries will be delayed until after the first of next year.

Action followed a warning by Karl K. Morris, clerk-treasurer of the board, that depletion of 1939 operating funds gave the board a choice of closing the schools for the last six weeks or operating at a deficit of $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 for the period.

Growing War Problems of Neutral Netherlands Considered by Cabinet

By MAX HARRELSON

The Hague, Nov. 24 (AP) — The growing war problems of the neutral Netherlands, hemmed in by belligerents, were considered today by the cabinet at a special meeting.

At the same time, vigorous criticisms were directed by the press against both Great Britain and Germany.

There was no official announcement at the conclusion of the cabinet session but it was understood the government was concerned gravely over new shipping difficulties and over the "Venloo incident" on the German-Netherlands frontier.

The Net Volk, Amsterdam newspaper, said Lieut. Kolp, Netherlands army intelligence officer, was killed at Menloo Nov. 9 and a Dutch chauffeur, J. Lemmens, abducted when the Germans seized two British intelligence officers as spies.

The Amsterdam Telegraaf answered sharply a German statement regarding seizure of the Netherlands officer, declaring it was no concern of the Gestapo, German secret police, that the officer had two passports since he was on Netherlands territory when he was seized.

"It is The Hague, and not Berlin which had to judge this," the newspaper declared. "The kidnaping of four people, two of whom were Dutch, the murder of one of them, stealing a car and threatening with a gun honorable Dutch citizens is something that claims redress."

Shortly after the cabinet meeting news was received that the 5,133-ton tanker Sliedrecht had been sunk in the Atlantic—the first Netherlands victim of a submarine.

The government, already seeking a way to avoid the mine menace, withheld immediate comment but newspapers carried under large headlines a London story attributing the sinking to the Germans.

Half Billion for Defense May Hike Taxes F.D.R. Says

President Discusses Possibility of New Levy at Next Session

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24. (AP)—A half billion dollar addition to the bill for national defense, possibly financed by a special new tax, was forecast at a presidential press conference today.

President Roosevelt asserted such a tax, coupled with a reduction of the government's budget for the year starting next July 1 and continuation of an upward trend in federal revenue, might be instrumental inhalving the deficit.

Nothing has been decided about a new levy for defense, the president said, adding that he thought the people should study the question whether emergency expenditures for defense should be met by borrowing or whether the program should be put on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Undoubtedly, the chief executive declared, more money must be spent for defenses because of the present world situation. He said this year's sum would have to be boosted by about $500,000,000, and that the new total would be less than $2,300,000,000 but in excess of $2,000,000,000.

A thing the country ought to understand and think about, he said, is this:

Suggests New Taxes

If the money were borrowed, additional taxes would be unnecessary; a pay-as-you-go basis would require some form of new national defense taxes.

Reporters sought unsuccessfully to get the president's views on the form such taxes might take and the implications of imposing new taxes in an election year—a step which Congressman always have shown a reluctance to take.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he was discussing principles and not a matter of dollars and cents or polities.

With his wife beside him, the chief executive drove down to a cottage occupied by reporters at the Warm Springs Foundation and held his press conference by the side of a dusty road.

He touched on such unrelated subjects as gold mining in Georgia and a decision to let the American ambassadors in London and Brussels make a quick trip home for the Christmas holiday.

War Board Disbands

And he disclosed that the war resources board, set up last August to help the army and navy munitions board formulate plans for industrial mobilization in event of a major war, had been disbanded after submitting a report.

In a letter to members of the resources board, the president accepted their offer to continue to assist the munitions board in an advisory capacity whenever their assistance might be requested.

Speaking of the report, the chief executive wrote that "I feel certain it will prove of material assistance in perfecting our plans for the national defense."

While Mr. Roosevelt saw a chance of making what he called a very substantial reduction in the deficit, he replied in the negative to a question whether he was implying the budget could be balanced, if defense expenditures were not taken into consideration.

Of course, the administration intends to pare all possible expenditures, he said. This year's deficit can be lowered, he said, if appropriations are shaved down and Congress does not go beyond the budget, and if tax receipts continue to increase.

He said an important point to remember was that Congress ran

10,000 Ton Belfast Hit By a Torpedo or Struck Mine, Admiralty Asserts

Berlin Claims Success in Second Serious Raid in Firth of Forth; British Steamer Sunk

BY EDWIN STOUT

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—Breaking a three-day silence, the admiralty admitted tonight that "a torpedo or mine" had damaged the new, 10,000 ton cruiser Belfast last Tuesday at the Firth of Forth naval base with injury to twenty men.

The admiralty had withheld comment on reports abroad since Tuesday that the Belfast had been damaged and the announcement today by the German high command that a Nazi submarine commander had confirmed a raid on the Firth of Forth.

Bomb Three Warships

Nazi air raiders bombed three warships at the strategic Scottish naval base Oct. 16, inflicting casualties on the cruisers Southampton, Edinburgh and the destroyer Mohawk.

The admiralty's statement said the Belfast now was undergoing repairs.

Launched in 1938, the Belfast is strongly protected and is understood to have been designed to withstand eight-inch shell fire. She carries three airplanes with a catapult, twelve six-inch guns, twelve four-inch anti-aircraft guns, and six torpedo tubes.

One of Britain's fastest cruisers, she has a speed of 32½ knots.

New Losses at Sea

Meanwhile, the sea lanes on which Britain depends for food bore new losses and there was increasing tension over neutral complaints against the threatened British blockade of German exports.

The latest victim of east coast mines—some of which the British assert were laid by Nazi planes—was the 8,886-ton British steamer Mangalore, whose crew of seventy-seven was saved.

(She was the 83rd British ship, naval and merchant, reported sunk since the war began Sept. 3.)

The toll of ships lost in little more than a week rose almost to thirty with the disclosure that the 5,133-ton Netherlands tanker Sliedrecht was torpedoed by a German submarine last week.

Five survivors of the Sliedrecht were landed at a northwest coast port by a trawler after spending seven and one-half days in an open boat. Twenty-six others were missing.

One survivor said the submarine torpedoed the Sliedrecht although informed she was a neutral bound for a neutral port.

War Restrictions Halt Purchase of American Goods

British Decision Is Blow to Many United States Shippers

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Well-informed persons reported today that the United Kingdom's wartime import restrictions had halted "until further notice" her purchases of nearly a score of American products covered by the British-American trade treaty.

They estimated that the Kingdom's purchases of these goods—which include fresh apples and pears, motor cars and a number of articles considered luxuries—mounted to $21,220,000 in 1936.

France is requiring permits for all imports, it was said, and although the extent of her restrictions are not yet clear she is granting no permits for apples nor for tobacco shipments into French colonies. In addition, she has halted some exports to this country, mostly of colonial products.

Heavy Trade Losses

Whether trade losses suffered by the United States as a result of the Allies' import restrictions would be offset and perhaps over-shadowed by increased purchases of war supplies, officials declined to guess. They said insufficient time had passed since the outbreak of the war, and particularly since repeal of the embargo against arms sales to belligerents to show what might be expected.

At the time the arms embargo was repealed, it was estimated unofficially that Britain and France would place $1,000,000,000 of war orders in this country in the near future. Statistics are not yet available to demonstrate whether this forecast is coming true. But even

Strikes, Sabotage Seen by Dies If Communists Grow

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the House Committee on unAmerican activities predicted today "a series of strikes and sabotage" if Communist activities in the United States are not exposed fully and quickly.

At a press conference, Dies repeated his charge that the Communist party was an agent of Moscow and proposed that the United States sever relations with Russia unless that nation abides by the agreement which led to its recognition in 1933. The agreement pledged the Soviets not to interfere in internal affairs of this country.

"In view of the facts we've got," Dies said, "we ought to declare that Soviet Russia has violated that pact and unless we can get assurances that it won't happen again, we ought to sever relations entirely."

Dies said that Russia had broken the compact by "conspiring to break the passport laws," sending secret police agents to the United States and "being a party to" the theft of industrial and military secrets which were taken to Russia.

"The plan of the party is to stop shipments of war materials to the allies," he went on. "Unless those people are exposed, we're going to have a series of strikes and sabotage not connected in any manner with improving labor conditions."

Just back from a twelve-day midwestern tour, Dies spoke of his committee's future, next week's hearing, and a desire to get out of the investigation if possible. He also referred to his previous complaints that the federal government had failed to help his work

Reports of Magnetic Mines Stir Interests of American Scientists

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—A magnetic mine is scientifically feasible, but it is not the kind which the public visions in the British reports of a new German magnetic mine.

This idea is of a mine so loaded with magnetism that it is attracted to the huil of a steel ship. That, said both scientists and commercial magnet experts today, is fantastic.

In explaining why magnetic attraction will not be used, they pointed out there are two kinds of magnets available, permanent, and electro-magnetic. The newest permanent magnet, an alloy containing aluminum, nickel and cobalt, is so powerful that half a pound of it will hold ten pounds of steel.

This new stuff would cost about $1 a pound, a price not prohibitive. But a magnet of this material large enough to pull ten pounds one inch distant, will pull only one-tenth of a pound at ten inches. This is on accouht of the inverse square law, by which the magnetic force drops inversely with the square of distance from the magnet.

The electro-magnet, run by batteries, is feasible in a sea mine. It would, however, be about five times more powerful than the new permanent magnet.

But again the inverse square law interferes. For example, the huge electro-magnets used to pick up scrap iron are effective mostly within only a foot. One of these magnets six feet in diameter can pick up only thirty pounds at ten inches.

But a quite different use of magnetism is possible to make an effective mine, which is magnetic in name only.

This would be too small coils of Chinese officials said they doubted that the Japanese actually intended to carry out their threat of pushing into Yunnan Province, 150 miles away, and said they doubted Japanese ability to complete such a drive.

Cleveland Schools To Remain Open

Cleveland, Nov. 24 (AP)—Cleveland schools will remain open for the rest of 139, the board of education decided today, but it looked as if the teachers might have a not-so-plentiful Christmas.

The school board voted to continue present school activities, but it means that teachers' salaries will be delayed until after the first of next year.

Action followed a warning by Karl K. Morris, clerk-treasurer of the board, that depletion of 1939 operating funds gave the board a choice of closing the schools for the last six weeks or operating at a deficit of $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 for the period.

Growing War Problems of Neutral Netherlands Considered by Cabinet

By MAX HARRELSON

The Hague, Nov. 24 (AP) — The growing war problems of the neutral Netherlands, hemmed in by belligerents, were considered today by the cabinet at a special meeting.

At the same time, vigorous criticisms were directed by the press against both Great Britain and Germany.

There was no official announcement at the conclusion of the cabinet session but it was understood the government was concerned gravely over new shipping difficulties and over the "Venloo incident" on the German-Netherlands frontier.

The Net Volk, Amsterdam newspaper, said Lieut. Kolp, Netherlands army intelligence officer, was killed at Menloo Nov. 9 and a Dutch chauffeur, J. Lemmens, abducted when the Germans seized two British intelligence officers as spies.

The Amsterdam Telegraaf answered sharply a German statement regarding seizure of the Netherlands officer, declaring it was no concern of the Gestapo, German secret police, that the officer had two passports since he was on Netherlands territory when he was seized.

"It is The Hague, and not Berlin which had to judge this," the newspaper declared. "The kidnaping of four people, two of whom were Dutch, the murder of one of them, stealing a car and threatening with a gun honorable Dutch citizens is something that claims redress."

Shortly after the cabinet meeting news was received that the 5,133-ton tanker Sliedrecht had been sunk in the Atlantic—the first Netherlands victim of a submarine.

The government, already seeking a way to avoid the mine menace, withheld immediate comment but newspapers carried under large headlines a London story attributing the sinking to the Germans.

Half Billion for Defense May Hike Taxes F.D.R. Says

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24. (AP)—A half billion dollar addition to the bill for national defense, possibly financed by a special new tax, was forecast at a presidential press conference today.

President Roosevelt asserted such a tax, coupled with a reduction of the government's budget for the year starting next July 1 and continuation of an upward trend in federal revenue, might be instrumental inhalving the deficit.

Nothing has been decided about a new levy for defense, the president said, adding that he thought the people should study the question whether emergency expenditures for defense should be met by borrowing or whether the program should be put on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Undoubtedly, the chief executive declared, more money must be spent for defenses because of the present world situation. He said this year's sum would have to be boosted by about $500,000,000, and that the new total would be less than $2,300,000,000 but in excess of $2,000,000,000.

A thing the country ought to understand and think about, he said, is this:

Suggests New Taxes

If the money were borrowed, additional taxes would be unnecessary; a pay-as-you-go basis would require some form of new national defense taxes.

Reporters sought unsuccessfully to get the president's views on the form such taxes might take and the implications of imposing new taxes in an election year—a step which Congressman always have shown a reluctance to take.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he was discussing principles and not a matter of dollars and cents or politics.

With his wife beside him, the chief executive drove down to a cottage occupied by reporters at the Warm Springs Foundation and held his press conference by the side of a dusty road.

He touched on such unrelated subjects as gold mining in Georgia and a decision to let the American ambassadors in London and Brussels make a quick trip home for the Christmas holiday.

War Board Disbands

And he disclosed that the war resources board, set up last August to help the army and navy munitions board formulate plans for industrial mobilization in event of a major war, had been disbanded after submitting a report.

In a letter to members of the resources board, the president accepted their offer to continue to assist the munitions board in an advisory capacity whenever their assistance might be requested.

Speaking of the report, the chief executive wrote that "I feel certain it will prove of material assistance in perfecting our plans for the national defense."

While Mr. Roosevelt saw a chance of making what he called a very substantial reduction in the deficit, he replied in the negative to a question whether he was implying the budget could be balanced, if defense expenditures were not taken into consideration.

Of course, the administration intends to pare all possible expenditures, he said. This year's deficit can be lowered, he said, if appropriations are shaved down and Congress does not go beyond the budget, and if tax receipts continue to increase.

He said an important point to remember was that Congress ran

10,000 Ton Belfast Hit By a Torpedo or Struck Mine, Admiralty Asserts

BY EDWIN STOUT

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—Breaking a three-day silence, the admiralty admitted tonight that "a torpedo or mine" had damaged the new, 10,000 ton cruiser Belfast last Tuesday at the Firth of Forth naval base with injury to twenty men.

The admiralty had withheld comment on reports abroad since Tuesday that the Belfast had been damaged and the announcement today by the German high command that a Nazi submarine commander had confirmed a raid on the Firth of Forth.

Bomb Three Warships

Nazi air raiders bombed three warships at the strategic Scottish naval base Oct. 16, inflicting casualties on the cruisers Southampton, Edinburgh and the destroyer Mohawk.

The admiralty's statement said the Belfast now was undergoing repairs.

Launched in 1938, the Belfast is strongly protected and is understood to have been designed to withstand eight-inch shell fire. She carries three airplanes with a catapult, twelve six-inch guns, twelve four-inch anti-aircraft guns, and six torpedo tubes.

One of Britain's fastest cruisers, she has a speed of 32½ knots.

New Losses at Sea

Meanwhile, the sea lanes on which Britain depends for food bore new losses and there was increasing tension over neutral complaints against the threatened British blockade of German exports.

The latest victim of east coast mines—some of which the British assert were laid by Nazi planes—was the 8,886-ton British steamer Mangalore, whose crew of seventy-seven was saved.

(She was the 83rd British ship, naval and merchant, reported sunk since the war began Sept. 3.)

The toll of ships lost in little more than a week rose almost to thirty with the disclosure that the 5,133-ton Netherlands tanker Sliedrecht was torpedoed by a German submarine last week.

Five survivors of the Sliedrecht were landed at a northwest coast port by a trawler after spending seven and one-half days in an open boat. Twenty-six others were missing.

One survivor said the submarine torpedoed the Sliedrecht although informed she was a neutral bound for a neutral port.

Seek To Combat Mines

Meanwhile, the British turned to the laboratory and to the overall-

War Restrictions Halt Purchase of American Goods

British Decision Is Blow to Many United States Shippers

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Well-informed persons reported today that the United Kingdom's wartime import restrictions had halted "until further notice" her purchases of nearly a score of American products covered by the British-American trade treaty.

They estimated that the Kingdom's purchases of these goods—which include fresh apples and pears, motor cars and a number of articles considered luxuries—mounted to $21,220,000 in 1936.

France is requiring permits for all imports, it was said, and although the extent of her restrictions are not yet clear she is granting no permits for apples nor for tobacco shipments into French colonies. In addition, she has halted some exports to this country, mostly of colonial products.

Heavy Trade Losses

Whether trade losses suffered by the United States as a result of the Allies' import restrictions would be offset and perhaps over-shadowed by increased purchases of war supplies, officials declined to guess. They said insufficient time had passed since the outbreak of the war, and particularly since repeal of the embargo against arms sales to belligerents to show what might be expected.

At the time the arms embargo was repealed, it was estimated unofficially that Britain and France would place $1,000,000,000 of war orders in this country in the near future. Statistics are not yet available to demonstrate whether this forecast is coming true. But even

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the House Committee on unAmerican activities predicted today "a series of strikes and sabotage" if Communist activities in the United States are not exposed fully and quickly.

At a press conference, Dies repeated his charge that the Communist party was an agent of Moscow and proposed that the United States sever relations with Russia unless that nation abides by the agreement which led to its recognition in 1933. The agreement pledged the Soviets not to interfere in internal affairs of this country.

"In view of the facts we've got," Dies said, "we ought to declare that Soviet Russia has violated that pact and unless we can get assurances that it won't happen again, we ought to sever relations entirely."

Dies said that Russia had broken the compact by "conspiring to break the passport laws," sending secret police agents to the United States and "being a party to" the theft of industrial and military secrets which were taken to Russia.

"The plan of the party is to stop shipments of war materials to the allies," he went on. "Unless those people are exposed, we're going to have a series of strikes and sabotage not connected in any manner with improving labor conditions."

Just back from a twelve-day midwestern tour, Dies spoke of his committee's future, next week's hearing, and a desire to get out of the investigation if possible. He also referred to his previous complaints that the federal government had failed to help his work

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—A magnetic mine is scientifically feasible, but it is not the kind which the public visions in the British reports of a new German magnetic mine.

This idea is of a mine so loaded with magnetism that it is attracted to the hull of a steel ship. That, said both scientists and commercial magnet experts today, is fantastic.

In explaining why magnetic attraction will not be used, they pointed out there are two kinds of magnets available, permanent, and electro-magnetic. The newest permanent magnet, an alloy containing aluminum, nickel and cobalt, is so powerful that half a pound of it will hold ten pounds of steel.

This new stuff would cost about $1 a pound, a price not prohibitive. But a magnet of this material large enough to pull ten pounds one inch distant, will pull only one-tenth of a pound at ten inches. This is on account of the inverse square law, by which the magnetic force drops inversely with the square of distance from the magnet.

The electro-magnet, run by batteries, is feasible in a sea mine. It would, however, be about five times more powerful than the new permanent magnet.

But again the inverse square law interferes. For example, the huge electro-magnets used to pick up scrap iron are effective mostly within only a foot. One of these magnets six feet in diameter can pick up only thirty pounds at ten inches.

But a quite different use of magnetism is possible to make an effective mine, which is magnetic in name only.

And Judge Hints He May Rule Out Remainder Monday

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—Five of the prosecution's ten counts against Fritz Kuhn were dismissed today, leaving him charged with the misappropriation from his German-American bund of $1,217 instead of $5,641, and Judge James G. Wallace indicated that not even all of the other five were certain to be left to the jury.

For he remarked from the bench late in the day amid a legal discussion among counsel after both sides had rested that these remaining counts would be allowed to stand—"unless I change my mind by Monday."

The last major witness had been Kuhn's erstwhile "golden angel," Mrs. Florence Camp, a blonde divorcee who twisted her fingers and gave the stout bundsfuehrer a single, chill glance as she took the stand.

She Contradicts Kuhn

Mrs. Camp, fashionably turned out in a short fur jacket and a bustle-back dress, contradicted Kuhn sharply upon some points in his own testimony—particularly his contention that he had simply been "very, very friendly" with her.

She insisted that he not only had proposed marriage to her—although he was and is a married man—but that he'd given her a $240 platinum engagement ring in San Francisco last year and had urged upon her the divorce she obtained from Charles Camp.

Nevertheless, she gave some support to the bundsman upon his major contention that the $700-odd which he acknowledged having spent from the bund's funds in transporting her furniture about the country was repaid by her and that he in turn reimbursed the bund's account.

She testified that on various occasions she had given him a total of $600.

Gave Out His Letters

She acknowledged that she had made available to the prosecution three breathless love letters written to her by Kuhn, in which he called her not only his "golden angel," but his "darling sweetheart" and other endearing terms.

It was this fact—that the "angel" herself had allowed these notes to be made public—which caused Kuhn to turn upon her Wednesday and declare from the stand that she was not the "fine lady" he had thought she was.

As she began her testimony today she reddened painfully, but in a few minutes he had turned away and began a chat with one of his lawyers.

The jury was excused until Monday.

if it is, some producers who are affected by the import restrictions but have no war goods to sell are dissatisfied.

Congress May Act

The war-time operation of the trade agreements with the United Kingdom and France may be a subject of discussion in the next session of Congress. The trade agreements act, under which these and other pacts were negotiated, is due to expire next June 12 and if the administration puts in a bill for its renewal an extended discussion of the program in general is expected.

Secretary of State Hull made clear today his firm conviction that the program should be continued. Although he did not commit himself on the question of waging a fight for its reenactment at the next session, he described the program as an indispensable cornerstone for any lasting world peace.

Canada Spending Huge Sum for War

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (AP) — Finance Minister J. L. Ralston tonight estimated at $315,000,000 the cost of Canada's war effort for the first year—almost fifty percent greater than her expenditures in the last war up to March, 1916.

The finance minister, in a radio address, said the government soon would start construction of a fleet of anti-submarine craft. He added that discussions also were under way looking toward possible construction in Canada of larger ships.

The war supply board, Ralston asserted, now has Canadian contracts for $25,000,000 worth of war supplies, $9,000,000 in the United Kingdom, and $10,000,000 for airplanes in the United States.

Communist Puts Up Bonds for Bail

New York, Nov. 24 (AP) —Robert W. Wiener, national treasurer of the Communist party in the United States, was arraigned in federal court today on a warrant describing him as a material witness in the government's inquiry into alleged passport irregularities.

He was released on $2,000 bail, furnished when he deposited U. S. government bonds belonging to the Communist party committee.

clad fisherman for help in overcoming Germany's intensified mine warfare, which one naval authority termed "an extremely grave menace."

Explosive and electrical experts—all sorts of scientists—were concentrating on finding a counter-weapon to the mines. In addition, trawlermen have stepped up their efforts to sweep the sea lanes clear of the explosives.

In the air, German warplanes continued flights over the far-north Shetland islands. Two visits today raised to eight the month's total of such flights. No bombs were dropped.

With Britain now determined to attack German exports as a retaliatory step, an order in council authorizing the seizure of such corgoes on the high seas, even in neutral ships, was expected next Tuesday.

In the case of two British intelligence agents seized by Germany earlier this month, authoritative sources here said the men, Captain Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best, were endeavoring to see whether a German "peace offer was bonafide" at the time they were "kidnaped" at Venloo, on the Netherlands-German border, on Nov. 9.

A spokesman said the "peace proposals" came from "some German sources." Their nature was not revealed.

Germany Claims Heavy Damage to Belfast

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER

Berlin, Nov. 24 (AP) — The German high command proclaimed today a new success in submarine warfare against the British navy, heavy damage to the new cruiser Belfast in the Firth of Forth in the second serious raid on that base.

(The Belfast, a vessel of 10,000 tons, was launched March 17, 1938.)

The British decision to seize German exports drew the warning from one official that "our principle of conducting the war, namely firing ten shots back for every shot against us, will be used in the economic sphere also."

Claim Mastery of Air

Nazis asserted they had mastery of the air over France and Britain, following four days of connected aerial activity, and control of waters close to the British East coast.

Cancellation of the winter Olympic games scheduled for February, 1940, in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, coincidentally was seen as an indication they expected the war to last through the winter.

German spirits rose when the high command reported a submarine had entered the Firth of Forth and torpedoed the Belfast.

In an air raid on the strategic Scottish base on Oct. 16, three warships were bombed.

Casualties on Three Ships

(Casualties occurred aboard the cruisers Southampton and Edinburgh and the destroyer Mohawk in that attack; the British announced at the time the damage to the warships was superficial. Only two days before a German submarine penetrated the Scapa Flow naval base and sank the battleship Royal Oak.)

With the sinking of numerous neutral ships near the English coast by mines in the last week, Nazis told neutrals through the press that no free shipping lanes to England existed.

They advised them to adopt the United States plan of cash and carry "as the only solution of their difficulties."

The plan was frowned upon before the United States adopted it but there has been an inclination in officialdom to regard it less pessimistically since it began functioning.

There was no direct admission that the mines of the British coast were German but it was stated officially Germany had a right to lay them there if she desired.

Nazis Exploit Sinking

Nazis sought to exploit the sinkings to the utmost to convince neutrals of the necessity of halting commerce with Britain.

The reported torpedoing of the Belfast also was used by the Nazis to back their contention Germany controlled Britain's own waters.

One official said glee over the reported Firth of Forth raid was all the greater because of "Churchill's recent statement harbor defenses had been strengthened threefold since the successful submarine raid on Scapa Flow."

(Winston Churchill is Britain's first lord of the admiralty.)

Officials said a four-day air campaign, during which "most of France and parts of England were flown over without loss," proved German superiority had been established as previously had been done in Poland.

The high command in its communique today on yesterday's activity said German warplanes had downed two allied planes and anti-aircraft fire accounted for a third; no German casualties were given.)

(In contrast, a French communique said eight German planes were shot down Thursday with the loss of only one French plane.)

Sale of "Nips" Is Upheld by Board

Baltimore, Nov. 24 (AP)—Refusing to ban the sale of "nips", the city board of liquor license commissioners said today "no evidence whatever" had been found that children consume the contents of miniature liquor bottles in the public schools.

The commissioners' statement that they saw no reason to prohibit the sale of miniatures ended a three-months investigation launched after a saloon keepers' association and "dry" forces demanded a ban on "nips" with the assertion they were sold to children.

"If miniatures are sold to minors, the answer is not to abolish miniatures, but to abolish sales to minors," said Chairman Charles T. Le Viness and the associate commissioners, Dr. Joseph L. Valentini and C. Delano Ames.

Pointing out that state law prohibits sale of liquor to persons under twenty-one, the commissioners said it would be "a left-handed approach" to ban "one class of beverages or one size of bottle because they get into the hands of youngsters."

Province. This "lifeline" was built by China as the Japanese invaders successively captured the coastal ports, China's normal gateways to the outside world.

The Chinese said they expected the invaders to build an air base at Nanning, and attempt from there there to harass Kunming, capital to Yunnan, 280 miles to the northwest.

A motor road runs from Chungking to Kunming, where the "lifeline" forks by rail to Hanoi, Indo-China, and by new motor highway to Burma.

Baby Girl Begins Strange Experiment

Oakdale, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP) — A red-haired, blue-eyed, five-months-old baby today began a strange experiment at the hands of the royal fraternity of master metaphysicians to prove, their leader said, "that immortality can be actually achieved, not as a ghost or spirit."

In this experiment the child never will hear death or disease spoken of, and her diet and training will be rigidly controlled, to demonstrate, James B. Schafer, leader of the fellowship explained, "that man is an immortal being."

The baby's parents, poverty-stricken, asked that Schafer adopt the child. Adoption proceedings now are underway, Schafer said.

Jean—her last name was not disclosed—is being cared for by a private nurse in the former room of Consuela Vanderbilt, in the 110 room one-time Vanderbilt mansion on Long Island which was obtained by the fraternity in January, 1938. It is now known as Peace Haven.

Schafer and hsi fellow-followers believe illness and death are caused by destructive thinking.

pedoes from the air. They weigh a ton or more with their complicated propelling machinery and deadly "war heads" containing 300 pounds or so of high explosive. They cost around $10,000 each.

That Nazi "torpedo planes" have not struck before now to duplicate the feat of the German U-boat which penetrated the defenses of Scapa Flow and sank the British battleship Royal Oak at anchor has caused some surprise in naval circles. It may be that the cost and the uncertainty of results have held back that development of the Nazi effort to break the British blockade.

Now that Franco-British air patrols are on the alert it will be increasingly difficult for Nazi flying mine planters to reach their goal. Their is a tendency among military experts to ascribe the initial success of the reported German mine attack, whether laid down from the air or from U-boats, to the surprise factor.

It is recalled that ship losses during the first month of the war were explained in London as due to submarines "planted" by Germany before the war. Once that surprise attack had been met by mobilization of allied anti-submarine forces and adoption of convoy methods, the U-boats bag dwindled. Whether the surprise mine attack can be hailed as quickly is a vital question to which nobody can yet give the answer certainly, although neutral experts tend to believe that it can be curbed.

Navy's Policy of Secrecy Blamed for Ships Defects Probe

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Army and Navy Journal says in an editorial to be published tomorrow that the Navy's "policy of secrecy" was to blame for Congressional proposals for an inquiry into admitted defects in twelve new destroyers.

The service periodical asserted that "suppression of information" about the destroyers had cost the navy both public confidence and congressional support.

"The navy department is discovering that it does not pay to observe the tactics of the ostrich," the Journal comments. "To correct the impression regarding the defects of the new destroyers, it was forced to ask the president to ridicule their importance, and it is now facing a congressional investigation."

Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, told Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) recently in response to an inquiry that several vessels were found to lack desired stability, but that the faults would be corrected. They were twelve destroyers of the Anderson class. Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) said subsequently that he would demand a congressional inquiry

Man and Baby Son Critically Injured

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—A Natrona, Pa., man and his two-year old son were critically injured early today when the automobile in which they were riding overturned two miles west of Clearspring on U. S. route 40.

Both suffered severe head injuries, attendants at Washington county hospital said, and three other men escaped with cuts and bruises.

Frank Pasik, 30, was still unconscious late this afternoon, and his son, Allen, was semi-conscious, the hospital reported.

Thrown from the machine, Frank Pasik struck his head on the highway.

The others, all discharged after treatment, were: Walter Mochanski, 22, the driver; Ray Stawniski, 20, and Walter Jonczak, also of Natrona.

They were enroute to Baltimore.

Stop Educating For Democracy, Dr. Barr Advises

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP) — Dr. Stringfellow Barr, president of St. John's College in Annapolis, Md., today advised the Middle States Association of Colleges and secondary schools to "stop educating for democracy."

Teachers," he said, "have a higher calling than defending the existing system of government—they are called to help liberate the human spirit."

Dr. Barr's remarks were avowedly aimed at State Teachers' Associations which he said devoted their conventions this year to speeches and discussions on how to train children to appreciate democracy.

He said the average college president would continue to educate for democracy "as long as the present trend lasts," but, "if, in the 1040's, the American public should want Fascism, he will educate for Fascism.

What the teachers should do, said Dr. Barr, is to see that youngsters gain first-hand knowledge of the world's greatest books and how the authors' minds worked. He said the modern student was "ignorant" of such books.

As a result, he said, "some of them stop trying to understand the institutions they live under, and try to make money instead."

Army Commanders To Confer with General Staff

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — Nine top-ranking army commanders have been summoned here for an unusual conference with the general staff on the current mass training of the regular army and national guard.

Three lieutenant generals who are commanders of field army organizations and six major generals were directed to attend the conference Nov. 30 to iron out details of the most intense training since the World war. The officers head the nine corps area in the continental United States.

Announcing that the conference had been called, the War Department said today that, with minor exceptions, the concentration of four of five new "streamlined" infantry divisions had been completed at points in the south. The divisions are to be trained as army corps in the spring.

Under one plan to be considered at the conference, the national guard brigade and divisional commanders, key staff officers and certain reserve officers would be given training with the regular army in handling large bodies of troops.

Ciano Confers with Allies Representatives

Rome, Nov. 24. (AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano Italian foreign minister called the attention of the French ambassador and the British charge d'affaires today to the possible consequences which the Allied blockade of German exports might have on Italy's commerce.

Ciano received first the French envoy, Andre Francois-Poncet, then the British charge d'affaires, Sir Noel Charles, to discuss the situation.

The conferences were announced later in an official commnique.

Fascist circles attributed special importance to the meetings since this was the first time in many weeks that an official announcement was made of visits of French or British diplomats to the Italian foreign ministry.

The communique said Ciano received the two envoys, "calling their attention to the consequences which application of the blockade on German exports announced by the French and British governments might have on Italian commerce."

Rumanian Cabinet Formed by Tatarescu

Bucharest, Nov. 24 (AP) —George Tatarescu, fourth premier of Rumania in two months, set up a coalition government tonight, chosing ministers of all shades of political opinion, from anti-Semitic right wingers to Socialists.

The stocky, 53-year-old lawyer, who speaks French, English and German, let it be known his government would continue Rumania's policy of neutrality and good relations with all major powers. Tatarescu was premier under the Liberal party in 1935.

His Turkey Gets Away But He Shoots It

Emmitsburg, Md., Nov. 24. (AP)—A rebellious turkey gave a pilgrim touch to Charles F. Troxell's Thanksgiving.

He and his brother, Henry, both won turkeys from the Emmitsburg fire company.

Henry, occupying an apartment, gave his bird to Charles for safekeeping, but the turkey flew away at execution time.

American Agency Gets Mexican Oil

Mexico City, Nov. 24 (AP) — Officials of Petroleos Mexicanos, government - controlled oil administration, said tonight that negotiations virtually had been completed with a United States concern to dispose of Mexico's entire exportable oil production of about 88,000 barrels a day.

The name of the American agency, the price set, the terms of the contract and other details of the projected agreement were withheld. It was said an official statement might be made later.

It could not be determined whether the American company had contracted to purchase all Mexican oil exports or merely to serve as an agent authorized to sell the nation's full export output.

The new contract, it was understood, would supersede Mexico's contracts with Germany, Italy and South American countries.

Nazis Captured In Raid on French

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—Germany lost "a few prisoners" in an unsuccessful raid on the French line east of the Moselle river, the French high command reported tonight.

The raid noted in the evening high command communique was the only action reported beside the usual "local" artillery actions along the western front.

In the air, the communique said activity had been reduced but the British and French air forces were said to have bagged fourteen Nazi planes in the last two days.

Premier Daladier tonight announced a decision to lift military rule from eight departments facing the Italian border and the Mediterranean island of Corsica, also a French department.

The announcement, following a meeting with his defense chiefs, said the move was designed to facilitate economic activity of the country "as far as is compatible with the present situation."

The decision suspended military rules governing the Riviera coastline and many tourist resorts in the mountains of southeastern France.

May Appeal Case Of Negro Teachers

Annapolis, Nov. 24. (AP)—Decision whether to appeal a federal court decision ordering the Anne Arundel county school board to cease salary discrimination against negro teachers will be made at a meeting of the board December 6.

The school board has not received an official copy of the court order, and cannot reach a decision until its specific terms are known.

If the injunction is made effective immediately, the county must bring the negro teachers' salary scale into parity on the December 1 payday, or be in contempt of court.

If it is decided to appeal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut's order, the appeal would automatically stay the payment of salaries, but the negro teachers would have a retroactive claim for all salaries from the date of the initial order if the appeal is lost by the county school board.

Under state law, the board cannot reduce the salaries of white teachers. If the decision stands, the county must raise the pay of the negro instructors to parity. The order, if not appealed, will cost the county between $30,000 and $40,000 annually, equivalent to a seven-cent increase in the county tax rate.

Eight Injured in Rioting Outside Of Dodge Plant

Twenty-Two Arrested, but 57 Workers Pass Picket Line

Detroit, Nov. 24 (AP)—A barrage of bricks and stones injured eight persons and resulted in twenty-two arrests today but failed to prevent fifty-seven workers from passing a CIO-United Automobile Workers picket line and entering the closed Dodge main plant of Chrysler corporation.

The first mass violence of the fifty-day old contract dispute between the UAW-CIO and the corporation came a few hours before negotiations for settlement were adjourned for the week-end with "no progress" reported.

Arthur E. Rabb, chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board, said that a recess until Monday morning was decided on "in the hope that the parties can produce some new ideas by Monday."

Negotiations have deadlocked on the issues of union wage demands and a demand by the corporation for assurance will not be renewed.

Two policemen were among those injured in the picket-line clash at the Dodge plant, closing of which forced suspension of operations at other Chrysler units and brought idleness to 58,000 Chrysler employes. The injured officers are Lieut. Marvin Berry and Patrolman Thomas Burke. Both suffered head injuries.

Police observers said bricks and stones were hurled from alleys and parking lots by UAW-CIO "flying squadron" members as the workers, mostly negro foundry employes, appeared at the plant this morning. UAW-CIO officials charged that the men tried to use knives. A union leader speaking through an amplifier warned 600 pickets not to participate in the disorder.

The fighting was broken up by police and the workers entered the plant, where they were reported to have started operation of one blast furnace. They left without molestation from pickets this afternoon.

American Vessel Freed by British

New York, Nov. 2 (AP) — The American liner Scanpenn, held twenty-seven days by the British in a contraband search, was freed today at Leith, Scotland, the ship's operators said.

The Scanpenn, 5,152 gross tons, left New York Oct. 17 with eleven passengers for Nergen, Oslo, Gothenburg and Copenhagen. She was stopped by British naval vessels and taken into Kirkwall on Oct. 28. On Nov. 12 she was taken to Leith.

Officials of the American Scantic line said they assumed that the vessel was taken to Leith because the British wanted to remove some of her cargo there. No official word has been received here from England.

The Scanpenn was sold recently to Brazil and was making her last trip as an American vessel.

Parole of Prisoner Spoils Auto Plates

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 24. (AP)—When a convict behaves himself he can't be kept in prison indefinitely—even if he is an expert in the process of "baking" the paint on the state's automobile license plates.

That, in effect, was assistant state purchasing agent Frank Tanner's explanation today for the numbers on many 1939 tags fading and becoming almost indistinguishable.

Answering numerous complaints, including one from Louisville police that the faded tags hampered law enforcement, Tanner explained:

A life termer in the state prison, where the plates are made, "baked" the paint on the plates for nearly twelve years.

Last year he was released on parole. His successor didn't bake the plates enough.

"We saw to it the 1940 plates were well baked," Tanner said. "They are perfect."

And Judge Hints He May Rule Out Remainder Monday

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—Five of the prosecution's ten counts against Fritz Kuhn were dismissed today, leaving him charged with the misappropriation from his German-American bund of $1,217 instead of $5,641, and Judge James G. Wallace indicated that not even all of the other five were certain to be left to the jury.

For he remarked from the bench late in the day amid a legal discussion among counsel after both sides had rested that these remaining counts would be allowed to stand—"unless I change my mind by Monday."

The last major witness had been Kuhn's erstwhile "golden angel," Mrs. Florence Camp, a blonde divorcee who twisted her fingers and gave the stout bundsfuehrer a single, chill glance as she took the stand.

She Contradicts Kuhn

Mrs. Camp, fashionably turned out in a short fur jacket and a bustle-back dress, contradicted Kuhn sharply upon some points in his own testimony—particularly his contention that he had simply been "very, very friendly" with her.

She insisted that he not only had proposed marriage to her—although he was and is a married man—but that he'd given her a $240 platinum engagement ring in San Francisco last year and had urged upon her the divorce she obtained from Charles Camp.

Nevertheless, she gave some support to the bundsman upon his major contention that the $700-odd which he acknowledged having spent from the bund's funds in transporting her furniture about the country was repaid by her and that he in turn reimbursed the bund's account.

She testified that on various occasions she had given him a total of $600.

Gave Out His Letters

She acknowledged that she had made available to the prosecution three breathless love letters written to her by Kuhn, in which he called her not only his "golden angel," but his "darling sweetheart" and other endearing terms.

It was this fact—that the "angel" herself had allowed these notes to be made public—which caused Kuhn to turn upon her Wednesday and declare from the stand that she was not the "fine lady" he had thought she was.

As she began her testimony today he reddened painfully, but in a few minutes he had turned away and began a chat with one of his lawyers.

Congress May Act

The war-time operation of the trade agreements with the United Kingdom and France may be a subject of discussion in the next session of Congress. The trade agreements act, under which these and other pacts were negotiated, is due to expire next June 12 and if the administration puts in a bill for its renewal an extended discussion of the program in general is expected.

Secretary of State Hull made clear today his firm conviction that the program should be continued. Although he did not commit himself on the question of waging a fight for its reenactment at the next session, he described the program as an indispensable cornerstone for any lasting world peace.

Canada Spending Huge Sum for War

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (AP) — Finance Minister J. L. Ralston tonight estimated at $315,000,000 the cost of Canada's war effort for the first year—almost fifty percent greater than her expenditures in the last war up to March, 1916.

The finance minister, in a radio address, said the government soon would start construction of a fleet of anti-submarine craft. He added that discussions also were under way looking toward possible construction in Canada of larger ships.

The war supply board, Ralston asserted, now has Canadian contracts for $25,000,000 worth of war supplies, $9,000,000 in the United Kingdom, and $10,000,000 for airplanes in the United States.

Communist Puts Up Bonds for Bail

New York, Nov. 24 (AP) —Robert W. Wiener, national treasurer of the Communist party in the United States, was arraigned in federal court today on a warrant describing him as a material witness in the government's inquiry into alleged passport irregularities.

He was released on $2,000 bail, furnished when he deposited U. S. government bonds belonging to the Communist party committee.

CHILDREN RAISE SHEEP TO MEET WAR DEMANDS

Explosive and electrical experts—all sorts of scientists—were concentrating on finding a counter-weapon to the mines. In addition, trawlermen have stepped up their efforts to sweep the sea lanes clear of the explosives.

In the air, German warplanes continued flights over the far-north Shetland islands. Two visits today raised to eight the month's total of such flights. No bombs were dropped.

With Britain now determined to attack German exports as a retaliatory step, an order in council authorizing the seizure of such corgoes on the high seas, even in neutral ships, was expected next Tuesday.

In the case of two British intelligence agents seized by Germany earlier this month, authoritative sources here said the men, Captain Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best, were endeavoring to see whether a German "peace offer was bonafide" at the time they were "kidnaped" at Venloo, on the Netherlands-German border, on Nov. 9.

A spokesman said the "peace proposals" came from "some German sources." Their nature was not revealed.

Germany Claims Heavy Damage to Belfast

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER

Berlin, Nov. 24 (AP) — The German high command proclaimed today a new success in submarine warfare against the British navy, heavy damage to the new cruiser Belfast in the Firth of Forth in the second serious raid on that base.

(The Belfast, a vessel of 10,000 tons, was launched March 17, 1938.)

The British decision to seize German exports drew the warning from one official that "our principle of conducting the war, namely firing ten shots back for every shot against us, will be used in the economic sphere also."

Claim Mastery of Air

Nazis asserted they had mastery of the air over France and Britain, following four days of connected aerial activity, and control of waters close to the British East coast.

Cancellation of the winter Olympic games scheduled for February, 1940, in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, coincidentally was seen as an indication they expected the war to last through the winter.

German spirits rose when the high command reported a submarine had entered the Firth of Forth and torpedoed the Belfast.

In an air raid on the strategic Scottish base on Oct. 16, three warships were bombed.

Casualties on Three Ships

(Casualties occurred aboard the cruisers Southampton and Edinburgh and the destroyer Mohawk in that attack; the British announced at the time the damage to the warships was superficial. Only two days before a German submarine penetrated the Scapa Flow naval base and sank the battleship Royal Oak.)

With the sinking of numerous neutral ships near the English coast by mines in the last week, Nazis told neutrals through the press that no free shipping lanes to England existed.

They advised them to adopt the United States plan of cash and carry "as the only solution of their difficulties."

The plan was frowned upon before the United States adopted it but there has been an inclination in officialdom to regard it less pessimistically since it began functioning.

There was no direct admission that the mines of the British coast were German but it was stated officially Germany had a right to lay them there if she desired.

Nazis Exploit Sinking

The reported torpedoing of the Belfast also was used by the Nazis to back their contention Germany controlled Britain's own waters.

One official said glee over the reported Firth of Forth raid was all the greater because of "Churchill's recent statement harbor defenses had been strengthened threefold since the successful submarine raid on Scapa Flow."

Officials said a four-day air campaign, during which "most of France and parts of England were flown over without loss," proved German superiority had been established as previously had been done in Poland.

The high command in its communique today on yesterday's activity said German warplanes had downed two allied planes and anti-aircraft fire accounted for a third; no German casualties were given.)

(In contrast, a French communique said eight German planes were shot down Thursday with the loss of only one French plane.)

Sale of "Nips" Is Upheld by Board

Baltimore, Nov. 24 (AP)—Refusing to ban the sale of "nips", the city board of liquor license commissioners said today "no evidence whatever" had been found that children consume the contents of miniature liquor bottles in the public schools.

The commissioners' statement that they saw no reason to prohibit the sale of miniatures ended a three-months investigation launched after a saloon keepers' association and "dry" forces demanded a ban on "nips" with the assertion they were sold to children.

"If miniatures are sold to minors, the answer is not to abolish miniatures, but to abolish sales to minors," said Chairman Charles T. Le Viness and the associate commissioners, Dr. Joseph L. Valentini and C. Delano Ames.

Pointing out that state law prohibits sale of liquor to persons under twenty-one, the commissioners said it would be "a left-handed approach" to ban "one class of beverages or one size of bottle because they get into the hands of youngsters."

Province. This "lifeline" was built by China as the Japanese invaders successively captured the coastal ports, China's normal gateways to the outside world.

The Chinese said they expected the invaders to build an air base at Nanning, and attempt from there there to harass Kunming, capital to Yunnan, 280 miles to the northwest.

A motor road runs from Chungking to Kunming, where the "lifeline" forks by rail to Hanoi, Indo-China, and by new motor highway to Burma.

Baby Girl Begins Strange Experiment

Oakdale, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP) — A red-haired, blue-eyed, five-months-old baby today began a strange experiment at the hands of the royal fraternity of master metaphysicians to prove, their leader said, "that immortality can be actually achieved, not as a ghost or spirit."

In this experiment the child never will hear death or disease spoken of, and her diet and training will be rigidly controlled, to demonstrate, James B. Schafer, leader of the fellowship explained, "that man is an immortal being."

The baby's parents, poverty-stricken, asked that Schafer adopt the child. Adoption proceedings now are underway, Schafer said.

Jean—her last name was not disclosed—is being cared for by a private nurse in the former room of Consuela Vanderbilt, in the 110 room one-time Vanderbilt mansion on Long Island which was obtained by the fraternity in January, 1938. It is now known as Peace Haven.

Schafer and hsi fellow-followers believe illness and death are caused by destructive thinking.

pedoes from the air. They weigh a ton or more with their complicated propelling machinery and deadly "war heads" containing 300 pounds or so of high explosive. They cost around $10,000 each.

That Nazi "torpedo planes" have not struck before now to duplicate the feat of the German U-boat which penetrated the defenses of Scapa Flow and sank the British battleship Royal Oak at anchor has caused some surprise in naval circles. It may be that the cost and the uncertainty of results have held back that development of the Nazi effort to break the British blockade.

Now that Franco-British air patrols are on the alert it will be increasingly difficult for Nazi flying mine planters to reach their goal. Their is a tendency among military experts to ascribe the initial success of the reported German mine attack, whether laid down from the air or from U-boats, to the surprise factor.

It is recalled that ship losses during the first month of the war were explained in London as due to submarines "planted" by Germany before the war. Once that surprise attack had been met by mobilization of allied anti-submarine forces and adoption of convoy methods, the U-boats bag dwindled. Whether the surprise mine attack can be hailed as quickly is a vital question to which nobody can yet give the answer certainly, although neutral experts tend to believe that it can be curbed.

Navy's Policy of Secrecy Blamed for Ships Defects Probe

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Army and Navy Journal says in an editorial to be published tomorrow that the Navy's "policy of secrecy" was to blame for Congressional proposals for an inquiry into admitted defects in twelve new destroyers.

The service periodical asserted that "suppression of information" about the destroyers had cost the navy both public confidence and congressional support.

"The navy department is discovering that it does not pay to observe the tactics of the ostrich," the Journal comments. "To correct the impression regarding the defects of the new destroyers, it was forced to ask the president to ridicule their importance, and it is now facing a congressional investigation."

Charles Edison, acting secretary of the navy, told Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) recently in response to an inquiry that several vessels were found to lack desired stability, but that the faults would be corrected. They were twelve destroyers of the Anderson class. Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) said subsequently that he would demand a congressional inquiry

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 24 (AP)—A Natrona, Pa., man and his two-year old son were critically injured early today when the automobile in which they were riding overturned two miles west of Clearspring on U. S. route 40.

Both suffered severe head injuries, attendants at Washington county hospital said, and three other men escaped with cuts and bruises.

Frank Pasik, 30, was still unconscious late this afternoon, and his son, Allen, was semi-conscious, the hospital reported.

Thrown from the machine, Frank Pasik struck his head on the highway.

The others, all discharged after treatment, were: Walter Mochanski, 22, the driver; Ray Stawniski, 20, and Walter Jonczak, also of Natrona.

They were enroute to Baltimore.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP) — Dr. Stringfellow Barr, president of St. John's College in Annapolis, Md., today advised the Middle States Association of Colleges and secondary schools to "stop educating for democracy."

Teachers," he said, "have a higher calling than defending the existing system of government—they are called to help liberate the human spirit."

Dr. Barr's remarks were avowedly aimed at State Teachers' Associations which he said devoted their conventions this year to speeches and discussions on how to train children to appreciate democracy.

He said the average college president would continue to educate for democracy "as long as the present trend lasts," but, "if, in the 1040's, the American public should want Fascism, he will educate for Fascism.

What the teachers should do, said Dr. Barr, is to see that youngsters gain first-hand knowledge of the world's greatest books and how the authors' minds worked. He said the modern student was "ignorant" of such books.

As a result, he said, "some of them stop trying to understand the institutions they live under, and try to make money instead."

Army Commanders To Confer with General Staff

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — Nine top-ranking army commanders have been summoned here for an unusual conference with the general staff on the current mass training of the regular army and national guard.

Three lieutenant generals who are commanders of field army organizations and six major generals were directed to attend the conference Nov. 30 to iron out details of the most intense training since the World war. The officers head the nine corps area in the continental United States.

Announcing that the conference had been called, the War Department said today that, with minor exceptions, the concentration of four of five new "streamlined" infantry divisions had been completed at points in the south. The divisions are to be trained as army corps in the spring.

Under one plan to be considered at the conference, the national guard brigade and divisional commanders, key staff officers and certain reserve officers would be given training with the regular army in handling large bodies of troops.

Ciano Confers with Allies Representatives

Rome, Nov. 24. (AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano Italian foreign minister called the attention of the French ambassador and the British charge d'affaires today to the possible consequences which the Allied blockade of German exports might have on Italy's commerce.

Ciano received first the French envoy, Andre Francois-Poncet, then the British charge d'affaires, Sir Noel Charles, to discuss the situation.

The conferences were announced later in an official commnique.

Fascist circles attributed special importance to the meetings since this was the first time in many weeks that an official announcement was made of visits of French or British diplomats to the Italian foreign ministry.

The communique said Ciano received the two envoys, "calling their attention to the consequences which application of the blockade on German exports announced by the French and British governments might have on Italian commerce."

Rumanian Cabinet Formed by Tatarescu

Bucharest, Nov. 24 (AP) —George Tatarescu, fourth premier of Rumania in two months, set up a coalition government tonight, chosing ministers of all shades of political opinion, from anti-Semitic right wingers to Socialists.

The stocky, 53-year-old lawyer, who speaks French, English and German, let it be known his government would continue Rumania's policy of neutrality and good relations with all major powers. Tatarescu was premier under the Liberal party in 1935.

His Turkey Gets Away But He Shoots It

Emmitsburg, Md., Nov. 24. (AP)—A rebellious turkey gave a pilgrim touch to Charles F. Troxell's Tranksgiving.

He and his brother, Henry, both won turkeys from the Emmitsburg fire company.

Henry, occupying an apartment, gave his bird to Charles for safekeeping, but the turkey flew away at execution time.

American Agency Gets Mexican Oil

Mexico City, Nov. 24 (AP) — Officials of Petroleos Mexicanos, government - controlled oil administration, said tonight that negotiations virtually had been completed with a United States concern to dispose of Mexico's entire exportable oil production of about 88,000 barrels a day.

The name of the American agency, the price set, the terms of the contract and other details of the projected agreement were withheld. It was said an official statement might be made later.

It could not be determined whether the American company had contracted to purchase all Mexican oil exports or merely to serve as an agent authorized to sell the nation's full export output.

Nazis Captured In Raid on French

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—Germany lost "a few prisoners" in an unsuccessful raid on the French line east of the Moselle river, the French high command reported tonight.

The raid noted in the evening high command communique was the only action reported beside the usual "local" artillery actions along the western front.

In the air, the communique said activity had been reduced but the British and French air forces were said to have bagged fourteen Nazi planes in the last two days.

Premier Daladier tonight announced a decision to lift military rule from eight departments facing the Italian border and the Mediterranean island of Corsica, also a French department.

The announcement, following a meeting with his defense chiefs, said the move was designed to facilitate economic activity of the country "as far as is compatible with the present situation."

The decision suspended military rules governing the Riviera coastline and many tourist resorts in the mountains of southeastern France.

May Appeal Case Of Negro Teachers

Annapolis, Nov. 24. (AP)—Decision whether to appeal a federal court decision ordering the Anne Arundel county school board to cease salary discrimination against negro teachers will be made at a meeting of the board December 6.

The school board has not received an official copy of the court order, and cannot reach a decision until its specific terms are known.

If the injunction is made effective immediately, the county must bring the negro teachers' salary scale into parity on the December 1 payday, or be in contempt of court.

If it is decided to appeal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut's order, the appeal would automatically stay the payment of salaries, but the negro teachers would have a retroactive claim for all salaries from the date of the initial order if the appeal is lost by the county school board.

Under state law, the board cannot reduce the salaries of white teachers. If the decision stands, the county must raise the pay of the negro instructors to parity. The order, if not appealed, will cost the county between $30,000 and $40,000 annually, equivalent to a seven-cent increase in the county tax rate.

Three Football Games Are Listed For Radio Today

Music in Variety Will Be Heard Today and Tomorrow

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, Nov. 24—Only a few more weekends to go and football for 1939 will be at an end. Meanwhile for tomorrow three games are on the list, with two networks concentrating on a single contest. The lineup:

WJZ-NBC 1:30 p. m.—Yale vs. Harvard.

WEAF-NBC — WABC-CBS 2:15—Notre Dame vs. Southern California.

MBS 2:45—Nebraska vs. Oklahoma.

For the fifth of his series of Six Beethoven programs, Arturo Toscanini is to direct the NBC symphony orchestra for WJZ-NBC at 10 p. m. in this concert: Leonore Overture No. 1, Lento and scherzo movements from quartet in F major. Eighth symphony in F major and Leonore overture No. 2.

Early Composers

Another of the day's concerts, that on WABC-CBS at 11:05 a. m. by the Cincinnati conservatory of music, will comprise string and voice compositions by early Italian and English composers and the Mendelssohn string octet.

The People's Platform of WABC-CBS at 7 p. m. is going to concern itself with the fight overseas by arguing the question, "Should the United States mediate the Europe war?"

Scheduled for the WEAF-NBC and MBS chains at 4:15 p. m. Sunday is a relay from London of a talk by Prime Minister Chamberlain. He is expected to discuss developments in the war.

Other discussion: WEAF - NBC 2:30 Chicago roundtable "Propaganda;" WOR-MBS 8 American Forum, "Neutrality Act and the Merchant Marine," Rep. Sol Bloom and others.

Europe Sunday schedule: NBC-CHAINS 8 a. m.; WABC-CBS 9 a. m., 7, 8:55, 11 p. m.; WEAF-NBC 1:15, 3:30. 11; WJZ-NBC 7:15, 10.

Because the New York Philharmonic orchestra will be presenting its WABC-CBS broadcast from Chicago the time of the program has been changed to 3:30.

Three Football Games Are Listed For Radio Today

Music in Variety Will Be Heard Today and Tomorrow

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

New York, Nov. 24—Only a few more weekends to go and football for 1939 will be at an end. Meanwhile for tomorrow three games are on the list, with two networks concentrating on a single contest. The lineup:

WJZ-NBC 1:30 p. m.—Yale vs. Harvard.

WEAF-NBC — WABC-CBS 2:15—Notre Dame vs. Southern California.

MBS 2:45—Nebraska vs. Oklahoma.

For the fifth of his series of Six Beethoven programs, Arturo Toscanini is to direct the NBC symphony orchestra for WJZ-NBC at 10 p. m. in this concert: Leonore Overture No. 1, Lento and scherzo movements from quartet in F major. Eighth symphony in F major and Leonore overture No. 2.

Early Composers

Another of the day's concerts, that on WABC-CBS at 11:05 a. m. by the Cincinnati conservatory of music, will comprise string and voice compositions by early Italian and English composers and the Mendelssohn string octet.

The People's Platform of WABC-CBS at 7 p. m. is going to concern itself with the fight overseas by arguing the question, "Should the United States mediate the Europe war?"

Scheduled for the WEAF-NBC and MBS chains at 4:15 p. m. Sunday is a relay from London of a talk by Prime Minister Chamberlain. He is expected to discuss developments in the war.

Other discussion: WEAF - NBC 2:30 Chicago roundtable "Propaganda;" WOR-MBS 8 American Forum, "Neutrality Act and the Merchant Marine," Rep. Sol Bloom and others.

Europe Sunday schedule: NBC-CHAINS 8 a. m.; WABC-CBS 9 a. m., 7, 8:55, 11 p. m.; WEAF-NBC 1:15, 3:30, 11; WJZ-NBC 7:15, 10.

Because the New York Philharmonic orchestra will be presenting its WABC-CBS broadcast from Chicago the time of the program has been changed to 3:30.

Music Specialties

More Music; WEAF-NBC 11:30 a. m. Music and American Youth, Ilion, N. Y., high school a capella choir; WOR-MBS 12 noon Perole string quartet; WABC-CBS 2:30 p. m. So You Think You Know Music guest Moriz Rosenthal, 77-year-old musician; WJZ-NBC 5:30 Opera audition speaker Edward Johnson; WJZ-NBC 6 Budapest string quartet; WABC-CBS 9, Sunday Evening hour, guest Marian Anderson, noted negro singer.

In the field of drama: WJZ-NBC 2 Great Plays, Shakespeare's Macbeth; WABC-CBS 6 Conrad Nagel theater, William Powell guest; WABC-CBS 7:30 Helen Hayes and Frederic March in Screen Guild; WABC-CBS 8 (west at 10); Orson Welles play, "Dodsworth" with Fay Bainter and Nan Sunderland.

At 7:45 a program premiere is "This Week's Tunes," in which new songs are to be introduced by Bob Stanley's orchestra and Patricia Ryan's voice.

The fiercest mosquitos known are found in the Arctic regions in the summer.

Where Common Sense Is Needed

THE CURRENT COST of United States national defense, on an annual basis, is about $1,500,000,000. The armed services, if President Roosevelt approves, will seek to have this sum doubled at the next session of Congress.

The War department alone wants a total annual appropriation of $1,700,000,000, part of which would be used to forward a plan for equipping a force of 1,000,000 men. The naval budget would be revised upward to a total of $1,300,000,000. Thus the total annual cost of national defense would reach the unprecedented sum of $3,000,000,000, and this quite apart from the project to increase our naval tonnage twenty-five per cent within five years at a cost of $1,300,000,000.

There is not much doubt that these sums, or sums close to them, will be appropriated or authorized. Congress is in the mood to arm, and public sentiment supports the congressional thesis. Adequate national defense all of us want. It is to be hoped, however, that those in control of the armed services will not abuse this public sentiment, will not take advantage of public feeling to seek an expansion that goes further than practical defense requires.

Generals and admirals have professional enthusiasm for large and impressive establishments. That can be well understood. Federal Budget Director H. D. Smith appeals for "common sense," however, in resisting extravagant defense expenditures. The $1,500,000,000 now being spent and billions still to come, are charges upon the public purse. Where are these huge sums to be obtained, except from the pocketbook of each of us?

Part of these sums could be obtained through savings elsewhere, but that seems like a forlorn hope. Chairman Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board, believes that national defense should be financed not through borrowing but through increased revenues—that is, increased taxation. Mr. Eccles's plan would bring home to the mass of the people just how much government is costing.

If we want adequate national defense—and all of us do—we're going to have to dig up the cash. Congress is liable to postpone increases in taxation, this being the eve of a presidential campaign, but sooner or later the defense bill will have to be paid.

As Dr. Roswell Magill, former undersecretary of the treasury, points out, our national debt is now thirty times as high as it was before the World war, and our general financial position is weak, considering the present great cost of national defense and the vast expenditures that would be required should the United States become a belligerent. We are approaching our statutory debt limit of $45,000,000,000 now, and our national defense program will speed us toward that limit.

It is, therefore, reassuring to be told that Congress will scrutinize requests for expansion of the armed services to make certain that a line is drawn between what is adequate and what is extravagant and wasteful.

Not a Bottomless Pit

BILLIONS do not mean much in this day of huge governmental expenditures. The average reader, upon seeing twelve figures in a row, scarcely raises his eyebrows. The vastness of the sum simply doesn't register. It is accepted as something quite ordinary and not in the least surprising.

B. C. Forbes, distinguished author and publisher, has told the story of political spending in such a way as to arouse the average citizen from his state of lethargy, the following points being characteristic:

Every time you draw a breath the government at Washington spends $717.

The cost of the Panama canal ($375,000,000) is spent every twenty days of the New Deal.

Foreign nations owed the United States $13,670,087,391 in May 1936 (more now, of course). The government spent that amount in a little more than two years of President Roosevelt's first term.

Perhaps even this graphic and pointed way of presenting the size and scope of the nation's spending spree will fail to make much of an impression. But it should give pause for thought among politicians who seem to have been operating on the theory that America's treasury is a pit from which money can be constantly drawn without ever reaching bottom.

Deserving of Support

THE FIGHT begun in Congress by Representative Frank O. Horton, Republican, of Wyoming, to prevent the addition of new acreage to our national parks without the approval of the legislatures of the states in which the affected land lies, is likely to win strong popular support, especially in the eleven western public land states.

Interior department statistics show that the national park acreage was more than doubled under the New Deal between 1933 and 1938—from 542,321 acres to 1,107,292 acres.

Not only does national park land, in common with all federally owned land, pay no taxes, but no agricultural, commercial, grazing or industrial activity is permitted in national park areas. In this it differs from forest reserve land which may be used for grazing, timber cutting and other profitable enterprise.

The burden which expansion of national park areas superimposes upon the tax burden already borne by the taxpayers in the eleven public land states is evident from the following figures which show the percentage of public, and hence, tax exempt land, in each of these states:

Washington, thirty-two per cent; Oregon, forty-six per cent; California, thirty-nine per cent; Arizona, sixty-three per cent; Nevada, eighty-two per cent; Idaho, fifty-eight per cent; Montana, thirty-four per cent; Utah, sixty per cent; Wyoming, forty-two per cent; Colorado, thirty-three per cent and New Mexico, thirty-five per cent.

The fight which Mr. Horton has undertaken is a fight for the preservation of state's rights, the curbing of bureaucracy in Washington and the easing of the tax burden upon a people who are staggering under the weight of levies made necessary by the New Deal's reckless spending.

Sea Frightfulness

SINKING by sea mines of twenty-five ships in one week, in waters adjacent to British ports, writes a shocking chapter into the marine history of the war in Europe. The quick sinking of the Dutch liner Simon Bolivar, bound from Amsterdam to the Dutch West Indies, with a large loss of life, including many women and children, was a major sea horror. As in all these sinkings, there were numerous injuries owing to the violence of the explosions.

No nation appears immune to attack in this latest outbreak of international banditry on the high seas. Ships sunk flew the flags of Britain, Italy, Holland, Japan, Yugo-Slavia, Norway, Sweden and Lithuania.

If the British charge is sustainable, a new example of terrorism in modern war has presented itself—indiscriminate mine-laying by submarines. That German mines or submarines could have been responsible is denied by the Nazis, naturally. They will probably deny, when they get around to it, that Germany invaded Czechoslovakia, Poland or Austria.

The British admiralty says all its mines have a safety device required by international law rendering them non-explosive after they break away from their moorings.

Disasters, open to conjectures of such diabolical intent, speak volumes for the American action which, despite the commercial sacrifice, keeps American ships out of the danger zone.

Out of Place

THE WAGGISHNESS, or puckishness, or whatever you may call it, on the part of Mr. Roosevelt in regard to the third term idea has depressed a number of his supporters in the national capital, according to Frank R. Kent, Baltimore Sun columnist.

According to Kent, there remains only one of the New Deal writers who still insists that a third term is "inevitable." Two of the more conspicuous New Deal columnists, he says, have reached the point where they are plainly annoyed by the president's "frivolity" on the subject and are appealing to him to leave off the punning and the pranking and get down to brass tacks. Instead of responding, Kent says, "Mr. Roosevelt inserts little tricks in his speeches and laughs uproariously over his smartness."

In view of the fact that serious problems effecting the welfare of the nation are calling for attention and solution, it seems pertinent to indulge in the observation that there is possibly too much of that sort of clowning at this time and in the high place where it occurs.

Three Remedies

THREE PROPOSALS for ending unemployment were advanced at a conference the other day at Indianapolis on the subject held under the sponsorship of the American Legion and attended by representatives of labor, industry, government, agriculture and education.

An industrial leader suggested a revival of the spirit of enterprise, an economist asserted that the remedy is increased production through encouragement of long-time investments and a federal government executive proposed a broadening of the purchasing base by reducing prices through improved technique.

The first two proposals are practical and based on experience; the third, like so many of those broached by government jobholders, seems rather hazy standing by itself but not so hazy when considered as a natural consequent of the other two.

Broadway theater enjoying revival—says a headline. We knew all along that the only way to wake up show business was to give the public plays which wouldn't cause 'em to fall asleep.

Here's one thing all of us—including Great Britain and France—are quick to admit: Herr Hitler certainly talks a very, very tough war.

He Did Have a Nervous Breakdown

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I know a dog that had a nervous breakdown. You say, perhaps, that a dog can't have a nervous breakdown. Only human beings can suffer such a thing. . . Human beings whose desires outrun their powers, who eat when they aren't hungry, drink when they aren't thirsty, work when they should be sleeping, sleep when they ought to be up and doing. . .

Marshall Maslin

But this dog did have a nervous breakdown. I know he did.

He's an affectionate little wire-haired terrier and until a few months ago he had always lived in a house. . . But circumstances which the family could not control made it impossible for him to be in the house for some time. So he was kept in the yard. . . It was dry out there. His little house was warm enough. But he didn't get as much attention as formerly. He wasn't the center of an adoring family. And he felt neglected.

So he took to whining at night. He screamed. He became jumpy and nervous and he snapped at his friends. . . They decided he was sick and took him to a dog hospital for observation. But instead of improving he grew worse, and at last the dog doctor said:

"There's nothing physically wrong with this dog. He has no disease, but he needs attention. If you want to save his life take him home, keep him in the house, pet him, let him live with you again. Take him into your arms and talk affectionately to him, and he'll be his old self again inside of a week."

So the family did that. They took him into the house again, petted him, played with him, let him sleep inside again. . . And now he's their nice old dog again. . . Happy. Rollicking. Playful. Gentle. At ease. And glad to be alive in a household of friends.

Perhaps a dog can't have a nervous breakdown. . . But if he can't, then what did THAT dog have? Tell me that.

The Human Side Of the News

BY EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

Dr. Charles Francis Potter, a believer in telepathy, is convinced that the faculty can be used to solve hitherto inexplicable mysteries. Perhaps it may yet be tried in the mysterious case of the disappearance of Justice Joseph Force Crater, everything else having failed.

Down in Duke University, Professor Joseph B. Rhine has for years been conducting remarkable experiments to prove the existence of telepathic phenomena. Dr. Alexis Carrel, in his book, "Man, the Unknown" asserts that the telepathic faculty, though rare, is a normal activity of the human being.

A short time ago, a little man in Hungary mystified the psychologists with astounding feats of telepathy. This man, Dr. Frank Polnar, of the University of Budapest, penetrates secret thoughts and bares mysteries as easily as you would peel an orange. How does he do it? He doesn't know. The psychologists don't know. The secret of telepathy, of thought transference, remains unsolved, although great intelligences, like Dr. Carrel's, are at work on that stupendous problem now.

Known by Witch Doctors

We have heard a lot of talk about television in the past few years, but with the witch doctors and doctresses of Africa have known it, or something incredibly like it, for hundreds of years. Science is gradually, almost reluctantly, Dr. Carrel intimates, coming to the conclusion that there are latent powers awaiting the application of simple natural laws—laws which the white man, in his furious scramble between the cradle and the grave, has forgotten, but which are still instinctive among older, more primitive peoples nestling close to the great heart of nature.

You'd be astonished if you knew how the jungle drum beat in the heart of New York, and the witch-doctors work their charms. Our skyscrapers, our automobiles, all of our swift conformity and change, give us a false sense of modernity, of severance with the past. But it is not so. In some dark, cold-water walkup, in the shadow of those same skyscrapers, you can find an obi man and a voodoo doctor, and conjure the drone of street traffic into the soft thudding of tom-toms.

The Sum of Yesterdays

We are, indeed, the sum of all our yesterdays, as the fearful plight of Europe proves today. Millions would not be facnig each other, at this moment, guns in hand, were it not for an age-old heritage of hatreds, of feudal and dynastic rivalries, infinitely antagonistic cultures, a legacy of tarnished glories, moonshine, poetry, tattered romance, warring philosophies, and forever renewed faiths, heresies and conformities.

The main trouble with the past—as we are finding out once more—is that it cannot be jettisoned. Man continues in this somewhat dubious age of reason to live by the fearfully expensive method of trial and error. But down there at the bottom of the well Truth still dwells. And there's no use to quit dredging for it just because we are apt to haul up a dead cat or an old rubber boot.

With such thoughts in mind, I happen to note that a young man named Norvell, an astrologer, who dispenses with black cats, black robes ornamented with mysterious symbols, a skull or two and other abracadabra of the witch-doctor's racket, but who perform professionally in fashionably-cut clothing, has Hollywood all agog and pop-eyed with his prophecies and predictions.

Violent End for Hitler

His latest is that Adolf Hitler will meet a tragic fate in a matter of months. Death, says Norvell, may come to Hitler from an assassin or by a battle wound, or even by suicide. His end will be sudden and violent, amid confusion. The Spring of 1940, according to the seer of Hollywood, is the period of worst affliction in Hitler's chart, but, in any event, he cannot survive 1940. His successor—Goering or whomever it may be—will find the Germans growing more restless and finally attempting a revolt against him. Outcome not stated.

Also, according to Mr. Norvell vic-

FIRST FRUITS OF THE REORGANIZATION

Real Path to Peace, Economic Relief, Is Being Destroyed by Present War

By MARK SULLIVAN

At a motion-picture theater last night there was a news-real. It is being seen, presumably, in practically all motion-picture theaters.

Mark Sullivan

The pictures were taken by a young man on an American ship, the "Independence Hall." The "Independence Hall" received a radio message, "attacked by submarine." The "Independence Hall" hurried to the scene. It found, not one ship sinking, but two. The picture showed one ship, "City of Mandalay," in the act of sinking—the audience saw it break in the middle, and the two ends go down. The picture showed crews and passengers in lifeboats, others swimming. It showed these victims being brought on board the "Independence Hall." There were many photographs of victims on the deck of the "Independence Hall" — victims wounded, life-belts stained with blood, victims dazed, young children whose parents had been lost, parents whose children had been lost.

The impression by these photographs on one American, is likely to be made on others.

Neutral Ships Sunk

Here is the ocean. It is like a road. It is supposed to be safe for those who travel on it. But in one large section of this ocean highway, like a crowded street crossing, groups of persons come out in boats called submarines, which travel beneath the water, out of sight. These submarines shoot torpedoes, which sink ships, in many cases, without warning. The submarine belong to a nation which is at war, Nazi Germany. Not only do they sink ships of their enemies, the British and French. On this ocean cross-roads have been sunk ships of neutrals, of Holland, of Norway, of Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Japan, Greece, even little Jugo-Slavia. Presumably they have been sunk by German submarines or mines—certainly they have been sunk by one combatant or another, intentionally or unintentionally.

They have sunk no ship of the United States, because we have adopted a policy of not letting our ships go near that ocean cross-roads. We, by law, say to American owners of ships, "If you send a ship near that ocean cross-roads, we will put you in jail five years, or fine you $50,000, or both."

Their Need Greater

The other neutrals continue to send ships through that dangerous cross-roads. Some of the neutrals do this because their need is greater than ours—Holland, Denmark, Belgium, most use that cross-road if they are to live. Yet other neutrals, such as Greece and Japan, continue to send ships there, either because they are less altruistic for peace than we, or because they are more willing to take risks. These neutrals could say, if they choose to, that they continue to send their ships because they have a right to—and under international law they do have this right.

But even if it is not our ships that are sunk, Americans who see this news-reel are apt to feel emotion about it. This is not necessarily to say that America should abond its policy about ships—that, alone, would not settle anything permanently. It is by no means to say that America should take part in this war. That we should not go to war is the judgement of the best wisdom America has. Possibly many, by this phrase "go to war" mean send an American army abroad. That, America will not do. Whether American public opinion, after a time, and after and if an American ship is sunk in some distant part of the ocean to which our ships go—whether American public opinion would sanction use of our navy to protect our ships, is another question.

Would Not Seem Adequate

But even if we should even do that, it would not seem adequate for the condition pictured by the news-reel. Nothing in the form of war seems adequate. Merely to make the present war a bigger war does not seem adequate. We did that in the Great war, and it did not settle anything, as we now sadly know.

Yet a question is posed. It is a bigger question than can be answered by one person who happened to see a newsreel. The question must be in the minds of millions. But nowhere does anyone seem to have the answer.

Far from having an answer, the statesmen of the world and the world's leaders of thought show by their utterances that the answer is not in sight. Any reader of contemporary outgivings in all parts of the world finds in the more thoughtful utterances a common trait. All seem to say this is not an ordinary war. All seem to say that out of this war must come somehting more than an ordinary treaty of peace between combatants.

Hull's Peace Formula

Almost every important tendency in the world points the same way. One of the most conscientious statesmen in the contemporary world is Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He had, some years ago, before the war began, a formula for world peace. This formula, here repeated from memory, ran thus: a fundamental cause of war is economic distress of peoples. Hence the largest contribution to world peace would be to bring about economic well-being. Mr. Hull recommended expansion of trade between nations, reduction of those barriers which impede world trade.

But this path toward peace, assuming it is sound, is being destroyed by the war. A major strategy of combatants on both sides works to reduce the quantity of trade between nations, not only trade with combatants but trade of neutrals with each other. Today comes news from Argentina, that as a consequence of war conditions, it must buy less from the United States. That is but one example of a universal tendency, affecting all nations. The world as a fabric is falling to pieces, each nation becoming, by necessity or hard choice, self-contained.

One feels all this must not go on. But how change it?

Capone a Good Sermon Topic

From the Fairmont, W. Va., Times

Only a few years ago, Al Capone was "king" of America's underworld. He ruled the lives of thousands of hoodlums and terrorized business men and police authorities. He substituted his own laws for the laws of the land and for a time got away with it. His mansion in Florida was his castle. He rolled in money.

A day or so ago Al Capone rejoined his family. Alcatraz, America's No. 1 prison, isn't a torture chamber, and we've heard that prisoners there are treated pretty decently. Al had only a few years of it, but a few years were enough. He's free one way you look at it. But he's a broken old man, afflicted with paresis 'paralysis of muscular motions', and most likely will spend the rest of his days in sanitariums. His mind is reported to have given away under the strain.

Al Capone, besides being a pitiable invalid, is a marked man. Discredited as gangdom's overlord, he has no more gang. His mobs have been dispersed. The G-Men are discouraging younger and smarter racketeers. And they're keeping a close eye on Al, to make sure he doesn't cause any more trouble.

Racing Lottery A Mere Fiction

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, Nov. 24—This is no plea for wire service to horse parlors, illegal gambling or Moe Annenberg. I have never used any of these devices. I know nothing whatever about Annenberg's income tax or race track troubles. His paper publishes my column but I have talked to him just once in my life—and not on these subjects. Whatever is said here could be no water on his wheel because he has already decided to abandon his highly profitable race track wire service.

Hugh S. Johnson

This "service" consisted in telegraphing instantaneous news from the tracks to gentlemen who take bets—news about entries, scratches, positions of the ponies, shifts in betting odds and point-to-point description of each race—almost exactly what Clem McCarthy or any other radio broadcaster of an important race puts on the air.

In other words, what they conveyed was news. That news was openly used to inform bettors—butchers, bakers, candle-stick makers, stenographers, nurses, bankers and taxi-drivers—the whole of the American public that likes to risk two bucks on a long chance—and that means millions of people.

* * *

Out to Get Him

This administration was out to get Mr. Annenberg for political reasons—which is O. K. to the full extent that he deserved it on the usual standards of criminal procedure.

But to do this in Mr. Annenberg's case, it was first necessary to say that a horse race is a "lottery"—or that betting on horse races is one—and then indict him on conspiracy to conduct a lottery. Now it is a prime legal principle that criminality must be plain. Nobody is expected to guess at whether his act is a crime. As a prosecutor you can't pull any pazzazzas or by any verbal subtlety or juggling with the dictionary suddenly make something criminal that wasn't criminal before.

* * *

Football, Too

Whoever before heard that a horse race is a lottery? If it is, so is a footbal game. If the broadcasting of news about it can be used for gambling, so can—and is—the ticker tape and the wire services of the Stock Exchange—or even the broadcasting of Clem McCarthy.

I am not saying that such things ought not to be stopped, but I am seriously questioning whether this is the way to stop them—just as I seriously questioned whether trying Al Capone for income tax evasion and convicting and sentencing him to Alcatraz for crimes suspected but not proved in court was the way to stop racketeering.

Expedient, yes, but this kind of trifling with justice if permitted today against a citizen in the dog house can be used tomorrow against one who isn't. It is especially questionable where, as here, there is a taint of political reprisal.

* * *

Playing Cards Also

Mr. Anenberg's services were used for race track gambling in some states where it is lawful—and in some where it isn't. But so also are decks of cards sold at druggists and stationers used for gambling where it violates local law. It is what other people do with his output that may make it a crime—not the output itself—at least not without some such surprise fiction as that a horserace is a lottery.

Mr. Annenberg has conceded the point. I think he should have fought it to the last ditch—if not for the sake of himself then for the sake of the principle that protects us all—that there are no "constructive crimes."

* * *

Dangerous Assault

It would be easy to suspect here some kind of "deal" with the department of justice—that by surrendering a right here, Mr. Annenberg escaped some other prosecution where right is not so clear. A desperate man in a corner could be excused for that—but could the majesty of the law? I don't say or even imply, that any such things have happened here—although they have happened elsewhere. But if they have happened here, it is an even more dangerous assault on the safeguards of citizens against capricious administration of the law. Such practices are government by intimidation. If they can be done to Moe Annenberg, they can be done to you.

This whole incident would have smelled much better and left a more comfortable feeling about the blind impartiality of justice, if it had all been thrashed out before a judge and jury.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Between the Lines

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

It doesn't require much imagination to read into Senator Wheeler's plea for Democratic harmony, a warning against the third term movement. Declaring that party welfare should come before individual ambition, the Montana independent added:

"More important than the identity of the candidate is the necessity of making certain that the next president of the United States is a Democrat, elected to office with the full weight of a united and militant party behind him."

We seriously doubt if there exists a man behind whom the full weight of the Democratic party as now constituted could be assembled. There are too many non-Democratic elements in it, for that. One thing, however, is certain—there can be no Democratic unity behind Mr. Roosevelt. And that, it is pretty evident, is what Senator Wheeler was trying to say in the polite language required by the occasion.

Where Common Sense Is Needed

THE CURRENT COST of United States national defense, on an annual basis, is about $1,500,000,000. The armed services, if President Roosevelt approves, will seek to have this sum doubled at the next session of Congress.

The War department alone wants a total annual appropriation of $1,700,000,000, part of which would be used to forward a plan for equipping a force of 1,000,000 men. The naval budget would be revised upward to a total of $1,300,000,000. Thus the total annual cost of national defense would reach the unprecedented sum of $3,000,000,000, and this quite apart from the project to increase our naval tonnage twenty-five per cent within five years at a cost of $1,300,000,000.

There is not much doubt that these sums, or sums close to them, will be appropriated or authorized. Congress is in the mood to arm, and public sentiment supports the congressional thesis. Adequate national defense all of us want. It is to be hoped, however, that those in control of the armed services will not abuse this public sentiment, will not take advantage of public feeling to seek an expansion that goes further than practical defense requires.

Generals and admirals have professional enthusiasm for large and impressive establishments. That can be well understood. Federal Budget Director H. D. Smith appeals for "common sense," however, in resisting extravagant defense expenditures. The $1,500,000,000 now being spent and billions still to come, are charges upon the public purse. Where are these huge sums to be obtained, except from the pocketbook of each of us?

Part of these sums could be obtained through savings elsewhere, but that seems like a forlorn hope. Chairman Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board, believes that national defense should be financed not through borrowing but through increased revenues—that is, increased taxation. Mr. Eccles's plan would bring home to the mass of the people just how much government is costing.

If we want adequate national defense—and all of us do—we're going to have to dig up the cash. Congress is liable to postpone increases in taxation, this being the eve of a presidential campaign, but sooner or later the defense bill will have to be paid.

As Dr. Roswell Magill, former undersecretary of the treasury, points out, our national debt is now thirty times as high as it was before the World war, and our general financial position is weak, considering the present great cost of national defense and the vast expenditures that would be required should the United States become a belligerent. We are approaching our statutory debt limit of $45,000,000,000 now, and our national defense program will speed us toward that limit.

It is, therefore, reassuring to be told that Congress will scrutinize requests for expansion of the armed services to make certain that a line is drawn between what is adequate and what is extravagant and wasteful.

Not a Bottomless Pit

BILLIONS do not mean much in this day of huge governmental expenditures. The average reader, upon seeing twelve figures in a row, scarcely raises his eyebrows. The vastness of the sum simply doesn't register. It is accepted as something quite ordinary and not in the least surprising.

B. C. Forbes, distinguished author and publisher, has told the story of political spending in such a way as to arouse the average citizen from his state of lethargy, the following points being characteristic:

Every time you draw a breath the government at Washington spends $717.

The cost of the Panama canal ($375,000,000) is spent every twenty days of the New Deal.

Foreign nations owed the United States $13,670,087,391 in May 1936 (more now, of course). The government spent that amount in a little more than two years of President Roosevelt's first term.

Perhaps even this graphic and pointed way of presenting the size and scope of the nation's spending spree will fail to make much of an impression. But it should give pause for thought among politicians who seem to have been operating on the theory that America's treasury is a pit from which money can be constantly drawn without ever reaching bottom.

Deserving of Support

THE FIGHT begun in Congress by Representative Frank O. Horton, Republican, of Wyoming, to prevent the addition of new acreage to our national parks without the approval of the legislatures of the states in which the affected land lies, is likely to win strong popular support, especially in the eleven western public land states.

Interior department statistics show that the national park acreage was more than doubled under the New Deal between 1933 and 1938—from 542,321 acres to 1,107,292 acres.

Not only does national park land, in common with all federally owned land, pay no taxes, but no agricultural, commercial, grazing or industrial activity is permitted in national park areas. In this it differs from forest reserve land which may be used for grazing, timber cutting and other profitable enterprise.

The burden which expansion of national park areas superimposes upon the tax burden already borne by the taxpayers in the eleven public land states is evident from the following figures which show the percentage of public, and hence, tax exempt land, in each of these states:

Washington, thirty-two per cent; Oregon, forty-six per cent; California, thirty-nine per cent; Arizona, sixty-three per cent; Nevada, eighty-two per cent; Idaho, fifty-eight per cent; Montana, thirty-four per cent; Utah, sixty per cent; Wyoming, forty-two per cent; Colorado, thirty-three per cent and New Mexico, thirty-five per cent.

The fight which Mr. Horton has undertaken is a fight for the preservation of state's rights, the curbing of bureaucracy in Washington and the easing of the tax burden upon a people who are staggering under the weight of levies made necessary by the New Deal's reckless spending.

Sea Frightfulness

SINKING by sea mines of twenty-five ships in one week, in waters adjacent to British ports, writes a shocking chapter into the marine history of the war in Europe. The quick sinking of the Dutch liner Simon Bolivar, bound from Amsterdam to the Dutch West Indies, with a large loss of life, including many women and children, was a major sea horror. As in all these sinkings, there were numerous injuries owing to the violence of the explosions.

No nation appears immune to attack in this latest outbreak of international banditry on the high seas. Ships sunk flew the flags of Britain, Italy, Holland, Japan, Yugo-Slavia, Norway, Sweden and Lithuania.

If the British charge is sustainable, a new example of terrorism in modern war has presented itself—indiscriminate mine-laying by submarines. That German mines or submarines could have been responsible is denied by the Nazis, naturally. They will probably deny, when they get around to it, that Germany invaded Czechoslovakia, Poland or Austria.

The British admiralty says all its mines have a safety device required by international law rendering them non-explosive after they break away from their moorings.

Disasters, open to conjectures of such diabolical intent, speak volumes for the American action which, despite the commercial sacrifice, keeps American ships out of the danger zone.

Out of Place

THE WAGGISHNESS, or puckishness, or whatever you may call it, on the part of Mr. Roosevelt in regard to the third term idea has depressed a number of his supporters in the national capital, according to Frank R. Kent, Baltimore Sun columnist.

According to Kent, there remains only one of the New Deal writers who still insists that a third term is "inevitable." Two of the more conspicuous New Deal columnists, he says, have reached the point where they are plainly annoyed by the president's "frivolity" on the subject and are appealing to him to leave off the punning and the pranking and get down to brass tacks. Instead of responding, Kent says, "Mr. Roosevelt inserts little tricks in his speeches and laughs uproariously over his smartness."

In view of the fact that serious problems effecting the welfare of the nation are calling for attention and solution, it seems pertinent to indulge in the observation that there is possibly too much of that sort of clowning at this time and in the high place where it occurs.

Three Remedies

THREE PROPOSALS for ending unemployment were advanced at a conference the other day at Indianapolis on the subject held under the sponsorship of the American Legion and attended by representatives of labor, industry, government, agriculture and education.

An industrial leader suggested a revival of the spirit of enterprise, an economist asserted that the remedy is increased production through encouragement of long-time investments and a federal government executive proposed a broadening of the purchasing base by reducing prices through improved technique.

The first two proposals are practical and based on experience; the third, like so many of those broached by government jobholders, seems rather hazy standing by itself but not so hazy when considered as a natural consequent of the other two.

Broadway theater enjoying revival—says a headline. We knew all along that the only way to wake up show business was to give the public plays which wouldn't cause 'em to fall asleep.

Here's one thing all of us—including Great Britain and France—are quick to admit: Herr Hitler certainly talks a very, very tough war.

He Did Have a Nervous Breakdown

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I know a dog that had a nervous breakdown. You say, perhaps, that a dog can't have a nervous breakdown. Only human beings can suffer such a thing. . . Human beings whose desires outrun their powers, who eat when they aren't hungry, drink when they aren't thirsty, work when they should be sleeping, sleep when they ought to be up and doing. . .

Marshall Maslin

But this dog did have a nervous breakdown. I know he did.

He's an affectionate little wire-haired terrier and until a few months ago he had always lived in a house. . . But circumstances which the family could not control made it impossible for him to be in the house for some time. So he was kept in the yard. . . It was dry out there. His little house was warm enough. But he didn't get as much attention as formerly. He wasn't the center of an adoring family. And he felt neglected.

So he took to whining at night. He screamed. He became jumpy and nervous and he snapped at his friends. . . They decided he was sick and took him to a dog hospital for observation. But instead of improving he grew worse, and at last the dog doctor said:

"There's nothing physically wrong with this dog. He has no disease, but he needs attention. If you want to save his life take him home, keep him in the house, pet him, let him live with you again. Take him into your arms and talk affectionately to him, and he'll be his old self again inside of a week."

So the family did that. They took him into the house again, petted him, played with him, let him sleep inside again. . . And now he's their nice old dog again. . . Happy. Rollicking. Playful. Gentle. At ease. And glad to be alive in a household of friends.

Perhaps a dog can't have a nervous breakdown. . . But if he can't, then what did THAT dog have? Tell me that.

Edwin C. Hill

Dr. Charles Francis Potter, a believer in telepathy, is convinced that the faculty can be used to solve hitherto inexplicable mysteries. Perhaps it may yet be tried in the mysterious case of the disappearance of Justice Joseph Force Crater, everything else having failed.

Down in Duke University, Professor Joseph B. Rhine has for years been conducting remarkable experiments to prove the existence of telepathic phenomena. Dr. Alexis Carrel, in his book, "Man, the Unknown" asserts that the telepathic faculty, though rare, is a normal activity of the human being.

A short time ago, a little man in Hungary mystified the psychologists with astounding feats of telepathy. This man, Dr. Frank Polnar, of the University of Budapest, penetrates secret thoughts and bares mysteries as easily as you would peel an orange. How does he do it? He doesn't know. The psychologists don't know. The secret of telepathy, of thought transference, remains unsolved, although great intelligences, like Dr. Carrel's, are at work on that stupendous problem now.

Known by Witch Doctors

We have heard a lot of talk about television in the past few years, but with the witch doctors and doctresses of Africa have known it, or something incredibly like it, for hundreds of years. Science is gradually, almost reluctantly, Dr. Carrel intimates, coming to the conclusion that there are latent powers awaiting the application of simple natural laws—laws which the white man, in his furious scramble between the cradle and the grave, has forgotten, but which are still instinctive among older, more primitive peoples nestling close to the great heart of nature.

You'd be astonished if you knew how the jungle drum beat in the heart of New York, and the witch-doctors work their charms. Our skyscrapers, our automobiles, all of our swift conformity and change, give us a false sense of modernity, of severance with the past. But it is not so. In some dark, cold-water walkup, in the shadow of those same skyscrapers, you can find an obi man and a voodoo doctor, and conjure the drone of street traffic into the soft thudding of tom-toms.

The Sum of Yesterdays

We are, indeed, the sum of all our yesterdays, as the fearful plight of Europe proves today. Millions would not be facnig each other, at this moment, guns in hand, were it not for an age-old heritage of hatreds, of feudal and dynastic rivalries, infinitely antagonistic cultures, a legacy of tarnished glories, moonshine, poetry, tattered romance, warring philosophies, and forever renewed faiths, heresies and conformities.

The main trouble with the past—as we are finding out once more—is that it cannot be jettisoned. Man continues in this somewhat dubious age of reason to live by the fearfully expensive method of trial and error. But down there at the bottom of the well Truth still dwells. And there's no use to quit dredging for it just because we are apt to haul up a dead cat or an old rubber boot.

With such thoughts in mind, I happen to note that a young man named Norvell, an astrologer, who dispenses with black cats, black robes ornamented with mysterious symbols, a skull or two and other abracadabra of the witch-doctor's racket, but who perform professionally in fashionably-cut clothing, has Hollywood all agog and pop-eyed with his prophecies and predictions.

* * *

Violent End for Hitler

His latest is that Adolf Hitler will meet a tragic fate in a matter of months. Death, says Norvell, may come to Hitler from an assassin or by a battle wound, or even by suicide. His end will be sudden and violent, amid confusion. The Spring of 1940, according to the seer of Hollywood, is the period of worst affliction in Hitler's chart, but, in any event, he cannot survive 1940. His successor—Goering or whomever it may be—will find the Germans growing more restless and finally attempting a revolt against him. Outcome not stated.

Also, according to Mr. Norvell victory in the European war is clearly indicated for Great Britain and France. They will blockade and finally starve Germany. With the Maginot Line as an impregnable barrier, they will invade German territory, weakening Germany and at least shattering her morale. Mussolini will disagree with Hitler and ultimately will sell out to the Democracies for territorial concessions. And Poland and Czechoslovakia will be restored, with additional territory.

* * *

No War for Us

Astrologer Norvell predicts that the United States will not be drawn into the war, although there will be strong provocations, including the sinking of American merchant ships. But we will have to guard against volatile and dangerous forces within, seeking to overthrow the democratic form of government, for the planetary indications are the same as those in the chart of Russia in the days of 1917. Astrologically the trend is definitely toward a Republican victory in 1940.

Hitler would laugh derisively, no doubt, but so once did a greater man than he. Caesar, on his way to the Roman Forum, was warned by just such another soothsayer: "Beware the ides of March!"

Said the great Julius: "The ides of March are come."

FIRST FRUITS OF THE REORGANIZATION

Real Path to Peace, Economic Relief, Is Being Destroyed by Present War

By MARK SULLIVAN

At a motion-picture theater last night there was a news-real. It is being seen, presumably, in practically all motion-picture theaters.

Mark Sullivan

The pictures were taken by a young man on an American ship, the "Independence Hall." The "Independence Hall" received a radio message, "attacked by submarine." The "Independence Hall" hurried to the scene. It found, not one ship sinking, but two. The picture showed one ship, "City of Mandalay," in the act of sinking—the audience saw it break in the middle, and the two ends go down. The picture showed crews and passengers in lifeboats, others swimming. It showed these victims being brought on board the "Independence Hall." There were many photographs of victims on the deck of the "Independence Hall" — victims wounded, life-belts stained with blood, victims dazed, young children whose parents had been lost, parents whose children had been lost.

The impression by these photographs on one American, is likely to be made on others.

Neutral Ships Sunk

Here is the ocean. It is like a road. It is supposed to be safe for those who travel on it. But in one large section of this ocean highway, like a crowded street crossing, groups of persons come out in boats called submarines, which travel beneath the water, out of sight. These submarines shoot torpedoes, which sink ships, in many cases, without warning. The submarine belong to a nation which is at war, Nazi Germany. Not only do they sink ships of their enemies, the British and French. On this ocean cross-roads have been sunk ships of neutrals, of Holland, of Norway, of Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Japan, Greece, even little Jugo-Slavia. Presumably they have been sunk by German submarines or mines—certainly they have been sunk by one combatant or another, intentionally or unintentionally.

They have sunk no ship of the United States, because we have adopted a policy of not letting our ships go near that ocean cross-roads. We, by law, say to American owners of ships, "If you send a ship near that ocean cross-roads, we will put you in jail five years, or fine you $50,000, or both."

Their Need Greater

The other neutrals continue to send ships through that dangerous cross-roads. Some of the neutrals do this because their need is greater than ours—Holland, Denmark, Belgium, most use that cross-road if they are to live. Yet other neutrals, such as Greece and Japan, continue to send ships there, either because they are less altruistic for peace than we, or because they are more willing to take risks. These neutrals could say, if they choose to, that they continue to send their ships because they have a right to—and under international law they do have this right.

But even if it is not our ships that are sunk, Americans who see this news-reel are apt to feel emotion about it. This is not necessarily to say that America should abond its policy about ships—that, alone, would not settle anything permanently. It is by no means to say that America should take part in this war. That we should not go to war is the judgement of the best wisdom America has. Possibly many, by this phrase "go to war" mean send an American army abroad. That, America will not do. Whether American public opinion, after a time, and after and if an American ship is sunk in some distant part of the ocean to which our ships go—whether American public opinion would sanction use of our navy to protect our ships, is another question.

Would Not Seem Adequate

But even if we should even do that, it would not seem adequate for the condition pictured by the news-reel. Nothing in the form of war seems adequate. Merely to make the present war a bigger war does not seem adequate. We did that in the Great war, and it did not settle anything, as we now sadly know.

Yet a question is posed. It is a bigger question than can be answered by one person who happened to see a newsreel. The question must be in the minds of millions. But nowhere does anyone seem to have the answer.

Far from having an answer, the statesmen of the world and the world's leaders of thought show by their utterances that the answer is not in sight. Any reader of contemporary outgivings in all parts of the world finds in the more thoughtful utterances a common trait. All seem to say this is not an ordinary war. All seem to say that out of this war must come somehting more than an ordinary treaty of peace between combatants.

Hull's Peace Formula

Almost every important tendency in the world points the same way. One of the most conscientious statesmen in the contemporary world is Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He had, some years ago, before the war began, a formula for world peace. This formula, here repeated from memory, ran thus: a fundamental cause of war is economic distress of peoples. Hence the largest contribution to world peace would be to bring about economic well-being. Mr. Hull recommended expansion of trade between nations, reduction of those barriers which impede world trade.

But this path toward peace, assuming it is sound, is being destroyed by the war. A major strategy of combatants on both sides works to reduce the quantity of trade between nations, not only trade with combatants but trade of neutrals with each other. Today comes news from Argentina, that as a consequence of war conditions, it must buy less from the United States. That is but one example of a universal tendency, affecting all nations. The world as a fabric is falling to pieces, each nation becoming, by necessity or hard choice, self-contained.

One feels all this must not go on. But how change it?

Capone a Good Sermon Topic

From the Fairmont, W. Va., Times

Only a few years ago, Al Capone was "king" of America's underworld. He ruled the lives of thousands of hoodlums and terrorized business men and police authorities. He substituted his own laws for the laws of the land and for a time got away with it. His mansion in Florida was his castle. He rolled in money.

A day or so ago Al Capone rejoined his family. Alcatraz, America's No. 1 prison, isn't a torture chamber, and we've heard that prisoners there are treated pretty decently. Al had only a few years of it, but a few years were enough. He's free one way you look at it. But he's a broken old man, afflicted with paresis (paralysis of muscular motions), and most likely will spend the rest of his days in sanitariums. His mind is reported to have given away under the strain.

Al Capone, besides being a pitiable invalid, is a marked man. Discredited as gangdom's overlord, he has no more gang. His mobs have been dispersed. The G-Men are discouraging younger and smarter racketeers. And they're keeping a close eye on Al, to make sure he doesn't cause any more trouble.

Between the Lines

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

It doesn't require much imagination to read into Senator Wheeler's plea for Democratic harmony, a warning against the third term movement. Declaring that party welfare should come before individual ambition, the Montana independent added:

"More important than the identity of the candidate is the necessity of making certain that the next president of the United States is a Democrat, elected to office with the full weight of a united and militant party behind him."

We seriously doubt if there exists a man behind whom the full weight of the Democratic party as now constituted could be assembled. There are too many non-Democratic elements in it, for that. One thing, however, is certain—there can be no Democratic unity behind Mr. Roosevelt. And that, it is pretty evident, is what Senator Wheeler was trying to say in the polite language required by the occasion.

Racing Lottery A Mere Fiction

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, Nov. 24—This is no plea for wire service to horse parlors, illegal gambling or Moe Annenberg. I have never used any of these devices. I know nothing whatever about Annenberg's income tax or race track troubles. His paper publishes my column but I have talked to him just once in my life—and not on these subjects. Whatever is said here could be no water on his wheel because he has already decided to abandon his highly profitable race track wire service.

Hugh Johnson

This "service" consisted in telegraphing instantaneous news from the tracks to gentlemen who take bets—news about entries, scratches, positions of the ponies, shifts in betting odds and point-to-point description of each race—almost exactly what Clem McCarthy or any other radio broadcaster of an important race puts on the air.

In other words, what they conveyed was news. That news was openly used to inform bettors—butchers, bakers, candle-stick makers, stenographers, nurses, bankers and taxi-drivers—the whole of the American public that likes to risk two bucks on a long chance—and that means millions of people.

* * *

Out to Get Him

This administration was out to get Mr. Annenberg for political reasons—which is O. K. to the full extent that he deserved it on the usual standards of criminal procedure.

But to do this in Mr. Annenberg's case, it was first necessary to say that a horse race is a "lottery"—or that betting on horse races is one—and then indict him on conspiracy to conduct a lottery. Now it is a prime legal principle that criminality must be plain. Nobody is expected to guess at whether his act is a crime. As a prosecutor you can't pull any pazzazzas or by any verbal subtlety or juggling with the dictionary suddenly make something criminal that wasn't criminal before.

* * *

Football, Too

Whoever before heard that a horse race is a lottery? If it is, so is a football game. If the broadcasting of news about it can be used for gambling, so can—and is—the ticker tape and the wire services of the Stock Exchange—or even the broadcasting of Clem McCarthy.

I am not saying that such things ought not to be stopped, but I am seriously questioning whether this is the way to stop them—just as I seriously questioned whether trying Al Capone for income tax evasion and convicting and sentencing him to Alcatraz for crimes suspected but not proved in court was the way to stop racketeering.

Expedient, yes, but this kind of trifling with justice if permitted today against a citizen in the dog house can be used tomorrow against one who isn't. It is especially questionable where, as here, there is a taint of political reprisal.

* * *

Playing Cards Also

Mr. Anenberg's services were used for race track gambling in some states where it is lawful—and in some where it isn't. But so also are decks of cards sold at druggists and stationers used for gambling where it violates local law. It is what other people do with his output that may make it a crime—not the output itself—at least not without some such surprise fiction as that a horserace is a lottery.

Mr. Annenberg has conceded the point. I think he should have fought it to the last ditch—if not for the sake of himself then for the sake of the principle that protects us all—that there are no "constructive crimes."

* * *

Dangerous Assault

It would be easy to suspect here some kind of "deal" with the department of justice—that by surrendering a right here, Mr. Annenberg escaped some other prosecution where right is not so clear. A desperate man in a corner could be excused for that—but could the majesty of the law? I don't say or even imply, that any such things have happened here—although they have happened elsewhere. But if they have happened here, it is an even more dangerous assault on the safeguards of citizens against capricious administration of the law. Such practices are government by intimidation. If they can be done to Moe Annenberg, they can be done to you.

This whole incident would have smelled much better and left a more comfortable feeling about the blind impartiality of justice, if it had all been thrashed out before a judge and jury.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.
YESTERDAY: Ellen tells Fabienne about "Bill."

CHAPTER SEVEN

FABIENNE had been a member of the staff of Willoughby house for nearly three months the November day the Children's clinic opened in the east wing. The three months had passed more swiftly than she had expected. In spite of herself she had become interested in the variety of taste to which she was assigned. She had progressed from reading classes to dramatic groups. She'd served a trick at recreation directing and she was now assigned to office work.

She had first found the office work tedious, but the staff was short and she had taken it on without complaint.

The afternoon of the opening of the clinic she found an interesting office duty; she was tabulating the monies subscribed for maintenance. Ideas were beginning to come to her whereby the sums might be increased when a crisp voice roused her from her reverie over her figures. The voice said:

"Hey, Miss! You!"

Fabienne Willoughby Seymour looked up, an expression of annoyance sharply etched on her patrician features.

Annoyance gave way to surprise and then a kind of appreciation as her eyes met the figure of a tall, broad-shouldered young man in a white coat.

"I was."

Fabienne's memory turned up a line she had read somewhere: "The proportions of the room seemed to diminish when he came into it." Proportions or no proportions, she decided that this young man needed flattering. She flashed a look at him that should have done it, and coolly resumed her figuring.

But she felt his eyes commanding her attention and she had to look at him.

"You can drop that," he said. "You're needed in the clinic." He turned on his heel and left.

"Miss Huxley is assigned to the clinic," she called after him. She began to arrange her cards neatly.

He came back to the door. "I said you were needed in the clinic," he repeated. "There is no one to receive the patients. Come at once, please."

A heated answer came to her tongue, but it would have been wasted, since he had already left. She put her papers in a desk drawer and went over to the clinic.

The receiving room was already filling with patients. Fabienne sat down at the desk and looked at a pile of papers which she saw were intended to be used as histories. Each was marked with questions and each was headed:

She said, "Who is first, please?"

A woman with a child who wore a heavy brace on a wasted leg came first. Fabienne referred to her question sheet.

The doctor opened the door. "All right, Miss . . . Miss?" Fabienne grinned wickedly to herself without supplying her name. The doctor said, "I'm ready."

Fabienne directed the first patient in.

There were sixteen patients, and it was six when the last one was finished and Dr. Mallory opened the door to the reception room and came into it. Fabienne didn't look at him as she put the papers in the drawer and slammed it loudly. She swept the desk top clear of pencils.

The voice said: "Hey! Miss! You!"

"You working tonight?" the doctor asked.

"I beg your pardon?" she said.

"If you are, you'd better set the desk for Dr. Hopkins. He takes the evening clinic. And this place will have to be cleaned up." His eyes swept the untidy room. The wall chairs that had been arranged in an orderly row were now disarranged; the floor was littered with bits of papers. There was a pile of peanut shells in one corner, an apple core on the window sill.

"Certainly," she said sweetly, "if you'll excuse me while I change to overalls, I'll be right back with my pail and mop."

"Sorry, Princess," he said, and smiled. A nice, showy, disarming smile. "Cigaret?" he said, offering her a package.

Fabienne wanted one but she said, "No, thank you, Dr. Mallory," in a tone that was no more than formal.

"I guess I was a bit abrupt upstairs. You know how it is when we're in a hurry around here. There were a lot of poor youngsters waiting."

"One might still be polite," she said in a chilly voice.

"One might," he agreed. "Sometimes a busy doctor has to skip amenities. Next time I'll present my credentials, Miss Seymour."

So, he knew who she was after all.

She sat back in her chair and gave him a long, cool scrutinizing look that heretofore had reduced her men to bleating or babbling. Dr. Mallory, however, did neither. He sat on the corner of her desk with one long leg thrown over it and enjoyed his cigaret. He was not, she saw at once, going to be reduced to anything.

"Did you take time out from your important patients to find out who I was?" she asked pointedly.

"No. I remembered suddenly. Young Tomassino, one of my patients, treasures a photograph of you. He showed it to me. I've been very curious about you."

"Really?" The way she said it was meant to indicate that she wasn't at all interested.

"Yes. I wondered what impelling motive brought you here."

"I'm afraid I'm going to disappoint you, Doctor. I am not consumed with love for suffering humanity, disappointed in love or working for my livelihood. That rather leaves me without any interesting motive, doesn't it?"

"On the contrary, I expect the reason you don't want to talk about it would be very interesting. However, we'll skip it." He smiled again. "When one works so lously and unselfishly as you have around here, it's usually because there's some kind of unselfish love back of it."

Fabienne looked at her wristwatch. It was after six. For no reason that she was aware of, she thought of something that she had not remembered since she was a schoolgirl. She had always hated the hour of six. It had been her lonesome hour. Her mother had always been dressing then, her governesses having their dinners. She'd been lonesome for love then, for someone to love her. She hadn't thought of love as such in all these years and it was disturbing. Not at all like Fabienne Seymour. She said, "If you must have an answer, Doctor, it's love for myself."

"I can hardly believe that," he said, flipping his cigaret out the open window. "You ought to talk it over with a good psychologist."

Fabienne got up and pushed the desk chair into place.

"I didn't mean to presume," he said. In his tone there was conciliation that she could not reject.

She smiled for him then. "I didn't think you were. But you medical men are so knee-deep in problems you just naturally have to tack them onto normal people, don't you?"

He ducked, laughing.

"Next time I'll be better prepared for an answer. I'd hate to let you down."

"An answer?" he asked.

"About my motivations."

"I'll take you up on it," he said. "By the way, you might send the porter in here to clean up. Good night."

"Good night," she said.

She went up to her own office and looked out the window. He was getting into a small car as she watched. She thought: he might have asked me if he could drop me somewhere. Then she shrugged her shoulders. But she couldn't shrug away the memory of him.

Physician Pleads Guilty To Selling Narcotics

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 24. (AP)—Dr. Benjamin William Peck, 65-year-old Burnsville physician, admitted in Federal court today that he sold narcotics illegally over a period of years.

The Braxton county doctor pleaded guilty before Judge George W. McClintic, who deferred sentence until next April.

Peck was accused of disposing of 50,000 quarter-grain tablets of a narcotic and showing only 33,692 in his dispensing records.

Sylvester C. Lee of Bluefield, accused by Federal agents of riding freight trains into Virginia to return with jugs of moonshine liquor, was sentenced to three years in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Lee pleaded guilty to possession of tax-unpaid liquor.

A two-and-a-half-year term in the Chillicothe, O., Reformatory was ordered for James P. Burke of Wriston, who admitted stealing about $183 from the Wriston postoffice. His mother was postmaster.

Louis Deed, Beckley negro, admitted passing two counterfeit fifty-cent coins and was sentenced to the Boone county jail for sixty days.

Two men charged with impersonating federal officers also received prison terms. They were James Hubbard Cloxton of Boone county, sentenced to three year in Atlanta, and Louis J. Aikens, 39, of Pennsylvania, sentenced to two years in Atlanta.

Pleas of guilty were entered by John Tony Davis of Sanger, Fayette county, accused of breaking into the Minden postoffice, and Joe E. Friend of Enoch, Clay county, schol bus driver charged with possessing narcotics. Sentence was deferred in both cases.

Charles Wolfe Dies

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 24. (AP)—A heart attack resulted in the death yesterday of Charles Tregallas Wolfe, 29-year-old attorney and son of the late Jesse Garfield Wolfe, Grafton and Cleveland coal operator.

The older Wolfe died on Thanksgiving day, 1928.

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND, DECLARING THAT THE PRESENT ROAD LEADING FROM WINCHESTER BRIDGE TO THE CRESAPTOWN SCHOOL IN ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND, SHALL BE A PUBLIC HIGHWAY.

WHEREAS, the County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, find as a fact that a certain road or highway leading from the Winchester Road to the Cresaptown School in Allegany County, Maryland, has been in use by the public for a period of more than twenty (20) years; and

WHEREAS, the said road is not less than thirty (30) feet in width at any place and the same extends from the said Winchester Road a distance of approximately 450 feet to the Cresaptown School; and

WHEREAS, the public convenience and necessity requires that the said road shall be and become a public highway with full power and authority in the County Commissioners of Allegany County to maintain the same as a public highway of said County.

NOW THEREFORE, in accordance with the power and authority conferred upon the County Commissioners of Allegany County by Section 552 of Article One of the Public Local Laws of Allegany County (Flack's Edition 1930) be it resolved, that the said road be, and it is hereby declared to be a public highway of Allegany County, Maryland, and that the same shall be maintained as a public highway under the authority and control of the County Commissioners of Allegany County.

And be it further resolved, that this resolution shall be published in one or more newspapers published in Allegany County, Maryland.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND.

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
YESTERDAY: Ellen tells Fabienne about "Bill."

CHAPTER SEVEN

FABIENNE had been a member of the staff of Willoughby house for nearly three months the November day the Children's clinic opened in the east wing. The three months had passed more swiftly than she had expected. In spite of herself she had become interested in the variety of taste to which she was assigned. She had progressed from reading classes to dramatic groups. She'd served a trick at recreation directing and she was now assigned to office work.

She had first found the office work tedious, but the staff was short and she had taken it on without complaint.

The afternoon of the opening of the clinic she found an interesting office duty; she was tabulating the monies subscribed for maintenance. Ideas were beginning to come to her whereby the sums might be increased when a crisp voice roused her from her reverie over her figures. The voice said:

Fabienne wanted one but she said, "No, thank you, Dr. Mallory," in a tone that was no more than formal.

"I guess I was a bit abrupt upstairs. You know how it is when we're in a hurry around here. There were a lot of poor youngsters waiting."

"One might still be polite," she said in a chilly voice.

"An answer?" he asked.

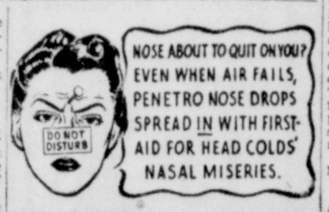

"About my motivations."

"I'll take you up on it," he said. "By the way, you might send the porter in here to clean up. Good night."

"Good night," she said.

She went up to her own office and looked out the window. He was getting into a small car as she watched. She thought: he might have asked me if he could drop me somewhere. Then she shrugged her shoulders. But she couldn't shrug away the memory of him.

Physician Pleads Guilty To Selling Narcotics

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 24. (AP)—Dr. Benjamin William Peck, 65-year-old Burnsville physician, admitted in Federal court today that he sold narcotics illegally over a period of years.

Peck was accused of disposing of 50,000 quarter-grain tablets of a narcotic and showing only 33,692, in his dispensing records.

Sylvester C. Lee of Bluefield, accused by Federal agents of riding freight trains into Virginia to return with jugs of moonshine liquor, was sentenced to three years in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Lee pleaded guilty to possession of tax-unpaid liquor.

A two-and-a-half-year term in the Chillicothe, O., Reformatory was ordered for James P. Burke of Wriston, who admitted stealing about $183 from the Wriston postoffice. His mother was postmaster.

Louis Deed, Beckley negro, admitted passing two counterfeit fifty-cent coins and was sentenced to the Boone county jail for sixty days.

Two men charged with impersonating federal officers also received prison terms. They were James Hubbard Cloxton of Boone county, sentenced to three year in Atlanto, and Louis J. Aikens, 39, of Pennsylvania, sentenced to two years in Atlanta.

Pleas of guilty were entered by John Tony Davis of Sanger, Fayette county, accused of breaking into the Minden postoffice, and Joe E. Friend of Enoch, Clay county schol bus driver charged with possessing narcotics. Sentence was deferred in both cases.

Charles Wolfe Dies

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 24. (AP)—A heart attack resulted in the death yesterday of Charles Tregallas Wolfe, 29-year-old attorney and son of the late Jesse Garfield Wolfe, Grafton and Cleveland coal operator.

The older Wolfe died on Thanksgiving day, 1928.

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND, DECLARING THAT THE PRESENT ROAD LEADING FROM WINCHESTER BRIDGE TO THE CRESAPTOWN SCHOOL IN ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND, SHALL BE A PUBLIC HIGHWAY.

WHEREAS, the County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, find as a fact that a certain road or highway leading from the Winchester Road to the Cresaptown School in Allegany County, Maryland, has been in use by the public for a period of more than twenty (20) years; and

WHEREAS, the said road is not less than thirty (30) feet in width at any place and the same extends from the said Winchester Road a distance of approximately 450 feet to the Cresaptown School; and

WHEREAS, the public convenience and necessity requires that the said road shall be and become a public highway with full power and authority in the County Commissioners of Allegany County to maintain the same as a public highway of said County.

NOW THEREFORE, in accordance with the power and authority conferred upon the County Commissioners of Allegany County by Section 552 of Article One of the Public Local Laws of Allegany County (Flack's Edition 1930) be it resolved, that the said road be, and it is hereby declared to be a public highway of Allegany County, Maryland, and that the same shall be maintained as a public highway under the authority and control of the County Commissioners of Allegany County.

And be it further resolved, that this resolution shall be published in one or more newspapers published in Allegany County, Maryland.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND.
By SIMEON W. GREEN, President.

Attest:
R. MASON HILL, Clerk.

The aforegoing resolution was offered by Commissioner Matheney and upon motion of Commissioner Holmes, seconded by Commissioner Matheney, the same was unanimously passed this 21st day of November, 1939.

Smile Off Wrinkles

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE'S nothing like good nature to keep smooth the facial coating. Look at old Mrs. Persimmon. She's always mad about something, has a countenance like a withered apple.

Back up amiability with a health-giving routine of living, and any woman ought to be able to stave off wrinkles until she is 70, maybe longer. One mustn't forget that the tissues must be nourished. You keep them that way by eating properly and giving the skin surface a once-a-day lubricating. The system needs plenty of water. No need of telling the beauty class that sleepless nights and worry raise the dickens with human phizes. Fret your gizzard pin and cut down your hours of rest and the penalty will be a face that has aged before its time.

Though squinting is often the result of eyestrain, it is just as often a silly habit. The constant folding together of the delicate tissues etches in fine lines. It is difficult to erase them after they have taken squatter's rights, so don't let them happen to you, my paper friends. If by chance they have already appeared, use a heavy emollient after the face is washed at bedtime. Place the first finger on the inner corner of the eyelid, sweep out to the temple, come back under the eye.

A Novel Princess Style

Marian Martin
PATTERN 9242

Is your figure too long or too short waisted? Then Marian Martin has planned Pattern 9242 just for you! It's in regular princess style—BUT what a difference! She has added a waistline seam so that you may adjust the pattern to YOUR FIGURE before cutting. See the saucy back buttoning; the nice skirt flare. The neckline forms a young square and has either a scalloped collar, perhaps in contrast, or a ric-rac trim. You might sallop the edges of the short sleeved style too. For a merry peasant touch, run racings down the side seams, with bows perched at waist and sleeves.

Pattern 9242 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 35 inch fabric and ⅝ yard contrast.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size name, address, and style number.

Fashion is at your finger-tips with a Marian Martin winter pattern book in your hands! For your ten nimble fingers plus page after page of her easy patterns add up to sure style success. This book offers a fine selection of suits, dresses and coats, whether you're a career woman, socialite, housewife or co-ed. There are tailoreds, day and evening frocks, cheery home styles, youngster togs and gift ideas for every-one. Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

GAS, ACID INDIGESTION?

IF you are troubled with acid indigestion, sour risings, gassy stomach or heartburn, you want to help improve your digestion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stimulates the appetite and increases the flow of gastric juice and thus aids in improving digestion and so helps strengthen you. Mrs. Daisy Pearl, 478 W. South St., Frederick, Md., says: "I would have gas after I ate and also would get acid indigestion, and I felt weak and out-of-sorts as a result. After I had used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for some time my appetite and digestion were good and I became stronger." Buy it in liquid or tablets from your druggist today.

Miss Alice Keller Will Give Luncheon Today for Misses Roberts and Small

Miss Alice Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Keller, LaVale, will entertain with a luncheon today at her home in honor of Agatha Roberts, Narrows, Va., who is visiting Miss Jean Meyers, 224 Washington street, and Miss Joy Small, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Small, The Dingle, who is home for the Thanksgiving holidays from Garrison Forest School, near Baltimore.

Guests will include: Miss Roberts, Miss Small, Miss Jean Meyers, Miss Janet Oliver, Miss Helena Aronson, Miss Meredith Kelley, Miss Martha Keffer, Miss Dorothy Williams, Miss Florence Nevy, Miss Jeanne Bowerson, Miss Mary Rainalter, Miss Miriam Douglas, Miss George Anna Diehl, Miss Alice Nixs, Washington, D. C., Miss Evelyn Williams and Miss Patricia Keight.

Corrigan-Layne

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Hope Layne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumpter Layne, Lynchburg, Va., and Robert Eugene Corrigan, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Corrigan and the late Nathan B. Corrigan, of this city, Saturday evening at the rectory of the Holy Comforter church, Washington, D. C. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles R. O'Hara.

The bride wore a gown of dusty rose and an orchid corsage. Mrs. J. Phelps Hand, Jr., Washington, matron of honor, was attired in gray velvet and a corsage of talisman roses. Michael F. O'Neill, Jr., of this city was best man.

The bride attended Lynchburg college and Catholic university, and was graduated from Sibley Memorial hospital, Washington. The bridegroom attended American university, Washington.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Corrigan will make their home at 6323 Luzon avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Many Attend Dance

Thanksgiving evening, which was also ushered in with Shriners' night at the Ali Ghan Club, Baltimore pike, started three days of gayety which will mark the first anniversary of the opening of the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Music by the South Sea Islanders, featuring Princess Luana, and Bobby Herman, master of ceremonies from Washington, D. C., furnished an attractive entertainment.

Those who reserved tables included:

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bradour, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Wolford, Mr. and Mrs. C. Eugene Perrin, George W. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fey, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Roher, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Vandegrift, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Grosh, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ferman H. McFerran.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McFerran, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Siebert, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Manley, Donald L. Clem, Frank C. Myers, Dr. J. Russell Cook, Otto Frye, J. E. Brown, B. V. Walsh, Russell Schaffter.

Melvin C. Love, J. H. Ayers, of Hagerstown, Lloyd Durst, Frostburg, James Madison, Wendell Shirley, Harold Malin, Howard Howell, Ralph P. Rizer, J. H. Cornelius, Paul Lehr, Adolf Blunk, Dr. Homer Tabler, Perry A. Nicklin, Joseph Williams, Homer Tabler, Jr., Clifford White, Frank Storm and John Stewart.

Events in Brief

For the benefit of the Red Cross, a dance will be held this evening at the Queen City hotel, with music by Marty Flynn and his Society Ramblers. The dance will be cabaret style and will begin at 8 p. m. and last until midnight. John R. Neff is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Honoring her guest, Miss Adriana Mercado, a student at Trinity college, Washington, D. C., Evelyn LaNeve, student at Maryland Law school, Baltimore, will entertain with a cocktail party this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis LaNeve, 190 North Centre street.

Mrs. C. Walter Smith, 1815 Bedford road, entertained Tuesday at her home with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Katherine Kolb, who will be married to Thomas Brown, November 30.

Members of the Knights of Malta celebrated Thanksgiving last night at the temple, Prospect square, with a program of speakers. Today members will witness an initiation at Uniontown, Pa., conducted by a Pittsburgh degree team.

The degree of the order was conferred upon a class of candidates at a meeting last night in the Masonic temple, Greene street, by Cumberland chapter No. 56 of the Order of the Eastern Star.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Trinity Lutheran church, North Centre and Smith streets, will hold a rummage sale beginning at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening at the parish hall on Smith street.

Smile Off Wrinkles

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE'S nothing like good nature to keep smooth the facial coating. Look at old Mrs. Persimmon. She's always mad about something, has a countenance like a withered apple.

Back up amiability with a health-giving routine of living, and any woman ought to be able to stave off wrinkles until she is 70, maybe longer. One mustn't forget that the tissues must be nourished. You keep them that way by eating properly and giving the skin surface a once-a-day lubricating. The system needs plenty of water. No need of telling the beauty class that sleepless nights and worry raise the dickens with human phizes. Fret your gizzard pin and cut down your hours of rest and the penalty will be a face that has aged before its time.

Though squinting is often the result of eyestrain, it is just as often a silly habit. The constant folding together of the delicate tissues etches in fine lines. It is difficult to erase them after they have taken squatter's rights, so don't let them happen to you, my paper friends. If by chance they have already appeared, use a heavy emollient after the face is washed at bedtime. Place the first finger on the inner corner of the eyelid, sweep out to the temple, come back under the eye.

A Novel Princess Style

Is your figure too long or too short waisted? Then Marian Marton has planned Pattern 9242 just for you! It's in regular princess style—BUT what a difference! She has added a waistline seam so that you may adjust the pattern to YOUR FIGURE before cutting. See the saucy back buttoning; the nice skirt flare. The neckline forms a young square and has either a scalloped collar, perhaps in contrast, or a ric-rac trim. You might sallop the edges of the short sleeved style too. For a merry peasant touch, run racings down the side seams, with bows perched at waist and sleeves.

Pattern 9242 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 35 inch fabric and ⅝ yard contrast.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size name, address, and style number.

Fashion is at your finger-tips with a Marian Martin winter pattern book in your hands! For your ten nimble fingers plus page after page of her easy patterns add up to sure style success. This book offers a fine selection of suits, dresses and coats, whether you're a career woman, socialite, housewife or co-ed. There are tailoreds, day and evening frocks, cheery home styles, youngster togs and gift ideas for every-one. Book fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to Cumberland News Pattern Department, 232 W 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Prunes Are Rich In Food Values

College Park, Nov. 24—Prunes, rich in iron and vitamin B as well as in other food values, will be less apt to wear out their welcome if, in the months when they appear most frequently, the homemaker uses a little imagination in presenting them to her family.

According to Margaret McPheeters, nutrition specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service, a suggestion for breakfast prunes is to change the flavor a little. A slice of lemon cooked with the fruit is one way to accomplish this. Many use a pinch of salt in cooking prunes. A little spice, cinnamon, or nutmeg, makes stewed prunes a bit different. When whole prunes only are used for dessert dishes or salad, the remaining juice may be appetizingly flavored and served as breakfast fruit drink.

She points out that in most prune desserts, the fruit is mashed to a pulp; sometimes it is sieved but this is seldom necessary. The pulp may be used as a spread for prune shortcake or a filling for pie or tarts in pre-baked shells. For prune pie the juice and pulp may need a little thickening to make the pie easier to cut and serve. For a dressy prune pie or shortcake, spread the top with whipped cream.

Spiced prune pulp with chopped nuts through it is an excellent, quickly made dessert. Or the pulp may be used for prune whip, a cupful to three egg whites, or for prune souffle which is baked prune whip. Hot prune gingerbread and prune steamed pudding are two other ideas.

Muster the Mustard Jar for a New Menu "Must"

Hyde Park stuffed potatoes come out of hiding and now they're in the limelight as a new autumn delicacy. Muster your talents and go to work grilling these willing meal-makers, aided and abetted by shiny glass jars of Viennese sausages and tangy mustard. Make 'em for luncheon or supper—the "how" of it is elsewhere on this page.

Good things come in small packages, we've always heard, but now good things come in jars. Tasty Vienna sausages and the tangy flavor of mustard blend with baked potatoes in a luscious combination that belies the ease of making, when you do it this way:

Hyde Park Stuffed Potatoes

6 large baking potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chopped chives
Hot milk
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
7-ounce jar Vienna sausages
Melted butter.

Scrub potatoes and bake in hot oven (450° F.) forty-five to sixty minutes, or until tender. Remove from oven and immediately cut a slice from top of each, and scoop out inside. Force through a ricer or mash thoroughly. Add butter, salt, chives, and milk until desired consistency is reached, beating until light and fluffy. Add mustard. Pile lightly into shells. Press a sausage into top of each and brush with melted butter. Bake ten to twelve minutes longer, or until potatoes are browned.

Holiday Ham

To doll up your baked ham for holiday serving peg on (with wood picks or small skewers) slices of pineapple, peaches and oranges. Stick on some red and green cherries, too. Baste right over the fruits to give them a glaze. Arrange the fruits during the last thirty minutes of the baking time.

Adds Zest to Old Favorites

Cranberry-Fairy Pudding

Spanich Cream

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup scalded milk
3 eggs separated
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Soften gelatin in cold water five minutes; add milk. Combine egg yolks and sugar, add gelatin mixture and cook over hot water five minutes, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Cool and chill until slightly thickened. Add vanilla and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Something Good for The Youngsters

Have you a hungry youngster in the family? Re-fueling sonny boy these sparkling autumn days calls for pantry prowess, since bursting energy demands sustenance and demands it in strident tones.

Fruit juices have a prominent place in modern pantries for that after-school refreshener, and hot punch is a new tempter, especially at Younger Generation parties. Grape juice, rich in healthful fruit sugar, is a favorite with the kiddies—served plain or combined with other juices.

GRAPE-PRUNE TODDY
(for the toddler's lunch)

1 cup grape juice — Juice 2 lemons
½ cup water — Sugar to taste
½ cup prune juice

Combine, heat to boiling point, serve hot in cups, with graham crackers or ginger cookies.

HOT GRAPE NECTAR
(for parties)

2 cups apricot juice — ½ cup brown sugar
1 quart grape juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice — 4 sticks cinnamon
Whipped cream

Combine juices, sugar and cinnamon, and heat to boiling point. Remove cinnamon sticks, serve in cups, steaming hot, with a dipper of whipped cream on top. Apples and sugar cookies complete the refreshments.

PLAYROOM PUNCH
(when daughter entertains at "tea")

2 cups grape juice — 1½ cups pineapple juice
⅔ cup boiling water

Combine ingredients and heat to boiling point. Serve from tea pot. Lemon slices and cloves are passed, just as they are at Mother's tea-parties. Gingerbread squares and bread and butter sandwiches also appear.

Stack-Of-Wheat Desserts

Your 'stack of wheats" will make a grand finale to a luncheon or supper when made this way: Bake four large pancakes, spread each one lightly with butter, then generously wtih a date mixture, made like this: cook together two minutes, one cup chopped dates, two tablespoons flour, one-fourth cup brown sugar, one-eighth teaspoon each of salt and cinnamon, one-third cup orange juice and one-fourth cup broken nuts. Stack the cakes and cut them into wedgeshaped pieces.

Prunes Are Rich In Food Values

College Park, Nov. 24—Prunes, rich in iron and vitamin B as well as in other food values, will be less apt to wear out their welcome if, in the months when they appear most frequently, the homemaker uses a little imagination in presenting them to her family.

According to Margaret McPheeters, nutrition specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service, a suggestion for breakfast prunes is to change the flavor a little. A slice of lemon cooked with the fruit is one way to accomplish this. Many use a pinch of salt in cooking prunes. A little spice, cinnamon, or nutmeg, makes stewed prunes a bit different. When whole prunes only are used for dessert dishes or salad, the remaining juice may be appetizingly flavored and served as breakfast fruit drink.

She points out that in most prune desserts, the fruit is mashed to a pulp; sometimes it is sieved but this is seldom necessary. The pulp may be used as a spread for prune shortcake or a filling for pie or tarts in pre-baked shells. For prune pie the juice and pulp may need a little thickening to make the pie easier to cut and serve. For a dressy prune pie or shortcake, spread the top with whipped cream.

Spiced prune pulp with chopped nuts through it is an excellent, quickly made dessert. Or the pulp may be used for prune whip, a cupful to three egg whites, or for prune souffle which is baked prune whip. Hot prune gingerbread and prune steamed pudding are two other ideas.

Muster the Mustard Jar for a New Menu "Must"

Hyde Park stuffed potatoes come out of hiding and now they're in the limelight as a new autumn delicacy. Muster your talents and go to work grilling these willing meal-makers, aided and abetted by shiny glass jars of Viennese sausages and tangy mustard. Make 'em for luncheon or supper—the "how" of it is elsewhere on this page.

Good things come in small packages, we've always heard, but now good things come in jars. Tasty Vienna sausages and the tangy flavor of mustard blend with baked potatoes in a luscious combination that belies the ease of making, when you do it this way:

Hyde Park Stuffed Potatoes

6 large baking potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chopped chives
Hot milk
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
7-ounce jar Vienna sausages
Melted butter.

Scrub potatoes and bake in hot oven (450° F.) forty-five to sixty minutes, or until tender. Remove from oven and immediately cut a slice from top of each, and scoop out inside. Force through a ricer or mash thoroughly. Add butter, salt, chives, and milk until desired consistency is reached, beating until light and fluffy. Add mustard. Pile lightly into shells. Press a sausage into top of each and brush with melted butter. Bake ten to twelve minutes longer, or until potatoes are browned.

Holiday Ham

To doll up your baked ham for holiday serving peg on (with wood picks or small skewers) slices of pineapple, peaches and oranges. Stick on some red and green cherries, too. Baste right over the fruits to give them a glaze. Arrange the fruits during the last thirty minutes of the baking time.

Adds Zest to Old Favorites

Cranberry-Fairy Pudding

Spanich Cream

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup scalded milk
3 eggs separated
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Soften gelatin in cold water five minutes; add milk. Combine egg yolks and sugar, add gelatin mixture and cook over hot water five minutes, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Cool and chill until slightly thickened. Add vanilla and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Something Good for The Youngsters

Have you a hungry youngster in the family? Re-fueling sonny boy these sparkling autumn days calls for pantry prowess, since bursting energy demands sustenance and demands it in strident tones.

Fruit juices have a prominent place in modern pantries for that after-school refreshener, and hot punch is a new tempter, especially at Younger Generation parties. Grape juice, rich in healthful fruit sugar, is a favorite with the kiddies—served plain or combined with other juices.

GRAPE-PRUNE TODDY
(for the toddler's lunch)

1 cup grape juice — Juice 2 lemons
½ cup water — Sugar to taste
½ cup prune juice

HOT GRAPE NECTAR
(for parties)

2 cups apricot juice — ½ cup brown sugar
1 quart grape juice — 4 sticks cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice — Whipped cream

Combine juices, sugar and cinnamon, and heat to boiling point. Remove cinnamon sticks, serve in cups, steaming hot, with a dipper of whipped cream on top. Apples and sugar cookies complete the refreshments.

PLAYROOM PUNCH
(when daughter entertains at "tea")

2 cups grape juice — 1½ cups pineapple juice
⅔ cup boiling water — Lemon juice

Combine ingredients and heat to boiling point. Serve from tea pot. Lemon slices and cloves are passed, just as they are at Mother's tea-parties. Gingerbread squares and bread and butter sandwiches also appear.

Stack-Of-Wheat Desserts

Your 'stack of wheats" will make a grand finale to a luncheon or supper when made this way: Bake four large pancakes, spread each one lightly with butter, then generously wtih a date mixture, made like this: cook together two minutes, one cup chopped dates, two tablespoons flour, one-fourth cup brown sugar, one-eighth teaspoon each of salt and cinnamon, one-third cup orange juice and one-fourth cup broken nuts. Stack the cakes and cut them into wedgeshaped pieces.

The Works of the Messiah

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

11-25

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 26 is Matthew 8 and 9, the Golden Text being Acts 10:38, "Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power, went about doing good.")

JESUS OF NAZARETH went about doing good. That is our Golden Text and subject of today's lesson. Besides His teaching the Way of Life, He performed many miracles that made many people happy and the multitudes wonder and worship.

While Jesus was in Capernaum, He seems to have made His headquarters at Peter's house. When they entered the house they found Peter's mother ill in bed with a fever. Jesus went to her, touched her hand, and the fever left. "She arose and ministered unto them," Matthew tells us.

Before this a leper had come to Him, worshiping Him and saying: "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth His hand and touched the man, saying, "I will; be thou clean." And immediately the leprosy left the man.

Then a centurion came, telling of his faithful servant sick with palsy. Jesus offered to go with the centurion to heal the man, but the centurion said he was not worthy to have Jesus come under his roof. "But speak the word only," he said, "and my servant shall be healed."

Faith Wins Praise

Jesus marveled at the answer, saying "Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." Then to the centurion, or Roman soldier, He said, "Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so it be done unto thee." And the servant "was healed in the selfsame hour."

After He had healed Peter's mother people brought many sick to Him to be cured and He sent them away happy. The multitudes following Him were so persistent that Jesus and His disciples entered a boat and put out to sea. Jesus must have been weary, for He laid down in the back of the boat and went to sleep on a cushion. But a tempest arose and wind and waves so tossed the boat about that the disciples feared they would be lost. They awoke Jesus saying, "Lord, save us, or we perish."

"And He said unto them, 'Why are ye fearful, oh ye of little faith?'" Then He rebuked the wind and waves, they quieted, and "there was a great calm." And the men marveled and said to themselves: "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

When He was again on dry land they brought unto Him a man sick with palsy, and Jesus cured him, saying, "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee." Certain of the scribes, taking note of these things, said, "This man blasphemeth."

Another notable miracle was that of the ruler's daughter. The ruler came to Jesus and said, worshiping Him, "My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay Thy hand upon her, and she shall live." On His way to help the ruler's daughter came a woman who had been very ill for 12 years. She crept up behind Him, for she said to herself, "If I may but touch His garment I shall be whole." But Jesus turned about and saw her, and said, "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole." And she was cured.

Not Dead, but Sleeping

When He saw the ruler's daughter with weeping friends gathered about her, He said to them, "Give place; for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth." They laughed Him to scorn, but when they went away He took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

All these miracles are related to show what faith will do, and what power was Christ's. His personality was such and His words and deeds so striking that men left whatever they were doing and added themselves to His disciples. A certain scribe (and you remember they were generally critical of Him) said to Him, "Master, I will follow thee whethersoever thou goest." And Jesus answered him, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head," warning the man what he must expect if he followed the Master.

In thanksgiving for mercies shown us all our days the psalmist says in Psalm 116, verses 3, 4 and 5:

"The sorrows of death compassed me, and the pains of hell gat hold upon me: I found trouble and sorrow.

"Then I called upon the name of the Lord; O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul.

The Works of the Messiah — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 8 and 9

When Jesus went to the house of Peter at Capernaum, He found Peter's mother ill in bed of a fever; but Jesus touched her hand, the fever left her and she arose and helped get the evening meal.

A woman who had been ill for many years came up behind Jesus and touched the hem of His garment, and Jesus, turning, saw her and told her to be of good cheer, "thy faith hath made thee whole."

A certain ruler also came to Him and told Him that his daughter was dead; but Jesus went with him to his house, and taking the girl by the hand, she arose, and all marveled.

Jesus and His disciples entered a ship, and while Jesus was asleep, a storm arose. The disciples wakened Jesus who hushed the wind and waves.

The Works of the Messiah

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 26 is Matthew 8 and 9, the Golden Text being Acts 10:38, "Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power, went about doing good.")

JESUS OF NAZARETH went about doing good. That is our Golden Text and subject of today's lesson. Besides His teaching the Way of Life, He performed many miracles that made many people happy and the multitudes wonder and worship.

While Jesus was in Capernaum, He seems to have made His headquarters at Peter's house. When they entered the house they found Peter's mother ill in bed with a fever. Jesus went to her, touched her hand, and the fever left. "She arose and ministered unto them," Matthew tells us.

Before this a leper had come to Him, worshiping Him and saying: "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth His hand and touched the man, saying, "I will; be thou clean." And immediately the leprosy left the man.

Then a centurion came, telling of his faithful servant sick with palsy. Jesus offered to go with the centurion to heal the man, but the centurion said he was not worthy to have Jesus come under his roof. "But speak the word only," he said, "and my servant shall be healed."

Faith Wins Praise

Jesus marveled at the answer, saying "Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." Then to the centurion, or Roman soldier, He said, "Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so it be done unto thee." And the servant "was healed in the selfsame hour."

After He had healed Peter's mother people brought many sick to Him to be cured and He sent them away happy. The multitudes following Him were so persistent that Jesus and His disciples entered a boat and put out to sea. Jesus must have been weary, for He laid down in the back of the boat and went to sleep on a cushion. But a tempest arose and wind and waves so tossed the boat about that the disciples feared they would be lost. They awoke Jesus saying, "Lord, save us, or we perish."

"And He said unto them, 'Why are ye fearful, oh ye of little faith?'" Then He rebuked the wind and waves, they quieted, and "there was a great calm." And the men marveled and said to themselves: "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

When He was again on dry land they brought unto Him a man sick with palsy, and Jesus cured him, saying, "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee." Certain of the scribes, taking note of these things, said, "This man blasphemeth."

Another notable miracle was that of the ruler's daughter. The ruler came to Jesus and said, worshiping Him, "My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay Thy hand upon her, and she shall live." On His way to help the ruler's daughter came a woman who had been very ill for 12 years. She crept up behind Him, for she said to herself, "If I may but touch His garment I shall be whole." But Jesus turned about and saw her, and said, "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole." And she was cured.

Not Dead, but Sleeping

When He saw the ruler's daughter with weeping friends gathered about her, He said to them, "Give place; for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth." They laughed Him to scorn, but when they went away He took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

All these miracles are related to show what faith will do, and what power was Christ's. His personality was such and His words and deeds so striking that men left whatever they were doing and added themselves to His disciples. A certain scribe (and you remember they were generally critical of Him) said to Him, "Master, I will follow thee whethersoever thou goest." And Jesus answered him, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head," warning the man what he must expect if he followed the Master.

In thanksgiving for mercies shown us all our days the psalmist says in Psalm 116, verses 3, 4 and 5:

"The sorrows of death compassed me, and the pains of hell gat hold upon me: I found trouble and sorrow.

"Then I called upon the name of the Lord; O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul.

The Works of the Messiah — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 8 and 9

When Jesus went to the house of Peter at Capernaum, He found Peter's mother ill in bed of a fever; but Jesus touched her hand, the fever left her and she arose and helped get the evening meal.

A woman who had been ill for many years came up behind Jesus and touched the hem of His garment, and Jesus, turning, saw her and told her to be of good cheer, "thy faith hath made thee whole."

A certain ruler also came to Him and told Him that his daughter was dead; but Jesus went with him to his house, and taking the girl by the hand, she arose, and all marveled.

Jesus and His disciples entered a ship, and while Jesus was asleep, a storm arose. The disciples wakened Jesus who hushed the wind and waves.

The diamond A and Q showed dummy holding a tenace over West. Now came the real skill. Letting trumps alone, South led the club 6 to the J. West also took the Q and led the heart K. A spade was shed from North, South ruffing. The spade 7 now called out West's A, and the heart 2 was returned, ruffed with South's last trump.

Here was the stage set for a pretty play. The established club 10 was led. If West ruffed, North could overruff, drop the other trump and cash the spade K. But West still had a club, followed, and the high spade K was discarded. Then the last spade was led toward the dummy's two high trumps, West being caught in the traffic jam.

The defenders also were able to trump in on the later ones of these tricks, but only with smaller trumps than the declarer's honors. Thus, besides cashing three aces, the declarer got eight tricks with trumps, using only one to a trick, for a total of eleven. He gave up the last two tricks in clubs.

Had West led a spade, the declarer would have had to use two trumps on that trick and so could have got only seven tricks all told with his trumps, plus the three aces, being set one trick at his 5-Spades contract.

Hockenhull Will Speak to Publishers

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—Lloyd L. Hockenhull of Chicago, editor and publisher of "Circulation Management", will be a speaker at the annual meeting of the West Virginia Publishers Association here December 1, it was announced today.

Hockenhull will speak on "making the circulation cash register ring".

The association will hold its meeting in the afternoon, while the West Virginia members of the Associated Press will hold their annual fall meeting in the morning under the leadership of Charles Hodel of Beckley, state chairman.

James W. Weir of Elkins, secretary of the Publishers' Association, said an address on "the association as an investment" will be made by Col. J. H. Long of Huntington.

Weir, who recently was elected a director of the Newspaper Association Managers, added the circulation clinic will include Paul G. Lawson of Clarksburg, W. R. Keyser of Welch and A. H. Pruett of Charleston as speakers.

The Associated Press members will discuss plans for covering the 1940 political campaign, coverage of European war news, improvement of the state mat service and state sports coverage.

Both groups will attend a luncheon. The Publishers' Association, whose meeting will be for both daily and weekly publishers, will elect officers. W. Guy Tetrick of Clarksburg is president.

Study Actuarial System for Retirement

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP) — Chairman David Kirby announced today fourteen educators have been named to a committee to study proposals for an acturial system for teacher retirement benefits.

Among the members are Frank Hall of Fairmont State Teachers College and Arthur V. G. Upton, Superintendent of Harrison county schools.

Others include secretary Clyde Cochran of the Classroom Teachers Association, E. L. Powell of the Negro Board of Education, Charleston teachers and members of the state department of education.

Kirby, board of education secretary, said the committee will meet December 1-2.

A state-grant program of teacher retirement now is operative. Kirby said new proposals to be studied will include methods of contribution to retirement funds.

Poor Speller Is In Need of Aid From Parents

They Must Be Serene and Avoid Hurrying the Youngster

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Any child with good eyesight, who can read well or do well in arithmetic, can learn to spell. There's nothing peculiarly difficult, psychologically, about learning to spell.

An occasional poor speller does not know the alphabet. Perhaps he will confuse such letters as d and b, and this confusion will also handicap him in reading. Obviously, this matter easily can be corrected. The poor speller also may not have caught on to the basic vowel sounds. A little drill at spelling such simple words as hen, men pen; rat, mat, fat, and fob, rob, sob should clear up this matter. As he attacks longer words he will find it helpful to break up the world into syllables.

But the pupil soon learns that many words are spelled as they sound, and that he will just have to memorize their spelling.

Always in a Hurry

Having worked clinically with a number of poor spellers, I conclude that the poor speller practically always is in a hurry. He does not take time enough to look at the word carefully (sometimes spelling it wrong while looking at it), and he does not repeat the letters in their proper order often enough while looking at them to remember the correct spelling. He wants to try himself out before he knows the spelling of the word and, therefore, practices at spelling it wrong, even while studying it.

The hurry atmosphere of the modern school encourages this harem-scarumness in him.

How Parents Can Help

What may we parents do to help the poor speller at home? First, we need to discipline ourselves to be serene and calm, especially while we help him with his spelling. Then we should quietly urge him to relax and attack each word carefully. We should get him to look very carefully at the word, pronounce it and name its letters in right order while looking at it, and to do this over and over a number of times. We should try to keep him from trying to spell the word from memory before he knows it, from ever spelling the word wrong.

Let him keep at a word until he knows it perfectly, always permitting him to look again at the word when in doubt. He should not attack more than three or four words at a sitting, perhaps no more in an evening. If in his assignment there are ten or more words, let him ignore the rest. Help him not to worry about his grades a month or two hence. Once he is assured he can spell a few words perfectly he will gain confidence that will guarantee his success with more words.

Be Ready to Help

When he prepares written work at home, always be ready to spell any word when he asks you to do so, however busy you might be.

By writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, you may receive a graded list of toys and playthings; also a list of books from which to read to the baby or young child.

Solving Parent Problems

Q Do you think the name given to the baby will mean much to it in later life?

A. I certainly do. I still have copies of a brief, selected list of common and uncommon names for boys and girls with their source and meaning, together with a list of related books, to be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. My five-year-old girl is able to run about but has been under medical care. She will not take the medicine the doctor prescribes. What should I do?

A. Have an assistant on hand who will pour the medicine where the child does not see it. Then seize the child gently but firmly and put the medicine into her as skillfully as possible, keeping your own lips closed the while. I hope the doctor makes the medicine as palatable as possible.

Q. We have three children from five to 12. My mother is coming to live with us. I fear that she will boss the children too much. How might I prevent this problem?

A. Make clear to her now that she will have to bear no responsibility whatsoever for the management of the children, that you will expect her not to do so except when she might definitely be requested.

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Any child with good eyesight, who can read well or do well in arithmetic, can learn to spell. There's nothing peculiarly difficult, psychologically, about learning to spell.

An occasional poor speller does not know the alphabet. Perhaps he will confuse such letters as d and b, and this confusion will also handicap him in reading. Obviously, this matter easily can be corrected. The poor speller also may not have caught on to the basic vowel sounds. A little drill at spelling such simple words as hen, men pen; rat, mat, fat, and fob, rob, sob should clear up this matter. As he attacks longer words he will find it helpful to break up the world into syllables.

But the pupil soon learns that many words are spelled as they sound, and that he will just have to memorize their spelling.

Always in a Hurry

Having worked clinically with a number of poor spellers, I conclude that the poor speller practically always is in a hurry. He does not take time enough to look at the word carefully (sometimes spelling it wrong while looking at it), and he does not repeat the letters in their proper order often enough while looking at them to remember the correct spelling. He wants to try himself out before he knows the spelling of the word and, therefore, practices at spelling it wrong, even while studying it.

The hurry atmosphere of the modern school encourages this harem-scarumness in him.

How Parents Can Help

What may we parents do to help the poor speller at home? First, we need to discipline ourselves to be serene and calm, especially while we help him with his spelling. Then we should quietly urge him to relax and attack each word carefully. We should get him to look very carefully at the word, pronounce it and name its letters in right order while looking at it, and to do this over and over a number of times. We should try to keep him from trying to spell the word from memory before he knows it, from ever spelling the word wrong.

Let him keep at a word until he knows it perfectly, always permitting him to look again at the word when in doubt. He should not attack more than three or four words at a sitting, perhaps no more in an evening. If in his assignment there are ten or more words, let him ignore the rest. Help him not to worry about his grades a month or two hence. Once he is assured he can spell a few words perfectly he will gain confidence that will guarantee his success with more words.

When he prepares written work at home, always be ready to spell any word when he asks you to do so, however busy you might be.

By writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, you may receive a graded list of toys and playthings; also a list of books from which to read to the baby or young child.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you think the name given to the baby will mean much to it in later life?

A. I certainly do. I still have copies of a brief, selected list of common and uncommon names for boys and girls with their source and meaning, together with a list of related books, to be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. My five-year-old girl is able to run about but has been under medical care. She will not take the medicine the doctor prescribes. What should I do?

A. Have an assistant on hand who will pour the medicine where the child does not see it. Then seize the child gently but firmly and put the medicine into her as skillfully as possible, keeping your own lips closed the while. I hope the doctor makes the medicine as palatable as possible.

Q. We have three children from five to 12. My mother is coming to live with us. I fear that she will boss the children too much. How might I prevent this problem?

A. Make clear to her now that she will have to bear no responsibility whatsoever for the management of the children, that you will expect her not to do so except when she might definitely be requested.

Our Swing-Time Swinburne Offers A Football Medley

BY JOHN LARDNER
Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, Nov. 24—Poetic license No. X-109 tears the veil of mystery from this week's football games and makes the results an open secret:
Southern Cal if journeyin'
East again to Notre Dame,
Where the wild Hibernian
This year seems a trifle tame.
I will bet a turkey dinner
U. S. C. returns the winner.

Promptly at the stroke of two,
The Tiger will begin to chew
Upon our future admirals;
It's Princeton over Navy, pals.

Bouncing back with their bouncing backs,
The rugged Oklahoma men
Will stop Nebraska in her tracks,
And find the winning road again.

I'll bet a jit
(As of even date)
The U. of Pitt
Will lick Penn State.

Ohio State
Is full of beans.
She'll obfuscate
The Wolverines.

Rice don't live right; This will be
A Texas Christian victory.

The bloody Hoosier civil war
Produces many a cockeyed score;
I know that Indiana U.
Can win—but still, I'll take Purdue.

To win the city championship,
Duquesne, this week, has but to clip
Carnegie Tech's remaining wing.
I think she'll do that little thing.

Here's a good, substantial bet:
Lehigh bows to Lafayette.

The upset special: Oregon State
Will muss up U. C. L. A.'s slate.

Another underdog on top,
Another ball game gone askew;
The Baylor club is gonna cop
The shooting-match with S. M. U.

I like Cornel
To wallop Penn,
And, sure as hell,
She'll do it, men.

Roses are red,
Asparagus is pale,
Give me Harvard
Over Yale.

The policy of the U. of Chi
Is "give the ball game back to the boy."
And what does he do with it then, poor guy?
He gives it back to Illinois.

Iowa's squad is short and sweet;
Just thirteen of the very best.
They'll kill Northwestern dead, and seat
Thirteen men on the dead man's chest.

To help the Syracusans
Recoup their early losin's,
Maryland's about
To take one on the snout.

Wisconsin-Minnesota—them
Is two good teams and true. And this
Is journey's end for the bot' a them;
I like the Gohpers over Wis.

A private consolation match:
California's team will catch
One more blow upon the chin,
And Stanford will (no kidding) win.

Navy Lineup against Princeton Is Mystery

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24. (AP)—Coach Swede Larson admits Navy will play Princeton tomorrow and that a squad of 41 men will entrain at 7:48 a. m. for Jersey. Outside of that, Mr. Larson is mum.

The Navy Athletic Association broke precedent tonight when it failed to issue a starting lineup. The head man hasn't made up his mind.

"I won't know who'll go out until five minutes before the game," Larson asserted, adding thoughtfully, "if then."

Injuries, the sudden brilliance of "B" squad players whose abilities could not be denied, and scholastic difficulties have scrambled the Navy grid situation to the translucent clarity of a bucket of gumbo mud.

The Tars lined up tonight with Cliff Lenz, Ed Gillette, Lou Mayo and Everett Malcom in the No. 1 backfield. Sammy Boothe, Butch Werner, Monty Whitehead and Donald Blue were in the No. 2 combination. Out of those eight and Tommy Blount, passer exrtaordinary, Larson will choose his starting backfield.

He wouldn't even guess about his starting line.

Conacher Sports Chairman

Toronto, Ont. (CP)—The chairman of the Ontario Athletic commission certainly knows his ice hockey. That's because he is Lionel Conacher, who made hockey history in the National league for many years as a star player.

Buckeyes To Play "Champions" For "Big Ten" Crown

Forecasters Had Overlooked Ohio When Selecting Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 24 (AP)—For the first time in a decade the amalgamated order of self-appointed football forecasters neglected to award Ohio State the Western conference championship in Septembre.

And so tomorrow the Buckeyes, one of the surprise elevens of an astonishing season, play Michigan here certain of walking off the field with no worse than a tie for the title.

This was to be Michigan's year, the forecasters said two months ago, but all the Wolverines can salvage out of their 36th meeting wtih the Scarlet and Gray is prestige, and the possibility of having knocked the Buckeyes out of their first undisputed conference championship since 1920.

Chance for Iowa

If Michigan wins from Ohio State then Iowa, the No. 1 upstart of the fall warfare, can gain a share of the championship by beating Northwestern. A loss or tie by Iowa will hand the crown to Ohio State all alone regardless of how the Buckeyes fare.

Given favorable weather, the meeting of Ohio and Michigan is expected to attract 85,000 spectators, one of the largest crowds of the year. Rain was forecast for tonight with colder weather tomorrow.

Michigan Reserves Weak

The payoff when the last gun sounds tomorrow is likely to be on reserves—a department where Ohio State is extremely long and Michigan woefully short.

So far Michigan has been able to muster a capable starting front and when it has been intact Tom Harmon, the touchdown kid from Gary, Ind., has gone to town. With substitutions in the lineup, Harmon and Michigan have stopped.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 24. (AP)—The smoke-veiled dusk of a crisp fall day 18 years ago was wrapping the placid countryside as the late Knute Rockne walked slowly across the old university of Iowa football field. He had just seen his Notre Dame team's 26-game winning streak snapped by Howard Jones' Hawkeyes.

"I want to see a lot more of that fellow," he remarked. "He's got some tricky maneuvers." Nothing was too good for Rock's boys, and that included the quality of competition.

That remark was the seed of what has grown into one of the greatest of intersectional football rivalries. It took five years to sprout and blossom, and then half the setting was changed with Jones' westward trek, but since 1926 the USC-Notre Dame game has come along year after year as regularly as a birthday.

* * *

Tomorrow will be another crisp fall Saturday, everybody hopes, although today was none too promising with rooftops dunking in sullen gray clouds and the heavy atmosphere threatening to break out in a cold sweat any minute.

And tomorrow will see the 14th renewal of that intersectional rivalry, no less keen because Rock has been gone these many years. Jones is bringing all his old tricks—they say his Trojans run from five formations—but the Notre Dame team, although ably coached by Elmer Layden, one of Rockne's more famous pupils, isn't in all respects a Rockne team.

Layden has ideas of his own. Whereas Rockne sent in a team of shock-absorbers to start a game, and sent in his runners after the opposing team had worn itself down to a nubbin, Layden leads with his aces.

Rockne used from 50 to 80 plays a season. Layden has used about 22 this year, a vivid contrast to the 144 Hunk Anderson used to toss at the boys. Rockne used men by battalions and regiments. Only about 26 will qualify for letters this year, and in the tight games that's about all Layden uses.

There is an air of apprehension in this bustling city. On the quiet campus on the flats at the edge of town, along the banks of the St. Joseph River and in the downtown shops, the idea prevails that if the Irish take this one it will be by spirit alone.

Paul Bunyan tales of the prowess of the mighty Trojan have drifted back.

* * *

"They say it's the best USC team since 1921. Doyle Nave and Al Kreuger, who won three games for them last year, are only third stringers. They'll be shooting for the $100,000 Rose Bowl bid."

That's just a cross-section of the conversation. And against such an ogre Layden is sending a Notre Dame team which has been defeated once, has had more tight squeezes than a fist, and which is pretty much a team without a star.

You hear kind words spoken for end Bill Kerr, and one fan declared Milt Piepul, 217 pounds of thunder on the hoof, is the best fullback he's seen, but when layden wants to win a game he just reaches into a bag and pulls out a hero for a day, so all is confusion when it comes to naming a standout.

The Irish are the underdogs, even their best friends will tell you, but 56,000 of the faithful bought up every ticket two weeks ago and will jam the stadium tomorrow with the hope of witnessing another of those breath-taking games which have made the series famous.

USC Trojans Aim At Rose Bowl with Win Over "Irish"

Throng of 56,000 To Witness Game Today at South Bend

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 24. (AP)—Southern California's powerful Trojans, aiming at an undefeated season and Rose Bowl glory, collide tomorrow with Notre Dame's Irish—the 14th installment in a thrill-packed intersectional football legend.

A capacity throng of 56,000 will jam Notre Dame stadium to its very brim for the battle, final of the season for the Irish who thus far have whipped Purdue, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, Army and Northwestern and lost by one point to Iowa.

Coach Elmer Layden put his squad through a light drill today and both first string tackles, Tom Gallagher and Tad Harvey, apparently will be ready to start tomorrow. They suffered recurrences of old injuries in the Northwestern battle last week.

Layden no longer is counting very heavily on Bob Saggau, his only triple threater who was injured some weeks back. The offensive load against the Trojans is expected to be carried by Lou Zontini, Milt Piepul and Joe Thesing, Harry Stevenson and bolting Ben Sheridan, the little speedster.

Seven Lettermen On Parsons High Quint

Parsons, W. Va., Nov. 24—Coach Myrl Kepner, of the Parsons high school Panthers, announced today there were seven lettermen and eight regular players from last year to be seen in action again this season on the cage team.

Lettermen from last year are Maynard Harsh, Robert Wolf, Frank Bowley, James Griffith, Tom Shaffer, Dow Cox and Denver Strawderman, six foot four inch center player.

Others who saw service last season are Harper Lambert, Meredith Lambert, William Plumb, Junior Shaffer, Fred Parsons, Junior Parks, Harry Pinney and Richard Riley.

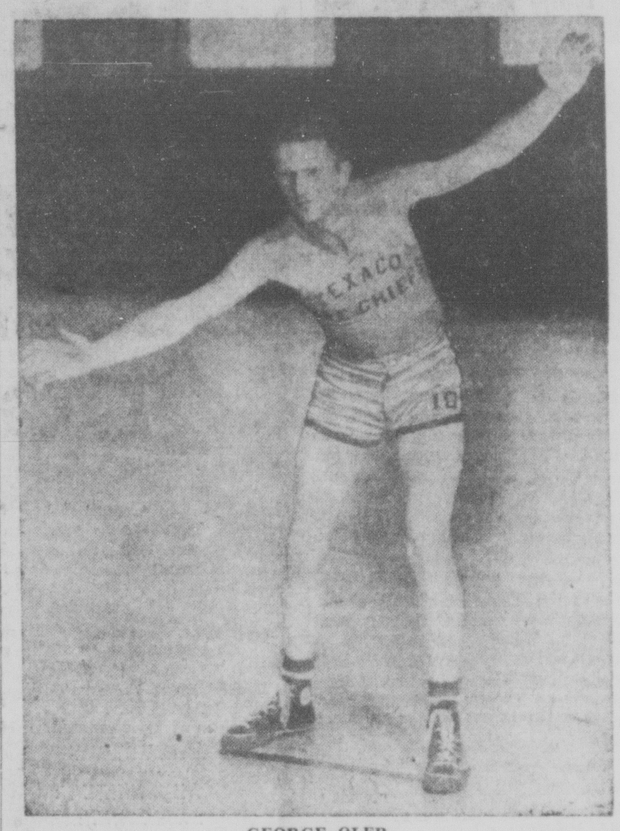

New boys for this year's cage team are Harry Long, Delvin Wratchford, Fred Felton, Lonnie Shoemaker, Glen Shoemaker, Jennigs Scott, Leon Pennington, Clell Simmons, Robert Swearingen, Getsel Irons, Frank Piggott and Ernest Moon.

Four star players were lost by graduation last year and this season it will be necessary to replace Mont Wratchford, Elwood Riley, Arthur "Whitie" Barr and William Cade.

The Panthers will be seeking their third straight Potomac Valley Conference championship this year. Twelve games have already been scheduled, two with each of the following schools: Thomas, Petersburg, Franklin, Piedmont, Keyser and Moorefield.

The remainder of the schedule will be completed the latter part of next week when coaches of the Potomac Valley will meet at Petersburg, and later at a meeting of coaches of Central West Virginia in Clarksburg.

Morris Harvey Hopes "Iron Man" Stunt May Stop Marshall Team

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—The Marshall College eleven may earn the name of "iron men" tomorrow, but there is still hope in the Morris Harvey roost that three football games in eight days will help stampeed the Thundering Herd.

Morris Harvey officials predicted a crowd of 12,000.

When the teams clash tomorrow at Laidley Field, Morris Harvey's Eagles will be fresh and dapper after a two weeks' rest.

The Herd has played 10 games, winning eight.

The 11th with Morris Harvey will be played two days after the Thanksgiving day encounter with West Virginia Wesleyan and one week after the Huntington footballers defeated Xavier.

Against Marshall's record, the Eagles stack up as the team due to lose.

Only Wake Forest, which outgained Duke before losing 6-0, and Scranton have humbled the Herd this season and both contests were struggles.

But Morris Harvey followers are bearing in mind that the Eagles came close to trouncing Ohio University and, by the record, they know the Herd's 200-pound line is not impregnable.

Marshall and Morris Harvey will meet for the first time since the Eagles suffered a 59-0 drubbing in 1936.

Winter Olympic Games Abandoned Because of War

Will Not Be Transferred to Any Other Country, Official Rules

Brussels, Nov. 24. (AP)—The 1940 winter Olympic games, doomed from the start of the European conflict, have been abandoned and will not be transferred from Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, to another site,it was announced today by Count Henri De Baillet Latour, president of the international Olympic committee.

Latour's announcement followed an earlier one from German Olympic officials, saying they would be forced to resign as hosts to the skaters, skiiers and bob-sledders because of the rule forbidding a warring nation to stage the games.

From Lausanne, Switzerland, Secretary Andre Berdez of the International Olympic Committee voiced hope that it would be possible to transfer the snow games to another site, but Latour said it was too late. His apparently was the last word.

As the games are scheduled in February, it obviously would be difficult, if not impossible, to install elsewhere in such brief time a plant worthy of the winter sports. Particularly scarce are bob-sled runs of Olympic championship calibre.

Our Swing-Time Swinburne Offers A Football Medley

Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, Nov. 24—Poetic license No. X-109 tears the veil of mystery from this week's football games and makes the results an open secret:
Southern Cal if journeyin'
East again to Notre Dame,
Where the wild Hibernian
This year seems a trifle tame.
I will bet a turkey dinner
U. S. C. returns the winner.

Promptly at the stroke of two,
The Tiger will begin to chew
Upon our future admirals;
It's Princeton over Navy, pals.

Bouncing back with their bouncing backs,
The rugged Oklahoma men
Will stop Nebraska in her tracks,
And find the winning road again.

I'll bet a jit
The U. of Pitt
Will lick Penn State.

Ohio State
Is full of beans.
She'll obfuscate
The Wolverines.

A Texas Christian victory.

The bloody Hoosier civil war
Produces many a cockeyed score;
I know that Indiana U.
Can win—but still, I'll take Purdue.

To win the city championship,
Duquesne, this week, has but to clip
Carnegie Tech's remaining wing.
I think she'll do that little thing.

Here's a good, substantial bet:
Lehigh bows to Lafayette.

The upset special: Oregon State
Will muss up U. C. L. A.'s slate.

Another underdog on top,
Another ball game gone askew;
The Baylor club is gonna cop
The shooting-match with S. M. U.

I like Cornel
To wallop Penn,
And, sure as hell,
She'll do it, men.

Roses are red,
Give me Harvard
Over Yale.

The policy of the U. of Chi
Is "give the ball game back to the boy."
And what does he do with it then, poor guy?
He gives it back to Illinois.

Iowa's squad is short and sweet;
Just thirteen of the very best.
They'll kill Northwestern dead, and seat
Thirteen men on the dead man's chest.

To help the Syracusans
Recoup their early losin's,
Maryland's about
To take one on the snout.

Wisconsin-Minnesota—them
Is two good teams and true. And this
Is journey's end for the bot' a them;
I like the Gohpers over Wis.

A private consolation match:
California's team will catch
One more blow upon the chin,
And Stanford will (no kidding) win.

Navy Lineup against Princeton Is Mystery

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24. (AP)—Coach Swede Larson admits Navy will play Princeton tomorrow and that a squad of 41 men will entrain at 7:48 a. m. for Jersey. Outside of that, Mr. Larson is mum.

The Navy Athletic Association broke precedent tonight when it failed to issue a starting lineup. The head man hasn't made up his mind.

"I won't know who'll go out until five minutes before the game," Larson asserted, adding thoughtfully, "if then."

Injuries, the sudden brilliance of "B" squad players whose abilities could not be denied, and scholastic difficulties have scrambled the Navy grid situation to the translucent clarity of a bucket of gumbo mud.

The Tars lined up tonight with Cliff Lenz, Ed Gillette, Lou Mayo and Everett Malcom in the No. 1 backfield. Sammy Boothe, Butch Werner, Monty Whitehead and Donald Blue were in the No. 2 combination. Out of those eight and Tommy Blount, passer exrtaordinary, Larson will choose his starting backfield.

He wouldn't even guess about his starting line.

Toronto, Ont. (CP)—The chairman of the Ontario Athletic commission certainly knows his ice hockey. That's because he is Lionel Conacher, who made hockey history in the National league for many years as a star player.

Buckeyes To Play "Champions" For "Big Ten" Crown

Forecasters Had Overlooked Ohio When Selecting Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 24 (AP) — For the first time in a decade the amalgamated order of self-appointed football forecasters neglected to award Ohio State the Western conference championship in September.

And so tomorrow the Buckeyes, one of the surprise elevens of an astonishing season, play Michigan here certain of walking off the field with no worse than a tie for the title.

This was to be Michigan's year, the forecasters said two months ago, but all the Wolverines can salvage out of their 36th meeting wtih the Scarlet and Gray is prestige, and the possibility of having knocked the Buckeyes out of their first undisputed conference championship since 1920.

Chance for Iowa

If Michigan wins from Ohio State then Iowa, the No. 1 upstart of the fall warfare, can gain a share of the championship by beating Northwestern. A loss or tie by Iowa will hand the crown to Ohio State all alone regardless of how the Buckeyes fare.

Given favorable weather, the meeting of Ohio and Michigan is expected to attract 85,000 spectators, one of the largest crowds of the year. Rain was forecast for tonight with colder weather tomorrow.

Michigan Reserves Weak

The payoff when the last gun sounds tomorrow is likely to be on reserves—a department where Ohio State is extremely long and Michigan woefully short.

So far Michigan has been able to muster a capable starting front and when it has been intact Tom Harmon, the touchdown kid from Gary, Ind., has gone to town. With substitutions in the lineup, Harmon and Michigan have stopped.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 24. (AP)—The smoke-veiled dusk of a crisp fall day 18 years ago was wrapping the placid countryside as the late Knute Rockne walked slowly across the old university of Iowa football field. He had just seen his Notre Dame team's 26-game winning streak snapped by Howard Jones' Hawkeyes.

"I want to see a lot more of that fellow," he remarked. "He's got some tricky maneuvers." Nothing was too good for Rock's boys, and that included the quality of competition.

That remark was the seed of what has grown into one of the greatest of intersectional football rivalries. It took five years to sprout and blossom, and then half the setting was changed with Jones' westward trek, but since 1926 the USC-Notre Dame game has come along year after year as regularly as a birthday.

* * *

Tomorrow will be another crisp fall Saturday, everybody hopes, although today was none too promising with rooftops dunking in sullen gray clouds and the heavy atmosphere threatening to break out in a cold sweat any minute.

And tomorrow will see the 14th renewal of that intersectional rivalry, no less keen because Rock has been gone these many years. Jones is bringing all his old tricks—they say his Trojans run from five formations—but the Notre Dame team, although ably coached by Elmer Layden, one of Rockne's more famous pupils, isn't in all respects a Rockne team.

Layden has ideas of his own. Whereas Rockne sent in a team of shock-absorbers to start a game, and sent in his runners after the opposing team had worn itself down to a nubbin, Layden leads with his aces.

Rockne used from 50 to 80 plays a season. Layden has used about 22 this year, a vivid contrast to the 144 Hunk Anderson used to toss at the boys. Rockne used men by battalions and regiments. Only about 26 will qualify for letters this year, and in the tight games that's about all Layden uses.

There is an air of apprehension in this bustling city. On the quiet campus on the flats at the edge of town, along the banks of the St. Joseph River and in the downtown shops, the idea prevails that if the Irish take this one it will be by spirit alone.

Paul Bunyan tales of the prowess of the mighty Trojan have drifted back.

* * *

"They say it's the best USC team since 1921. Doyle Nave and Al Kreuger, who won three games for them last year, are only third stringers. They'll be shooting for the $100,000 Rose Bowl bid."

That's just a cross-section of the conversation. And against such an ogre Layden is sending a Notre Dame team which has been defeated once, has had more tight squeezes than a fist, and which is pretty much a team without a star.

You hear kind words spoken for end Bill Kerr, and one fan declared Milt Piepul, 217 pounds of thunder on the hoof, is the best fullback he's seen, but when layden wants to win a game he just reaches into a bag and pulls out a hero for a day, so all is confusion when it comes to naming a standout.

The Irish are the underdogs, even their best friends will tell you, but 56,000 of the faithful bought up every ticket two weeks ago and will jam the stadium tomorrow with the hope of witnessing another of those breath-taking games which have made the series famous.

Throng of 56,000 To Witness Game Today at South Bend

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 24. (AP) — Southern California's powerful Trojans, aiming at an undefeated season and Rose Bowl glory, collide tomorrow with Notre Dame's Irish—the 14th installment in a thrill-packed intersectional football legend.

A capacity throng of 56,000 will jam Notre Dame stadium to its very brim for the battle, final of the season for the Irish who thus far have whipped Purdue, Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Navy, Carnegie Tech, Army and Northwestern and lost by one point to Iowa.

Coach Elmer Layden put his squad through a light drill today and both first string tackles, Tom Gallagher and Tad Harvey, apparently will be ready to start tomorrow. They suffered recurrences of old injuries in the Northwestern battle last week.

Layden no longer is counting very heavily on Bob Saggau, his only triple threater who was injured some weeks back. The offensive load against the Trojans is expected to be carried by Lou Zontini, Milt Piepul and Joe Thesing, Harry Stevenson and bolting Ben Sheridan, the little speedster.

Seven Lettermen On Parsons High Quint

Parsons, W. Va., Nov. 24—Coach Myrl Kepner, of the Parsons high school Panthers, announced today there were seven lettermen and eight regular players from last year to be seen in action again this season on the cage team.

Lettermen from last year are Maynard Harsh, Robert Wolf, Frank Bowley, James Griffith, Tom Shaffer, Dow Cox and Denver Strawderman, six foot four inch center player.

Others who saw service last season are Harper Lambert, Meredith Lambert, William Plumb, Junior Shaffer, Fred Parsons, Junior Parks, Harry Pinney and Richard Riley.

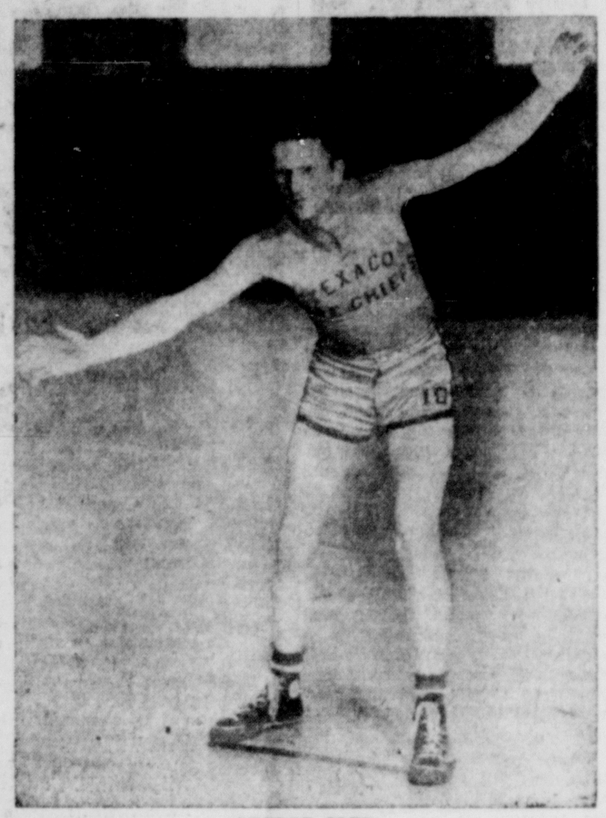

New boys for this year's cage team are Harry Long, Delvin Wratchford, Fred Felton, Lonnie Shoemaker, Glen Shoemaker, Jennigs Scott, Leon Pennington, Clell Simmons, Robert Swearingen, Getsel Irons, Frank Piggott and Ernest Moon.

Four star players were lost by graduation last year and this season it will be necessary to replace Mont Wratchford, Elwood Riley, Arthur "Whitie" Barr and William Cade.

The Panthers will be seeking their third straight Potomac Valley Conference championship this year. Twelve games have already been scheduled, two with each of the following schools: Thomas, Petersburg, Franklin, Piedmont, Keyser and Moorefield.

The remainder of the schedule will be completed the latter part of next week when coaches of the Potomac Valley will meet at Petersburg, and later at a meeting of coaches of Central West Virginia in Clarksburg.

Morris Harvey Hopes "Iron Man" Stunt May Stop Marshall Team

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP)—The Marshall College eleven may earn the name of "iron men" tomorrow, but there is still hope in the Morris Harvey roost that three football games in eight days will help stampeed the Thundering Herd.

Morris Harvey officials predicted a crowd of 12,000.

When the teams clash tomorrow at Laidley Field, Morris Harvey's Eagles will be fresh and dapper after a two weeks' rest.

The Herd has played 10 games, winning eight.

The 11th with Morris Harvey will be played two days after the Thanksgiving day encounter with West Virginia Wesleyan and one week after the Huntington footballers defeated Xavier.

Against Marshall's record, the Eagles stack up as the team due to lose.

Only Wake Forest, which outgained Duke before losing 6-0, and Scranton have humbled the Herd this season and both contests were struggles.

But Morris Harvey followers are bearing in mind that the Eagles came close to trouncing Ohio University and, by the record, they know the Herd's 200-pound line is not impregnable.

Marshall and Morris Harvey will meet for the first time since the Eagles suffered a 59-0 drubbing in 1936.

Winter Olympic Games Abandoned Because of War

Will Not Be Transferred to Any Other Country, Official Rules

Brussels, Nov. 24. (AP)—The 1940 winter Olympic games, doomed from the start of the European conflict, have been abandoned and will not be transferred from Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, to another site it was announced today by Count Henri De Baillet Latour, president of the international Olympic committee.

Latour's announcement followed an earlier one from German Olympic officials, saying they would be forced to resign as hosts to the skaters, skiiers and bob-sledders because of the rule forbidding a warring nation to stage the games.

From Lausanne, Switzerland, Secretary Andre Berdez of the International Olympic Committee voiced hope that it would be possible to transfer the snow games to another site, but Latour said it was too late. His apparently was the last word.

As the games are scheduled in February, it obviously would be difficult, if not impossible, to install elsewhere in such brief time a plant worthy of the winter sports. Particularly scarce are bob-sled runs of Olympic championship calibre.

Three Conference Crowns at Stake Today

Ivy League Title Also To Come Up For Settlement

Chief Interest, However, Centers In Irish Clash with Trojans

Several Conference Races Can Be Deadlocked by Dope Upset

By BILL BONI

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—Three major conference championships and the eastern "Ivy League" title come up for settlement tomorrow as college football reaches its next-to-last major Saturday. But chief interest will be attached to the gridiron festivities at South Bend, Ind., where no championship of any sort will be at stake.

There Rose Bowl-minded Tennessee's scouts will be in the jam-packed stands as unbeaten, once-tied Southern California deploys against Notre Dame. It promises to be a battle of potent backfields, with manpower likely to decide the issue and both teams amply equipped in that respect.

To End in Mid-West

Two conference races will come to a close in the middle west. Ohio State, which has gained the momentum of a streamlined steamroller, will stack up against Michigan and can be tied for Big Ten honors only if upset by the Wolverines while Iowa is dumping Northwestern. Missouri can sew up Big Six honors by beating underdog Kansas.

A tie seems the likely finish in the Southern Conference where Duke and Clemson, all-winning in league competitoin, will be favored to win their final games from North Carolina State and Furman, respectively. Cornell, third in national ranking this week, will seek its second straight Ivy League championship and first all-winning season since 1923 in its annual battle with Penn; Harvard and Yale will meet in their traditional clash, and on the Pacific coast U. C. L. A., seeking to keep up wtih Southern California in the race for the Rose Bowl, is likely to strike a tartad in Oregon State.

While a number of top teams can hold their fire until the second Thanksgiving day or next Saturday, this observer is not as fortunate and therefore puts the following predictions on the line (probable attendance figures in parentheses):

Penn and Cornell

Notre Dame-Southern California (56,000)—They said the Trojans have been priming for this one all fall. Despite the awesome reputations of Messrs. Schindler, Lansdell and Nace, this vote goes to Notre Dame.

Penn-Cornell (70,000)—Even in Philadelphia, the odds on this one are 1-3 in the Ithacans' favor. Recalling last year's scoreless tie, those odds are downright silly. Still, everything is on the Big Red's side except Francis Xavier Reagan, and he can't block this vote for Cornell.

U. C. L. A.-Oregon State (60,000)—The Uclans' Kenny Washington is rated probably the best back on the West coast. The Uclans are playing at home. Tossing out last week's tie with Santa Clara, U. C. L. A.

Ohio State-Michigan (75,000)—Though the return of Forrest Evasheviski to his blocking duties has put Michigan back in high, we like the Buckeyes' all-around strength and plunk down for Ohio State.

Iowa-Northwestern (40,000)—Probably because we've picked against them the last two weeks, Nile Kinnick and Co., will double-cross us this time. Still, those Hawkeyes should be rolling for fair and Iowa is the choice.

LaSalle Releases Coach Following End of Season

Announcement of the release of Harold F. Langton as coach of athletics at LaSalle High School was made yesterday by W. Arnold "Doc" Gunther, president of the LaSalle Athletic Association.

"Mr. Langton was notified several days ago by letter that we intended to terminate his contract with the Keyser High game Thanksgiving," Gunther said, "and we hope to reach a satisfactory financial adjustment with him at his earliest convenience."

LaSalle has already engaged Art Slocum to coach the 1939-40 basketball squad. The entire coaching situation for the 1940-41 terms, President Gunther said, will be considered soon after the first of the year.

Moorefield Loses To Alumni Gridmen

The only touchdown came in the second period when J. Calhoun lateraled to Left Guard Card Bean who galloped 70 yards to score. Evans, on a pass from F. Friddle, added the point.

Looking Back Over a Season Oct. 8.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—A few major engagements are listed for next Saturday—Army-Navy, Fordham-N. Y. U., Dartmouth-Stanford, Rice-Baylor, for instance—but, in the main today marks the windup of another football season, and already the crowd is looking back to the thrills and upsets, the high spots and the low, the triumphs and disappointments that the season brought.

Again a fine balance of power was maintained across the country; Cornell and Holy Cross in the East, Duke and Clemson in the South, Tennessee in the Southeast, Colorado in the Rocky Mountain sector, Texas A. and M. in the Southwest, Missouri in the Big Six, Ohio State in the Big Ten and, on the Pacific Coast, Southern California and U. C. L. A.

Throw those teams into a round-robin—and it would be anybody's guess as to which would come out on top. And, the way football goes, the fact that one team beat another one Saturday wouldn't prove it could do it the following Saturday. Given another chance, would Cornell beat Ohio State again? Alabama beat Fordham? Illinois beat Michigan? Ohio State beat Missouri?

To End in Mid-West

Two conference races will come to a close in the middle west. Ohio State, which has gained the momentum of a streamlined steamroller, will stack up against Michigan and can be tied for Big Ten honors only if upset by the Wolverines while Iowa is dumping Northwestern. Missouri can sew up Big Six honors by beating underdog Kansas.

Dr. Anderson At Iowa

Some great coaching jobs have been done this year but, undoubtedly, the main prize goes to Dr. Eddie Anderson at Iowa. Last year Iowa beat a pitifully weak Chicago team, got an unexpected tie with Purdue—and lost every other game it played.

This year Dr. Anderson, swinging West from Holy Cross, took that oft-beaten Iowa team, shook it up, polished it, gave it some new plays, fired it with a new spirit—and beat South Dakota, Indiana, Wisconsin, Purdue, Notre Dame and Minnesota, losing only to Michigan, and being favored to win from Northwestern today.

Two coaches, stepping into new jobs, were in tough spots, having to follow outstanding men. One was Joe Sheeketski, who followed Dr Anderson at Holy Cross. The other was Charlie Bowser, on the hottest spot of all, following Dr. John Bain Sutherland at Pitt. Both had excellent seasons. Holy Cross, beaten only by L. S. U. in one of the season's most astonishing upsets, was scored on in only one other game. Pitt lost to Duquesne, Fordham and Nebraska, but knocked off two of the stronger teams in the country in Duke and Carnegie Tech.

Zup and Michigan

The best one-day performance on the part of any coach was that given by Bob Zuppke when Illinois beat Michigan. There was a touch of magic in this game. Michigan had roared through Michigan State, Iowa, Chicago and Yale and, with Tom Harmon hitting on all cylinders, appeared unbeatable. Illinois had been battered by Southern California and beaten by Indiana and Northwestern.

It didn't look like a contest, this meeting of Michigan and Illinois. But Zup, better at getting a team ready for one game than any coach I ever knew, brought the Illini up red hot for this one. They hobbled Harmon for most of the game—although Tom broke loose long enough to make a touchdown—and bewildered, befuddled and dazed the Wolverines with the trickery and fury of their attack, and, much to the amazement of everybody save Zup, won the game.

No Upset at Columbus

The defeat of Ohio State by Cornell was tabbed as another upset, since no Ivy League team was supposed to have a chance against the most powerful array in the Big Ten. Going to Columbus to play the Buckeyes locked like a magnificent but foolhardy adventure on the part of the Cornell team and the game began as though it would end in a rout—as though the Buckeyes might chase the invaders half way back to Ithaca.

But Cornell, having spotted Ohio State fourteen points, put on one of the most magnificent drives that the season produced and hammered out a victory, 23 to 14.

As the season advanced, the outcome at Columbus looked less and less like an upset. Granting the power of the Ohio State team and leaving room for argument as to whether or not Cornell would win again if the teams were to play today, Cornell has clinched its own position among the top teams of the country. Unbeaten and untied, it has swept through the Ivy League with only Penn yet to be conquered. It has won easily and won the hard way — as it did against Columbia and Colgate. It has one of the finest lines and one of the finest sets of backs in the country—and, in Carl Snavely, one of the great coaches of the era.

In short, it ranks with the best team in any section — and that victory at Columbus was not the upset it seemed to be at the moment.

Of the great individual performances given by players, four stand out. One was Paul Christman's in the Missouri - N. Y. U. game. Another, Harmon's against Penn on Franklin Field. The others? The work of Nile Kinnick of Iowa and Kenny Washington of U. C. L. A. in every game they played, with particular emphasis on that of Kinnick, who twirled through every minute of six games in a row. Allegany Defeats Fort Hill Hi 13-0

Scoring one touchdown and passing to Halfback Lou Bell for another, hard-hitting Jim Gaffney was almost the whole show Thursday as Allegany High's pigskin machine mowed down the Fort Hill Sentinels 13-0 before approximately 6,000 persons to retain both the city scholastic and Cumberland Valley Athletic League championships.

The husky Campobello fullback, winding up his scholastic football career after three years as a Blue and White regular, toted the ball 18 times from scrimmage and gained a total of 106 yards or nearly six yards per thrust.

The first quarter was evenly-fought with Fort Hill having a slight edge during the early stages when the Sentinel line charged through to stop Allegany's reverse plays and delayed bucks before they could even get started. Later, the Campers reverted to straight power plays and then mixed these up with reverses and fakes to puzzle the Scarlet and White defense.

Ellis Golden, capably filling the shoes of Grover "Ox" Aronholt who was on the Fort Hill bench with his broken ankle in a cast, accounted for practically all of the Sentinels' yardage as Halfback Billy Davis whose hip-swinging runs in previous battles tabbed him as the Hilltoppers' No. 1 threat was completely bottled up.

Billy Conn Awarded Eddie Neil Trophy by New York Fight Writers

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, recognized in New York and California as the light heavyweight champion, today was awarded the Eddie Neil Memorial Trophy for 1939 by the New York Boxing Writers Association.

Conn was judged to have done the most for boxing during the year. The first award of the trophy, in honor of the former Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent who was killed in the Spanish Civil War, went to Jack Dempsey last year. Joe Louis was the only other fighter given consideration for this year's award.

James Dawson of the New York Times was reelected association president.

Cornell Loses Lucky Jerseys

Philadelphia, Nov. 24. (AP)—Pennsylvania claimed a pre-game victory today over Cornell in a friendly battle over the color of the jerseys to be worn in tomorrow's 46th gridiron meeting of the two Ivy League rivals on Franklin Field.

Cornell must discard the "lucky white" jerseys it has worn through an undefeated and untied season in favor of its old familiar red jersey—because Pennsylvania has decided to wear white. Hopeful Penn followers see a psychological victory for Penn in the decision for college football players are as superstitious as other athletes.

Visiting teams have been given the choice of uniform colors until this year when eastern collegiate officials changed the ruling at the request of—Pennsylvania. A mix-up on colors in last year's Penn-Lafayette game prompted H. Jamison Swarts, Penn's director of athletics, to urge the revision.

Penn's hopes of upsetting the heavily favored Ithacans depends considerably on quarterback Frank Reagan's passing success. He had a lesson in yesterday's pitching of profesisonal star Davey O'Brien for the Philadelphia Eagles against the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was O'Brien's success that gave the Eagles their first league victory.

Celanese Spinners League

The leading Dummies took all three games at the expense of the second place Whorls in Celanese Spinners League matches on the Savoy Alleys. The Spindles went into a tie for second with a two for three triumph over the Jets who are in a three way tie with the Bobbins and Candles. They got in the jam when the Candles copped two of three from the Bobbins.

LaSalle Triumphs Over Keyser 15-0

After being held scoreless for two periods, a favored LaSalle High football team came to life in the final half Thursday morning at Fort Hill stadium and handed the Keyser (W. Va.) Golden Tornado a 15-0 setback.

The game, an annual Thanksgiving affair, between the two teams, was the final of the season for both elevens. It was LaSalle's second win of the season and the loss was the sixth for Coach Homer Fizers aggregation. Three of Keyser's defeats were at the hands of Cumberland teams.

Blue and Gold scoring was done by Right End Johnny Small, Quarterback "Penny" Shaffer and Halfback Bill Cavananugh. Small scored the North Enders' first touchdown on a 42-yard gallop in the third heat and accounted for a safety early in the fourth stanza by bringing down a Tornado back in the end zone. Shaffer tallied a six-pointer on a 30-yard dash in the same stanza and Cavanaugh made the only LaSalle conversion on an end sweep following Small's marker.

Three Conference Crowns at Stake Today

Ivy League Title Also To Come Up For Settlement

Chief Interest, However, Centers In Irish Clash with Trojans

By BILL BONI

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—Three major conference championships and the eastern "Ivy League" title come up for settlement tomorrow as college football reaches its next-to-last major Saturday. But chief interest will be attached to the gridiron festivities at South Bend, Ind., where no championship of any sort will be at stake.

There Rose Bowl-minded Tennessee's scouts will be in the jam-packed stands as unbeaten, once-tied Southern California deploys against Notre Dame. It promises to be a battle of potent backfields, with manpower likely to decide the issue and both teams amply equipped in that respect.

To End in Mid-West

Two conference races will come to a close in the middle west. Ohio State, which has gained the momentum of a streamlined steamroller, will stack up against Michigan and can be tied for Big Ten honors only if upset by the Wolverines while Iowa is dumping Northwestern. Missouri can sew up Big Six honors by beating underdog Kansas.

A tie seems the likely finish in the Southern Conference ,where Duke and Clemson, all-winning in league competitoin, will be favored to win their final games from North Carolina State and Furman, respectively. Cornell, third in national ranking this week, will seek its second straight Ivy League championship and first all-winning season since 1923 in its annual battle with Penn; Harvard and Yale will meet in their traditional clash, and on the Pacific coast U. C. L. A., seeking to keep up wtih Southern California in the race for the Rose Bowl, is likely to strike a tartad in Oregon State.

While a number of top teams can hold their fire until the second Thanksgiving day or next Saturday, this observer is not as fortunate and therefore puts the following predictions on the line (probable attendance figures in parentheses):

Penn and Cornell

Notre Dame-Southern California (56,000)—They said the Trojans have been priming for this one all fall. Despite the awesome reputations of Messrs. Schindler, Lansdell and Nace, this vote goes to Notre Dame.

Penn-Cornell (70,000)—Even in Philadelphia, the odds on this one are 1-3 in the Ithacans' favor. Recalling last year's scoreless tie, those odds are downright silly. Still, everything is on the Big Red's side except Francis Xavier Reagan, and he can't block this vote for Cornell.

U. C. L. A.-Oregon State (60,000)—The Uclans' Kenny Washington is rated probably the best back on the West coast. The Uclans are playing at home. Tossing out last week's tie with Santa Clara, U. C. L. A.

Ohio State-Michigan (75,000)—Though the return of Forrest Evasheviski to his blocking duties has put Michigan back in high, we like the Buckeyes' all-around strength and plunk down for Ohio State.

Iowa-Northwestern (40,000)—Probably because we've picked against them the last two weeks, Nile Kinnick and Co., will double-cross us this time. Still, those Hawkeyes should be rolling for fair and Iowa is the choice.

LaSalle Releases Coach Following End of Season

Announcement of the release of Harold F. Langton as coach of athletics at LaSalle High School was made yesterday by W. Arnold "Doc" Gunther, president of the LaSalle Athletic Association.

"Mr. Langton was notified several days ago by letter that we intended to terminate his contract with the Keyser High game Thanksgiving," Gunther said, "and we hope to reach a satisfactory financial adjustment with him at his earliest convenience."

LaSalle has already engaged Art Slocum to coach the 1939-40 basketball squad. The entire coaching situation for the 1940-41 terms, President Gunther said, will be considered soon after the first of the year.

Moorefield Loses To Alumni Gridmen

The only touchdown came in the second period when J. Calhoun lateraled to Left Guard Card Bean who galloped 70 yards to score. Evans, on a pass from F. Friddle, added the point.

Looking Back Over a Season Oct. 8.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—A few major engagements are listed for next Saturday—Army-Navy, Fordham-N. Y. U., Dartmouth-Stanford, Rice-Baylor, for instance—but, in the main today marks the windup of another football season, and already the crowd is looking back to the thrills and upsets, the high spots and the low, the triumphs and disappointments that the season brought.

Again a fine balance of power was maintained across the country; Cornell and Holy Cross in the East, Duke and Clemson in the South, Tennessee in the Southeast, Colorado in the Rocky Mountain sector, Texas A. and M. in the Southwest, Missouri in the Big Six, Ohio State in the Big Ten and, on the Pacific Coast, Southern California and U. C. L. A.

Throw those teams into a round-robin—and it would be anybody's guess as to which would come out on top. And, the way football goes, the fact that one team beat another one Saturday wouldn't prove it could do it the following Saturday. Given another chance, would Cornell beat Ohio State again? Alabama beat Fordham? Illinois beat Michigan? Ohio State beat Missouri?

Dr. Anderson At Iowa

Some great coaching jobs have been done this year but, undoubtedly, the main prize goes to Dr. Eddie Anderson at Iowa. Last year Iowa beat a pitifully weak Chicago team, got an unexpected tie with Purdue—and lost every other game it played.

This year Dr. Anderson, swinging West from Holy Cross, took that oft-beaten Iowa team, shook it up, polished it, gave it some new plays, fired it with a new spirit—and beat South Dakota, Indiana, Wisconsin, Purdue, Notre Dame and Minnesota, losing only to Michigan, and being favored to win from Northwestern today.

Two coaches, stepping into new jobs, were in tough spots, having to follow outstanding men. One was Joe Sheeketski, who followed Dr. Anderson at Holy Cross. The other was Charlie Bowser, on the hottest spot of all, following Dr. John Bain Sutherland at Pitt. Both had excellent seasons. Holy Cross, beaten only by L. S. U. in one of the season's most astonishing upsets, was scored on in only one other game. Pitt lost to Duquesne, Fordham and Nebraska, but knocked off two of the stronger teams in the country in Duke and Carnegie Tech.

Zup and Michigan

The best one-day performance on the part of any coach was that given by Bob Zuppke when Illinois beat Michigan. There was a touch of magic in this game. Michigan had roared through Michigan State, Iowa, Chicago and Yale and, with Tom Harmon hitting on all cylinders, appeared unbeatable. Illinois had been battered by Southern California and beaten by Indiana and Northwestern.

It didn't look like a contest, this meeting of Michigan and Illinois. But Zup, better at getting a team ready for one game than any coach I ever knew, brought the Illini up red hot for this one. They hobbled Harmon for most of the game—although Tom broke loose long enough to make a touchdown—and bewildered, befuddled and dazed the Wolverines with the trickery and fury of their attack, and, much to the amazement of everybody save Zup, won the game.

No Upset at Columbus

The defeat of Ohio State by Cornell was tabbed as another upset, since no Ivy League team was supposed to have a chance against the most powerful array in the Big Ten. Going to Columbus to play the Buckeyes locked like a magnificent but foolhardy adventure on the part of the Cornell team and the game began as though it would end in a rout—as though the Buckeyes might chase the invaders half way back to Ithaca.

But Cornell, having spotted Ohio State fourteen points, put on one of the most magnificent drives that the season produced and hammered out a victory, 23 to 14.

As the season advanced, the outcome at Columbus looked less and less like an upset. Granting the power of the Ohio State team and leaving room for argument as to whether or not Cornell would win again if the teams were to play today, Cornell has clinched its own position among the top teams of the country. Unbeaten and untied, it has swept through the Ivy League with only Penn yet to be conquered. It has won easily and won the hard way—as it did against Columbia and Colgate. It has one of the finest lines and one of the finest sets of backs in the country—and, in Carl Snavely, one of the great coaches of the era.

In short, it ranks with the best team in any section — and that victory at Columbus was not the upset it seemed to be at the moment.

Of the great individual performances given by players, four stand out. One was Paul Christman's in the Missouri - N. Y. U. game. Another, Harmon's against Penn on Franklin Field. The others? The work of Nile Kinnick of Iowa and Kenny Washington of U. C. L. A. in every game they played, with particular emphasis on that of Kinnick, who twirled through every minute of six games in a row.

Allegany Defeats Fort Hill Hi 13-0

Scoring one touchdown and passing to Halfback Lou Bell for another, hard-hitting Jim Gaffney was almost the whole show Thursday as Allegany High's pigskin machine mowed down the Fort Hill Sentinels 13-0 before approximately 6,000 persons to retain both the city scholastic and Cumberland Valley Athletic League championships.

The husky Campobello fullback, winding up his scholastic football career after three years as a Blue and White regular, toted the ball 18 times from scrimmage and gained a total of 106 yards or nearly six yards per thrust.

The first quarter was evenly-fought with Fort Hill having a slight edge during the early stages when the Sentinel line charged through to stop Allegany's reverse plays and delayed bucks before they could even get started. Later, the Campers reverted to straight power plays and then mixed these up with reverses and fakes to puzzle the Scarlet and White defense.

Ellis Golden, capably filling the shoes of Grover "Ox" Aronholt who was on the Fort Hill bench with his broken ankle in a cast, accounted for practically all of the Sentinels' yardage as Halfback Billy Davis whose hip-swinging runs in previous battles tabbed him as the Hilltoppers' No. 1 threat was completely bottled up.

Billy Conn Awarded Eddie Neil Trophy by New York Fight Writers

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, recognized in New York and California as the light heavyweight champion, today was awarded the Eddie Neil Memorial Trophy for 1939 by the New York Boxing Writers Association.

Conn was judged to have done the most for boxing during the year. The first award of the trophy, in honor of the former Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent who was killed in the Spanish Civil War, went to Jack Dempsey last year. Joe Louis was the only other fighter given consideration for this year's award.

James Dawson of the New York Times was reelected association president.

Cornell Loses Lucky Jerseys

Philadelphia, Nov. 24. (AP)—Pennsylvania claimed a pre-game victory today over Cornell in a friendly battle over the color of the jerseys to be worn in tomorrow's 46th gridiron meeting of the two Ivy League rivals on Franklin Field.

Cornell must discard the "lucky white" jerseys it has worn through an undefeated and untied season in favor of its old familiar red jersey—because Pennsylvania has decided to wear white. Hopeful Penn followers see a psychological victory for Penn in the decision for college football players are as superstitious as other athletes.

Visiting teams have been given the choice of uniform colors until this year when eastern collegiate officials changed the ruling at the request of—Pennsylvania. A mix-up on colors in last year's Penn-Lafayette game prompted H. Jamison Swarts, Penn's director of athletics, to urge the revision.

Penn's hopes of upsetting the heavily favored Ithacans depends considerably on quarterback Frank Reagan's passing success. He had a lesson in yesterday's pitching of profesisonal star Davey O'Brien for the Philadelphia Eagles against the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was O'Brien's success that gave the Eagles their first league victory.

Celanese Spinners League

The leading Dummies took all three games at the expense of the second place Whorls in Celanese Spinners League matches on the Savoy Alleys. The Spindles went into a tie for second with a two for three triumph over the Jets who are in a three way tie with the Bobbins and Candles. They got in the jam when the Candles copped two of three from the Bobbins.

LaSalle Triumphs Over Keyser 15-0

After being held scoreless for two periods, a favored LaSalle High football team came to life in the final half Thursday morning at Fort Hill stadium and handed the Keyser (W. Va.) Golden Tornado a 15-0 setback.

The game, an annual Thanksgiving affair, between the two teams, was the final of the season for both elevens. It was LaSalle's second win of the season and the loss was the sixth for Coach Homer Fizers' aggregation. Three of Keyser's defeats were at the hands of Cumberland teams.

Blue and Gold scoring was done by Right End Johnny Small, Quarterback "Penny" Shaffer and Halfback Bill Cavananugh. Small scored the North Enders' first touchdown on a 42-yard gallop in the third heat and accounted for a safety early in the fourth stanza by bringing down a Tornado back in the end zone. Shaffer tallied a six-pointer on a 30-yard dash in the same stanza and Cavanaugh made the only LaSalle conversion on an end sweep following Small's marker.

Stocks Drop 1 to 4 Points as Roosevelt Hints at New Taxes

Steels, Motors and Aircrafts Are Principal Losers

By FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—The stock market ran into a tax bogey today and a brief flurry of scare-selling knocked down a handful of leaders one to four points.

Steels, motors and aircrafts were the principal sufferers. Rails, mail orders, utilities, rubbers and an assortment of specialties held up fairly well. Extreme declines were registered at the close for many issues and, here and there, modest rallying signs were in evidence.

The list tried to rally at the start but found little backing. Prices see-sawed until around noon when there was a relapse. The fall followed remarks of the president at his press conference at Warm Springs indicating some consideration was being given the matter of tax hoisting for defense.

Transfers totaled 817,471 shares against 567,160 last Wednesday. The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was off .6 of a point at 31, sharpest decline for any session since Nov. 9.

Prominent share losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, North American Aviation, Westinghouse, U. S Gypsum, Allied Chemical and International Harvester.

In the curb N. J. Zinc lost 3½ and Jones & Laughlin 1¾. Fractionally off were American Cyanamid "B", Lake Shore, Lockheed and Electric Bond & Share.

"Broadway Revelations" Is Cavalcade of Beauty

A stage full of beautiful girls will adorn the Strand Theatre stage next Sunday midnight, Monday and Tuesday when the "Broadway Revelations of 1940," comes to town.

Bonnie Brownell's Ten Glamour Girls present four different production numbers in which they offer the most intricate in dance precision. Each and every one of these lovely young girls is a talented, beautiful and versatile performer. Their routines range from the jitterbug type of numbe. to the military and tiller routines. The "Broadway Revelations" proudly boasts and raves about their lovely ladies of the ensemble and judging by reports of critics where this show has played this season, they have earned this right.

"Miss Evelyne" sensational dancer who presents her "star dance," will captivate you with her charm. It is rumored "Evelyne" is making rapid strides toward Hollywood because of her exceptional talents plus her terrific personality and million dollar smile. Also, hers is the "figure perfect." Miss Evelyne's dances are daringly different. Another beauty is Peggy Lee, dynamic bombshell of rhythm. Miss Lee offers a repertoire of the latest songs with her own arrangements which are ultra-modern. When she starts to "sing and sway" she'll have you wanting to dance in the aisles. In case you do, "The Revelation Swing Band" will be on hand.

The male part of the production consists of Will Morris and Bobby, cyclists supreme who offer a laugh-riot on wheels; the Six DeCardos, world champion barrel jumpers and teeter-board stars of the Ringling Shows; and Rudy Caffey, handsome young tenor of NBC fame does a great job in taking care of the presentation of the different numbers and acts as Master of Merriment throughout the production.

On the screen will be the new 20th Century-Fox picture, "Honeymoon Is Over," starring Marjorie Weaver and Stuart Erwin.

"Ninotchka" Is Garbo's Greatest Starring Hit

Greta Garbo's long dream of playing in a sophisticated romantic comedy has become a reality with "Ninotchka," her first picture in two years, which opened yesterday at the Maryland Theatre, and the gay new Garbo it presents indicates that her desire was well justified. The Swedish star is seen as a gay, ultra-modern girl in a romance with a French count. She dances to swing music, sings, wears glamorous gowns, figures in clever situations and dialogue. Ernst Lubitsch, famous creator of "Lubitsch touches" handled the story with outstanding effectiveness.

Garbo plays a Russian woman raised in the stern Soviet code who, sent to Paris on a Government mission, falls in love with a count (Melvyn Douglas), outwits her love rival (Ina Claire), and "gets her man." Gay moments in Paris night clubs and swank hotels are among the many delightful sequences in the production.

Garbo was never more fascinating than as a modern charmer with a sense of humor, and Douglas plays his role with debonair urbanity. Miss Claire provides brilliant lines with a brilliant performance, and a hilarious new comedy team is introduced in Felix Bressart, Sig Rumann and Alexander Granach as three philandering officials.

"Stagecoach" Players In "Allegheny Uprising"

Claire Trevor and John Wayne, who, as a romantic outdoor team, won a legion of new followers after their signal performances in "Stagecoach," repeat their sensational success in "Allegheny Uprising," now showing at the Liberty, RKO Radio's saga of America's pre-Revolutionary period.

Miss Trevor, a versatile actress, has achieved recognition on the screen through a wide variety of characterizations, but it was not until her portrayal of a pioneer girl in "Stagecoach" that she really found her forte. Wayne, on the other hand, has appeared in innumerable western films with modest success. His performance in "Stagecoach," however, catapulted him into the top ranks of outdoor stars.

In their current vehicle, "Allegheny Uprising" the young players have their finest opportunity to date. Wayne is cast as James Smith, grim leader of the Pennsylvania settlers who, in the 1760's took up arms against the British Crown because army officials refused to halt dishonest traders from supplying Indians with arms and ammunition. The story, based on documental facts contained in Neil Swanson's novel, "The First Rebel," depicts one of the most stirring chapters in American history.

"NINOTCHKA" NOW SHOWING AT MARYLAND

STARS IN STRAND HIT

"Wall Street Cowboy" "The Lady Vanishes"

"Day Time Wife" Is Gay and Romantic!

What have secretaries got that wives haven't?

This intriguing question is pondered—and hilariously answered—in "Day-time Wife," the gay 20th Century-Fox romantic comedy, costarring Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell (the dark-eyed little lovely who made such a hit in Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel For Women), which is playing to large audiences at the Strand Theatre and continues today and tomorrow.

The screen has never presented a more handsome or romantic couple or a gayer or more intriguing film treat.

It's a hit!

'Topper Takes a Trip' 'Outpost of the Mounties'

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy Theater will be another twin-hit attraction, "Topper Takes a Trip," starring Constance Bennett, Roland Young, Billie Burke and Alan Mowbray. The second feature will be Charles Starrett in the first local showing of "Outpost Of the Mounties," with an all star supporting cast.

Action and Romance in New "Bulldog" Film

The pursuit of a daring bank robber from England to France provides "Bulldog Drummond," famous film sleuth, with what is easily the most action-filled and thrilling of all his screen adventures in Paramount's new thriller, "Bulldog Drummond's Bride," now at the Garden Theatre. And taking the implication of the title at face value, the picture is designed to provide more romantic excitement than any other "Drummond" film.

With that fine young actor, John Howard, as "Drummond" once more, and Heather Angel in the role of his long-suffering fiancee, "Phyllis Clavering," the plot of the H. C (Sapper) McNeile story starts to unfold when a daring bank robbery is committed in London. "Drummond" has promised "Phyllis" that he will join her on a specified date at a honeymoon cottage in a little town in France where the long-delayed nuptials are to take place. Phyllis has informed him that she will marry a mysterious Mr. Aldergate unless he arrives on time.

Steels, Motors and Aircrafts Are Principal Losers

By FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Nov. 24. (AP)—The stock market ran into a tax bogey today and a brief flurry of scare-selling knocked down a handful of leaders one to four points.

Steels, motors and aircrafts were the principal sufferers. Rails, mail orders, utilities, rubbers and an assortment of specialties held up fairly well. Extreme declines were reduced at the close for many issues and, here and there, modest plus signs were in evidence.

The list tried to rally at the start but found little backing. Prices saw-sawed until around noon when there was a relapse. The fall followed remarks of the president at his press conference at Warm Springs indicating some consideration was being given the matter of tax hoisting for defense.

Transfers totaled 817,471 shares against 567,160 last Wednesday. The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was off .6 of a point at 91, sharpest decline for any session since Nov. 9.

Chrysler was a weak spot all day as this company's labor stalemate continued.

Prominent share losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, North American Aviation, Westinghouse, U. S Gypsum, Allied Chemical and International Harvester.

In the curb N. J. Zinc lost 3½ and Jones & Laughlin 1⅞. Fractionally off were American Cyanamid "B", Lake Shore, Lockheed and Electric Bond & Share.

"Broadway Revelations" Is Cavalcade of Beauty

A stage full of beautiful girls will adorn the Strand Theatre stage next Sunday midnight, Monday and Tuesday when the "Broadway Revelations of 1940," comes to town.

Bonnie Brownell's Ten Glamour Girls present four different production numbers in which they offer the most intricate in dance precision. Each and every one of these lovely young girls is a talented, beautiful and versatile performer. Their routines range from the jitterbug type of number to the military and tiller routines. The "Broadway Revelations" proudly boasts and raves about their lovely ladies of the ensemble and judging by reports of critics where this show has played this season, they have earned this right.

"Miss Evelyne" sensational dancer who presents her "star dance," will captivate you with her charm. It is rumored "Evelyne" is making rapid strides toward Hollywood because of her exceptional talents plus her terrific personality and million dollar smile. Also, hers is the "figure perfect." Miss Evelyne's dances are daringly different. Another beauty is Peggy Lee, dynamic bombshell of rhythm. Miss Lee offers a repertoire of the latest songs with her own arrangements which are ultra-modern. When she starts to "sing and sway" she'll have you wanting to dance in the aisles. In case you do, "The Revelation Swing Band" will be on hand.

The male part of the production consists of Will Morris and Bobby, cyclists supreme who offer a laugh-riot on wheels; the Six DeCardos, world champion barrel jumpers and teeter-board stars of the Ringling Shows; and Rudy Caffey, handsome young tenor of NBC fame does a great job in taking care of the presentation of the different numbers and acts as Master of Merriment throughout the production.

On the screen will be the new 20th Century-Fox picture, "Honeymoon Is Over," starring Marjorie Weaver and Stuart Erwin.

"Ninotchka" Is Garbo's Greatest Starring Hit

Greta Garbo's long dream of playing in a sophisticated romantic comedy has become a reality with "Ninotchka," her first picture in two years, which opened yesterday at the Maryland Theatre, and the gay new Garbo it presents indicates that her desire was well justified. The Swedish star is seen as a gay, ultra-modern girl in a romance with a French count. She dances to swing music, sings, wears glamorous gowns, figures in clever situations and dialogue. Ernst Lubitsch, famous creator of "Lubitsch touches" handled the story with outstanding effectiveness.

Garbo plays a Russian woman raised in the stern Soviet code who, sent to Paris on a Government mission, falls in love with a count (Melvyn Douglas), outwits her love rival (Ina Claire), and "gets her man." Gay moments in Paris night clubs and swank hotels are among the many delightful sequences in the production.

Garbo was never more fascinating than as a modern charmer with a sense of humor, and Douglas plays his role with debonair urbanity. Miss Claire provides brilliant lines with a brilliant performance, and a hilarious new comedy team is introduced in Felix Bressart, Sig Rumann and Alexander Granach as three philandering officials.

"Stagecoach" Players In "Allegheny Uprising"

"NINOTCHKA" NOW SHOWING AT MARYLAND

STARS IN STRAND HIT

"Wall Street Cowboy" "The Lady Vanishes"

"Day Time Wife" Is Gay and Romantic!

What have secretaries got that wives haven't?

This intriguing question is pondered—and hilariously answered—in "Day-time Wife," the gay 20th Century-Fox romantic comedy, costarring Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell (the dark-eyed little lovely who made such a hit in Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel For Women), which is playing to large audiences at the Strand Theatre and continues today and tomorrow.

The screen has never presented a more handsome or romantic couple or a gayer or more intriguing film treat.

It's a hit!

'Topper Takes a Trip' 'Outpost of the Mounties'

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy Theater will be another twin-hit attraction, "Topper Takes a Trip," starring Constance Bennett, Roland Young, Billie Burke and Alan Mowbray. The second feature will be Charles Starrett in the first local showing of "Outpost Of the Mounties," with an all star supporting cast.

Action and Romance in New "Bulldog" Film

The pursuit of a daring bank robber from England to France provides "Bulldog Drummond," famous film sleuth, with what is easily the most action-filled and thrilling of all his screen adventures in Paramount's new thriller, "Bulldog Drummond's Bride," now at the Garden Theatre. And taking the implication of the title at face value, the picture is designed to provide more romantic excitement than any other "Drummond" film.

With that fine young actor, John Howard, as "Drummond" once more, and Heather Angel in the role of his long-suffering fiancee, "Phyllis Clavering," the plot of the H. C. (Sapper) McNeile story starts to unfold when a daring bank robbery is committed in London. "Drummond" has promised "Phyllis" that he will join her on a specified date at a honeymoon cottage in a little town in France where the long-delayed nuptials are to take place. Phyllis has informed him that she will marry a mysterious Mr. Aldergate unless he arrives on time.

Christmas Savings in Oakland Banks Total $11,000

Checks Will Be Mailed to 250 Depositors

An Increase of $2,500 over 1938 Is Reported by Bank Officials

Oakland, Nov. 24 — More than $11,000 will be sent out from the two Oakland banks December 1, in Christmas Savings Club checks. The money will be distributed among approximately 250 depositors of the First National Bank and the Garrett National Bank.

Cashiers of the local banks stated that this year had shown an increase over the previous year when only $8,500 had been distributed.

It is estimated that over thirty percent of the savings will go for Christmas purchases and the balance toward permanent savings, year-end bills, insurance premiums, taxes, education, travel, charity and mortgage interest.

The Christmas club savings feature was established fourteen years ago in this county by the First National bank of Oakland. The following year it was adopted by the Garrett National Bank.

To Open New Store

P. H. Feld, owner of the Half Price Stores in Oakland and in five West Virginia towns, announced yesterday that he would open his seventh store in Meyersdale, Pa., about January 1, 1940.

He has leased a building in Meyersdale on Center street. This is Mr. Feld's first venture into Pennsylvania.

The first Half Price Store was opened in Oakland in Nov. 1931. The business here enlarged and expanded and in June, 1934, the store's first branch was opened in Petersburg, W. Va., followed by additional stores at Parsons, Moorefield, Kingwood, and Franklin, W. Va.

Banks Change Hours

The Garrett National Bank in Oakland, and the First National Bank have given notice that beginning December 1, banking hours will be changed, the closing time being set at two o'clock every afternoon of each business day except Saturday when the closing time will be 12 o'clock noon as at present. Both banks will open at the usual hour of nine o'clock a. m.

This change has been made necessary by reason of the wage and hour law which prohibits a work week of more than forty - two hours.

Teachers Receive Checks

Checks for October salaries were mailed Wednesday to school teachers and others connected with the school system. The balance of the amount necessary was raised by a county order of $8,258.99, given to the Board of Education by the County Commissioners. This amount, added to other funds already on hand was sufficient to pay current bills.

The Commissioners stated that the school board was due to get another $23,000 from the county on January 1. The Commissioners also announced that during the past week they had ordered payment to the banks of Oakland for interest on back county orders, which was authorized by the 1939 legislature. The First National Bank received $2,455.37, while the Garrett National Bank in Oakland received $487.-94. This paid interest on back orders up to date, it was stated.

Marriage Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. George Yutzy, Liberty street, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mary Frances, to Joseph Paige, of Newark, N. J., which took place June 17, 1939, in New York City.

The bride has been engaged as a nurse at the New Jersey State Hospital, Greystone Park, N. J., for the past three years, having completed her training as a nurse at Passavant hospital, Pittsburgh, and a post - graduate course at St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington. She was graduated from Oakland High school, class of 1931. Mr. Paige is employed in Newark.

Union Miners To Run Two Missouri Mines

Kirksville, Mo., Nov. 24 (AP)—Union coal miners were offered a chance today to prove their contention that two mines could be operated at a profit if their demands for higher pay and shorter hours were granted.

Deadlocked with about 300 striking members of the United Mine Workers of America, C.I.O., union Emmett Corrigan and the Blacksmith brothers, offered their mines to the union employes. Corrigan proposed to let the men run his mine for one month. The Blacksmith brothers proffered their mine for two months.

In making their offer the operators stipulated the miners must assume any losses that were incurred during the trial period and if there were any profits the miners could share them among themselves.

Loans Are Made under F. S. A. Plan of Supervised Credit

Grantsville, Nov. 24.—There are still funds available for rehabilitation loans to Garrett and Allegany county farmers, it was announced this morning by Nicholas L. Zabenco, Rural Rehabilitation Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration office here. Loans are made under the F. S. A. plan of supervised credit for the purchase of seed, fertilizer, feed, livestock and equipment. The supervisor pointed out that these loans are made to farm operators, whether owners or tenants, who are unable to obtain necessary financial assistance from the regular credit agencies. Mr. Zabenco certifies all loan requests of farmers in these two counties, and said rehabilitatoin loans totaling $550,000 have been made to about 800 farm families in this state, starting them on the way toward economic security. These loads are drawn up on the basis of sound farm and home management plans, which are worked out by the borrower with the assistance of the F. S. A. supervisors. Since the working out of these plans generally required considerable time, it is to the advantage of the farmer desiring such a loan to file his application as soon as he can estimate his needs for the coming crop year.

Mr. Zabenco said the carrying out of these farm plans is as essential as the loan itself in restoring a family to independence and further, that the plan always provides for supplying the food needs of the family largely from the farm, what they term a "live-at-home program. In that way sufficient income is available for operating needs and to place the farmer on his own feet in a few years.

The supervisor also called attention to the farm debt adjustment service, which brings the farmers and their creditors together in an attempt to find a mutually acceptable way out of their difficulties. This service, which is strictly confidential, is available without obligation to any farmer of his creditor, on request. Through voluntary debt adjustment nearly 700 farmers in this state who were in serious financial difficulties, have secured satisfactory extension of credit and saved their farms from foreclosure. In addition to the production loans available to individual borrowers, the F. S. A. also makes loans to neighborhood groups of farmers for the jonit purchase of expensive farm machinery or services, which they could not afford to own individually.

Christmas Savings in Oakland Banks Total $11,000

Checks Will Be Mailed to 250 Depositors

An Increase of $2,500 over 1938 Is Reported by Bank Officials

Oakland, Nov. 24 — More than $11,000 will be sent out from the two Oakland banks December 1, in Christmas Savings Club checks. The money will be distributed among approximately 250 depositors of the First National Bank and the Garrett National Bank.

Cashiers of the local banks stated that this year had shown an increase over the previous year when only $8,500 had been distributed.

It is estimated that over thirty percent of the savings will go for Christmas purchases and the balance toward permanent savings, year-end bills, insurance premiums, taxes, education, travel, charity and mortgage interest.

To Open New Store

P. H. Feld, owner of the Half Price Stores in Oakland and in five West Virginia towns, announced yesterday that he would open his seventh store in Meyersdale, Pa., about January 1, 1940.

The first Half Price Store was opened in Oakland in Nov. 1931. The business here enlarged and expanded and in June, 1934, the store's first branch was opened in Petersburg, W. Va., followed by additional stores at Parsons, Moorefield, Kingwood, and Franklin, W. Va.

Banks Change Hours

The Garrett National Bank in Oakland, and the First National Bank have given notice that beginning December 1, banking hours will be changed, the closing time being set at two o'clock every afternoon of each business day except Saturday when the closing time will be 12 o'clock noon as at present. Both banks will open at the usual hour of nine o'clock a. m.

This change has been made necessary by reason of the wage and hour law which prohibits a work week of more than forty - two hours.

Teachers Receive Checks

Checks for October salaries were mailed Wednesday to school teachers and others connected with the school system. The balance of the amount necessary was raised by a county order of $8,258.99, given to the Board of Education by the County Commissioners. This amount, added to other funds already on hand was sufficient to pay current bills.

The Commissioners stated that the school board was due to get another $23,000 from the county on January 1. The Commissioners also announced that during the past week they had ordered payment to the banks of Oakland for interest on back county orders, which was authorized by the 1939 legislature. The First National Bank received $2,455.37, while the Garrett National Bank in Oakland received $487.-94. This paid interest on back orders up to date, it was stated.

Marriage Is Announced

J., for the past three years, having completed her training as a nurse at Passavant hospital, Pittsburgh, and a post - graduate course at St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington. She was graduated from Oakland High school, class of 1931. Mr. Paige is employed in Newark.

Union Miners To Run Two Missouri Mines

Kirksville, Mo., Nov. 24 (AP)—Union coal miners were offered a chance today to prove their contention that two mines could be operated at a profit if their demands for higher pay and shorter hours were granted.

Deadlocked with about 300 striking members of the United Mine Workers of America, C.I.O., union Emmett Corrigan and the Blacksmith brothers, offered their mines to the union employes. Corrigan proposed to let the men run his mine for one month. The Blacksmith brothers proffered their mine for two months.

The miners are asking wage increases to $5 a day from the present $3.50 scale and a seven-hour working day.

In making their offer the operators stipulated the miners must assume any losses that were incurred during the trial period and if there were any profits the miners could share them among themselves.

Loans Are Made under F. S. A. Plan of Supervised Credit

Grantsville, Nov. 24.—There are still funds available for rehabilitation loans to Garrett and Allegany county farmers, it was announced this morning by Nicholas L. Zabenco, Rural Rehabilitation Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration office here. Loans are made under the F. S. A. plan of supervised credit for the purchase of seed, fertilizer, feed, livestock and equipment. The supervisor pointed out that these loans are made to farm operators, whether owners or tenants, who are unable to obtain necessary financial assistance from the regular credit agencies. Mr. Zabenco certifies all loan requests of farmers in these two counties, and said rehabilitatoin loans totaling $550,000 have been made to about 800 farm families in this state, starting them on the way toward economic security. These loads are drawn up on the basis of sound farm and home management plans, which are worked out by the borrower with the assistance of the F. S. A. supervisors. Since the working out of these plans generally required considerable time, it is to the advantage of the farmer desiring such a loan to file his application as soon as he can estimate his needs for the coming crop year.

Mr. Zabenco said the carrying out of these farm plans is as essential as the loan itself in restoring a family to independence and further, that the plan always provides for supplying the food needs of the family largely from the farm, what they term a "live-at-home program. In that way sufficient income is available for operating needs and to place the farmer on his own feet in a few years.

The supervisor also called attention to the farm debt adjustment service, which brings the farmers and their creditors together in an attempt to find a mutually acceptable way out of their difficulties. This service, which is strictly confidential, is available without obligation to any farmer of his creditor, on request. Through voluntary debt adjustment nearly 700 farmers in this state who were in serious financial difficulties, have secured satisfactory extension of credit and saved their farms from foreclosure. In addition to the production loans available to individual borrowers, the F. S. A. also makes loans to neighborhood groups of farmers for the jonit purchase of expensive farm machinery or services, which they could not afford to own individually.

PLANS BOXING CLEANUP

Ambrose J. Kennedy

A move to clean up professional boxing, placing the sport under control of the federal government, is plan of Congressman Ambrose J. Kennedy, Representative from Baltimore, Md. He would take boxing out of the hands of "ward-heelers and silent gangster-partners and managers."

Hi-Y Members Will Attend Conference

Nine Students from Central High School Will Make Trip

Lonaconing, Nov. 24—Central high school Hi-Y club will send delegates to the seventeenth annual Older Boys conference of Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia, to be held December 1, 2 and 3, in Washington, D. C.

The conference is sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association of Delaware, Maryland and District of Columbia. The theme of the conference is "Effective Christian Living."

The delegates who will attend the convention must be between the ages of fifteen and twenty-one and must be members of a church school, Hi-Y club, Boy Scout troop or a Youth Organization.

While in Washington, the delegates will be assigned to homes from where they will make trips to the Federal Bureau of Investigation with J. Edgar Hoover. They will also visit the Supreme court and will have their pictures taken on the steps of the Supreme court building. The conference will end at 11 a. m. Sunday, Dec. 3, when Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder will deliver the final address.

Delegates from the local school club who will make the trip by motor are: Charles Cook, Jack Morgan, Eddir Nolan, Harry Dutt, Blair Holmes, James Gowans, Gene Stevens, Arch Cook and Alonzo McGinn. They will be accompanied by Lowell M. Sowers, sponsor and Mae Holmes.

Debaters Selected

One girl and two boys from the junior class, and seven members of the senior class were selected in the second elimination contest held at Central high school, before the student body.

Members of the faculty selected five girls and five boys from twenty-two members of both classes. In the first contest held in the classroom, eleven from each class was selected to compete this week.

The ten contestants will compete again in the third contest to decide the representatives of the school in the county contest sponsored by Tasker G. Lowndes. The winners

Keyser Woman Is Fined $10

Charge of Drunken Driving against Betty Michael Is Dismissed

Keyser, W. Va., November 24.—A 32-year-old Keyser woman was victorious today in fighting a drunken driving charge in police court here.

Arrested by chief of city police James E. Leatherman at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday, Miss Betty Michael, B street, Keyser, denied before Police Judge A. A. Jordan that she drove her automobile while intoxicated. She admitted through her attorney, H. R. Athey, that she was drunk, but testified that William Washington, negro, a post-office employe here, was driving her car at the time she was taken into custody by Leatherman.

Albert Thomas, brother of Keyser's Fire Chief E. Wade Thomas, testified that the woman's car "almost ran into a taxi" on Armstrong street at about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, and "almost ran into my car, backing away from the taxi." Thomas said from the witness stand that he did not know who was behind the wheel of the vehicle.

Cattle Injured

One cow was killed, and two others injured to the extent that it was thought necessary to destroy them when the roof of a cattle-barn caved in late Wednesday night in the Alkire orchard, near here. The livestock was owned by Frank J. Cavanaugh, Potomac Heights.

Nearby residents, hearing the animals' cries, called Keyser for aid. The Keyser fire company answered the summons, clearing the wreckageage of the collapsed roof and releasing the uninjured stock trapped in the wrecked building.

Fire Chief E. Wade Thomas today said that the Keyser Fire Company would answer any such emergency calls. He stated that calling the fire department was "the quickest way to get twenty or twenty-five men" in any sort of emergency.

Divorces Granted

The number of divorces granted at this term of Circuit Court here reached eighteen today when he signed orders granting separation to two couples.

This morning complete divorces to Lottie Lora Parker and Frank Abner Parker; and Madalene L. Linaburg and Harold B. Linaburg. Mrs. Linaburg was given custody of a two-year-old son.

Plan Charity Work

Plans made by a group of public-spirited citizens who met in Keyser's First Presbyterian church Wednesday night were announced today, setting forth a program of aiding needy families here during the Christmas season.

Mrs. J. H. P. Entler, appointed by Mayor John C. Frecland as publicity chairman of the charity group, this afternoon said that the body had as its aim the carrying-on charitable work done last year by a similar organization.

Other committee heads named were: Lester Oates, general chairman of all committees; C. C. Compton, chairman of committee on finance; Frederick Sheetz, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John A. Wood, chairman of committee on children's programs; George C. Ludywig, chairman of "treat" committee; Mrs. Emory Tyler, chairman of gift committee; Miss Stella Haugan, chairman of music committee, and Mayor John C. Freeland, chairman of basket and tree committee.

Personal Item

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lewis and family spent Thanksgiving with relatives at Terra Alta, W. Va.

Miss Julia Selsck, Henry, W. Va., is the guest of her sister Mrs. Peter Kuski.

Cabell Sheriff Makes New Raid

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP) — A new raid within the city by Cabell county Sheriff O. M. Phipps netted today magazines which a woman investigator charged "tend to corrupt the morals."

Phipps seized the magazines from a newsstand under a warrant issued on the complaint of the Rev. Mary H. Ellis, private investigator for the Ministerial Association, Good Government Association and other groups.

The raid was the latest of those conducted independently by county and state officers and eight patrolmen who, deploring a "lack of leadership", went law enforcing during off-hours.

Participation by state police resulted in a sharp reprimand for Mayor George Seamonds from Governor Holt, after the mayor gave publicity to a conference with the governor.

Phipps identified the manager of the newsstand from which the magazines were taken as James H. Moffat and said he would be arraigned before a magistrate as soon as he is taken into custody.

More than 100 persons have been arrested since the series of raids began.

Keyser Woman Is Fined $10

Charge of Drunken Driving against Betty Michael Is Dismissed

Arrested by chief of city police James E. Leatherman at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday, Miss Betty Michael, B street, Keyser, denied before Police Judge A. A. Jordan that she drove her automobile while intoxicated. She admitted through her attorney, H. R. Athey, that she was drunk, but testified that William Washington, negro, a post-office employe here, was driving her car at the time she was taken into custody by Leatherman.

Albert Thomas, brother of Keyser's Fire Chief E. Wade Thomas, testified that the woman's car "almost ran into a taxi" on Armstrong street at about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, and "almost ran into my car, backing away from the taxi." Thomas said from the witness stand that he did not know who was behind the wheel of the vehicle.

Cattle Injured

One cow was killed, and two others injured to the extent that it was thought necessary to destroy them when the roof of a cattle-barn caved in late Wednesday night in the Alkire orchard, near here. The livestock was owned by Frank J. Cavanaugh, Potomac Heights.

Nearby residents, hearing the animals' cries, called Keyser for aid. The Keyser fire company answered the summons, clearing the wreckageage of the collapsed roof and releasing the uninjured stock trapped in the wrecked building.

Fire Chief E. Wade Thomas today said that the Keyser Fire Company would answer any such emergency calls. He stated that calling the fire department was "the quickest way to get twenty or twenty-five men" in any sort of emergency.

Divorces Granted

The number of divorces granted at this term of Circuit Court here reached eighteen today when he signed orders granting separation to two couples.

This morning complete divorces to Lottie Lora Parker and Frank Abner Parker; and Madalene L. Linaburg and Harold B. Linaburg. Mrs. Linaburg was given custody of a two-year-old son.

Plan Charity Work

Plans made by a group of public-spirited citizens who met in Keyser's First Presbyterian church Wednesday night were announced today, setting forth a program of aiding needy families here during the Christmas season.

Mrs. J. H. P. Entler, appointed by Mayor John C. Frecland as publicity chairman of the charity group, this afternoon said that the body had as its aim the carrying-on charitable work done last year by a similar organization.

Other committee heads named were: Lester Oates, general chairman of all committees; C. C. Compton, chairman of committee on finance; Frederick Sheetz, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John A. Wood, chairman of committee on children's programs; George C. Ludwig, chairman of "treat" committee; Mrs. Emory Tyler, chairman of gift committee; Miss Stella Haugan, chairman of music committee, and Mayor John C. Freeland, chairman of basket and tree committee.

Personal Item

Personal Items From Kempton

Kempton, W. Va., Nov. 24—Tony Repetsky, local coal miner is convalescing at City Hospital, Elkins, W. Va., following injuries sustained when caught between a car and the mine wall.

Andrew Kronik has returned to Camp Frederick CCC after visiting his parents.

James Gooding, local mine superintendent, has been appointed trustee of Kempton school to succeed Jack King who has resigned.

Misses Freda James, Burnetta Arnold and Selma Broll visited relatives and friends at Barton, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sprague and son visited relatives in Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lewis and family spent Thanksgiving with relatives at Terra Alta, W. Va.

Miss Julia Selsek, Henry, W. Va., is the guest of her sister Mrs. Peter Kuski.

Cabell Sheriff Makes New Raid

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 24 (AP) — A new raid within the city by Cabell county Sheriff O. M. Phipps netted today magazines which a woman investigator charged "tend to corrupt the morals."

Phipps seized the magazines from a newsstand under a warrant issued on the complaint of the Rev. Mary H. Ellis, private investigator for the Ministerial Association, Good Government Association and other groups.

The raid was the latest of those conducted independently by county and state officers and eight patrolmen who, deploring a "lack of leadership", went law enforcing during off-hours.

The eight city officers indicated they intended to continue their crusade despite the possibility of disciplinary action.

Raids by the "outside" officers have been on places charged with selling liquor illegally, permitting gambling or the sale of indecent literature.

Participation by state police resulted in a sharp reprimand for Mayor George Seamonds from Governor Holt, after the mayor gave publicity to a conference with the governor.

Phipps identified the manager of the newsstand from which the magazines were taken as James H. Moffat and said he would be arraigned before a magistrate as soon as he is taken into custody.

More than 100 persons have been arrested since the series of raids began.

ETTA KETT — By ROBINSON

Kelly Unionist Nabbed For Passing Handbills

Rubber Workers Ready To Fight Ordinance In Court Today

The validity of the city's handbill ordinance will be given another test this morning in Police court when a former president of Local 26, United Rubber Workers, faces a charge of distributing pamphlets without a permit.

The defendant will be John Geis of Frostburg, who was arrested yesterday by Police Sergt. Raymond Johnston at the main gate of the Kelly-Springfield plant after he had distributed approximately 500 notices of a union meeting.

Thousand Handbills Seized

Geis, with 1,000 handbills under his arm, took his stand at the main gate yesterday at 2 p. m. and proceeded to pass out the notices as the first shift left the plant and the second shift went to work.

The distributor was arrested by Sergt. Johnston around 3 p. m. and booked at police headquarters at 3:45 p. m.

Heading for a Showdown

Although rubber union representatives were non-committal last night regarding the incident, it appeared certain that the union had made up its mind to go to the mat with city officials regarding the handbill ordinance which they claim is unconstitutional.

Geis will be defended today by I. Duke Avnet, union attorney from Baltimore, who is opening a part-time office here. Avnet will request that the case be dismissed on the grounds that the city ordinance is invalid.

Action Follows Court Rulings

The union's action yesterday follows rulings by the Supreme Court this week which invalidated city handbill ordinances in Wooster, Mass., Los Angeles, Irvington, N. J., and Milwaukee.

In the event the Police Magistrate finds Geis guilty as charged, it appeared almost certain last night that the rubber workers would request a writ of certiorari from the Circuit court to test a magistrate's jurisdiction in such a case.

Council Turned Union Down

The union contends that the handbill ordinance is not applicable to labor organizations and non-commercial organizations and if made to apply to labor organizations is unconstitutional.

Yesterday's arrest of Geis follows council's turndown of a union request to distribute handbills to raise funds during the recent Red Cross drive. . The request was submitted to council by E. M. Pueschell, secretary or the rubber union.

Union Meeting Advertised

The union meeting the handbills were advertising is to be held Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in Rubber Workers hall on South Mechanic street.

The handbill made an especial point of inviting non-union members to the meeting to hear the terms of the proposed contract with the tire company discussed.

Mayor's Statement Loses In Supreme Court 'Test'

Two municipal handbill ordinances which Mayor Harry Irvine declared sometime ago were similar to Cumberland's handbill ordinance have recently been found unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

On Sept. 23 the mayor issued a statement calling attention to the fact that handbill ordinances in Los Angeles and Milwaukee had been upheld by superior state courts.

This, the mayor inferred in his statement, which was published in The News of Sept. 25, was pretty good proof that Cumberland's ordinance was constitutional.

But along came Supreme Court rulings this week which upset the mayor's applecart by declaring the Los Angeles and the Milwaukee ordinances unconstitutional.

And the Supreme Court, of course, has the last say, and not the state courts, whose decisions were proclaimed in the mayor's September statement.

The mayor has made no statement since the Supreme Court ruling.

1,204 County Youths Now Getting Aid From Federal Projects

Miss Georgia Dixon and Miss Mildred J. Flanagan had returned today from Washington where they attended a two-day institute sponsored by the Department of Agriculture for NYA leaders interested in work projects for young women.

Miss Dixon was recently appointed assistant district supervisor and is in charge of women's projects in Lonaconing and Cumberland. She is a graduate of Western Maryland college and taught home economics in Fort Hill high school, Cumberland.

Program Being Broadened

According to Price Steiding NYA representative in this area, the National Youth Administration's program for young women will be broadened to include employment on projects which offer training in home-making, sewing, dietetics, consumer problems, purchasing, family budgets and the like. NYA girls will have an opportunity to rotate one job to another on the same project, acquiring a working knowledge of many essential skills.

A work-shop is being set up at the Cumberland Street school, now occupied by NYA, where hot lunches will be prepared and served by the girls on a co-operative basis.

Twenty Collegians on NYA

Miss Flanagan supervises the resident-work project operated in connection with Frostburg Teachers college, where twenty youths are employed part-time, and carry a full schedule of classes.

Miss Flanagan explained that resident-projects of this type are a new departure for NYA, since they are a combination of student-aid with work-project. NYA student-aid supplements private income making it possible for students to remain in school. A work-project, established in connection with a college, as at Frostburg, makes it possible for a student to go to school with little or no outside help. Youths between 18 and 25, otherwise out of school and out of work, who have high school credits, are eligible for this type of employment.

Nearly Half Girls

However, there are no scholastic requirements for the six other NYA work projects in Allegany county, employing a total of 1,200 youths, nearly half of whom are girls.

Young people, boys or girls who are out of work, and wish further information about NYA work-projects, are asked to communicate with Price Steiding, Box 355, Lonaconing, Md.

Relatives Reach Victim's Bedside

Woman's Condition Remains Critical

Mrs. Magdelina, Laney, 70, Toledo, O., was still in a critical condition at Miner's hospital, in Frostburg, last night following an automobile accident Wednesday night on Barn Hill, near Eckhart.

Mrs. Laney and her daughter, Miss Colette Laney, also of Toledo, were on their way to Berryville, Va., for Thanksgiving when the accident occurred.

Hospital attendants said last night that Miss Laney would be released from the hospital Monday. When brought to the hospital, Miss Laney was suffering from shock but was otherwise uninjured.

Informed of the crackup, Mrs. Laney's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Stough, of Barryville, and her son, Cyril Laney, of Toledo, rushed to Frostburg, arriving Thanksgiving Day.

Dr. Edward J. McCormick, eminent Toledo physician and past exalted ruler of the Elks Lodge, yesterday wired officers of the Frostburg Elk organization that he would appreciate any courtesies extended to the Laney family.

Miss Laney said last night that she would return to Toledo Monday, but would return.

Miss Laney will be required to furnish bond, since a hearing is pending regarding the accident between the Laney sedan and a car driven by John Clise, 28, of Frostburg. Clise received a cut wrist.

27 Gunners Fire in Shrine Turkey Shoot

Twenty-five turkeys were distributed at the Cumberland Shrine Gun Club trapshoot Tuesday. Twenty-seven shooters took part with "Huck" McFerran, John Lighter, G. L. Franklin of Bedford, Bill Powell and Bob Morgart of Bedford each winning two.

Single birds went to Frank Billmeyer, Arthur Hoffa, Dr. J. B. Martin, Tony Francis, O. D. Williams, Bill Morgart, Loraine Eisenberg, Jim Stevenson, J. N. Powell, Guy Bradour, Walter Eyler, Arthur Bopp, Miss Bertha Walton, C. M. Ott of Bedford, Mrs. Clifford White and Mrs. Myrtle Stratton.

Fire Destroys Home On Thanksgiving Day

A Potomac Park family yesterday had less to be thankful for than what they might have been on Thanksgiving Day.

The home of John Atkins was completely destroyed early Thursday morning by a fire of undetermined orgin. The Atkins family is in Norfolk, Va., and the house was vacant when the fire broke out.

Red Cross To Hold First Aid Classes

Scouters interested in first aid training have been invited to come to scout headquarters Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. when the first session of the Standard Red Cross course will be held.

Scoutmasters Ray Whitehair, Glenn Kemmet and Dr. Frank Davis, health and safety chairman of the Cumberland district, will be in charge. Whitehair and Kemmet are registered Red Cross instructors.

Barking Setter Killed When Thrown Out Neighbor's Window, Owner Says

It all started when a handsome bird dog valued at $200 was found dead in the apartment house alley late Thursday night. The pointer's neck and back were broken.

Informed of the death of his prize-hunting dog, the owner hit the ceiling. His call brought Lieut. James E. Van and Officers C. C. Roby and R. V. Chisholm to the scene of the sudden death.

Police Investigate

Investigation revealed that the dog had been barking in the hall, and that his barking had suddenly become stilled.

The owner cast dark glances at the door across the hall, intimated that his neighbor had chucked the bird dog out of a third-floor window.

Suicide "Unlikely"

The dog's owner declared that it was very unlikely that his pointer had suddenly decided to commit suicide and jumped out the window.

The three policemen finally left the apartment, with the man across the hall still denying that he had thrown the pointer out of the window.

The owner indicated that he would swear out no warrants and go to no courts but hinted darkly at reprisals.

'Y' Battalions Gain Recruits

Membership Drive Opens Wednesday

The "Join the 'Y' Campaign" which opens next Wednesday noon began to take definite shape last night with the announcement by General Chairman Roy W. Eves of a score of additional workers.

Another development of the day was the posting of several billboards in connection with the campaign by both the Arthur Litzenburg Co. and the General Outdoor Advertising Co. Other business firms, civic organizations, schools, and churches have pledged their cooperation, and Mayor Harry Irvine is expected to issue a proclamation designating the period of the campaign, Nov. 29 to Dec. 6, as YMCA Week in Cumberland.

The workers named last night included Mrs. Ann E. Everline and Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, hostesses of the Green and Orange Battalions, respectively; Ray C. Lalor, Ross Powell, Carrol Frantz, and R. A. Dennis, be members of Capt. J. D. Liebau's Red Battalion team; and W. P. Mullen and Thomas B. Finan, on Capt. George Schwarzenbach's team.

John Hodge Smith and R. F. Wertheimer were named as Captains in J. Corfield Patterson's Green Battalion, and Mrs. Robert Wilkinson was added to Mrs. Frank U. Davis Orange Battalion.

Robert Rosamond and John E. Golden have enlisted under the flag of Captain Parker Arnett and the ranks of Capt. W. D. Timmons have been swelled by the addition of Frank B. Henson, F. H. Rockwell, Donald W. Smith, and Ernest Hutcheson. James Hill was recruited to the squad of Lynn C. Lashley.

Dudek Crash Case Scheduled for Court Hearing at Last

Mrs. Dorothy Dudek, of Frostburg, driver of the car involved in a spectacular three-way crash two months ago on Greene street, is scheduled to be given a hearing this morning in Trial Magistrates court.

Police charged Mrs. Dudek with reckless driving and driving without a license after the car she was operating crashed into two machines, one parked, late the night of Sept. 20.

Frostburg Man Jailed For Beating Woman

Marshall McKenzie, of Frostburg, yesterday was found guilty of assault with intent to wound by Joseph A. Feldman, Frostburg magistrate.

McKenzie was brought to the county jail by Constable Denzil Crowe after Magistrate Feldman had fined him $50 and costs or 60 days in jail.

Business Men Meet Nov. 29 In Hagerstown

Will Ask Localities To Cease Spending Unneeded U. S. Funds

Constantly changing business conditions in this country and abroad which point to new opportunities and responsibilities for business will be the theme of a business conference Nov. 29 at Hagerstown, H. W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, stated yesterday.

Specific purposes of the conference are:

1 — To get expression of business opinion on the new responsibilities and new opportunities which have arisen as a result of the European war.

2 — To see what further steps can be taken locally to acquaint the people with the problems and objectives of business.

3 — To make every effort to have local meetings go on record to cease from demanding or accepting unnecessary federal funds.

Cumberlanders To Attend

Cumberland business men who will participate in the conference at the Hotel Alexandria include John D. Liebau, Frank H. Ankeney, Henry Price, Douglas R. Bowie. A number of others may also attend.

Mr. Smith will speak at the 2 p. m. session, with R. Paul Smith, president of the Potomac Edison Co., Hagerstown, serving as chairman.

The Cumberland secretary will present a plan to "develop and advance locally programs which will encourage closer harmony and understanding among local groups to the end that business and re-employment will go forward."

Youth Breaks Arm While Roller Skating

No Serious Accidents Over Thanksgiving In Cumberland Area

Thanksgiving Day was unmarred by serious accidents in Cumberland and nearby towns. Only four motorists were apprehended by city police for violating traffic laws.

Oscar J. Lewis, 227 Offutt street, arrested by Officers W. B. Lovenstein and T. T. Griffin, forfeited $5 bond yesterday in Police court for driving through a white traffic signal at Baltimore and Centre streets.

Claude S. Boyer, 229 Baltimore avenue, was fined $5 for careless driving in North Cumberland. He was apprehended by Officers L. E. Daniels and L. L. Youngblood.

The other drivers, John F. Cross, 634 Fort Hill avenue, and Martin L. Troshak, 308 North Mechanic street, were acquitted of careless driving in South Cumberland. Officers B. F. Hotchkiss and C. D. Manges preferred the charges.

Labor Leader Fined For Contempt of Court; Alimony Went Unpaid

F. Patrick Allender, business agent of the Building and Construction Trades Council, of the A. F. of L., yesterday was fined $20 in Circuit court for contempt.

Allender was fined by Associate Judge William A. Huster for failing to pay $25 a month permanent alimony to his former wife, Ann Virginia Allender, as stipulated in a court order of June, 1938, when Mrs. Allender was awarded a divorce.

Allender was first arraigned on a contempt of court charge in April, 1939, for failure to pay alimony. He was fined $20 at that time which sentence was suspended on condition that he pay his back alimony of over $200 and continue to pay $25 a month.

Yesterday, the suspension of the April sentence was stricken out by Judge Huster, who committed the defendant to the county jail until the fine was paid.

Allender paid his fine of $20 yesterday around 5 p. m. and was released.

Shoots Two Pheasants

Mount Tabor, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP)—Raymond J. Parks, sitting in his living room, saw two pheasants alight in his back yard. Putting aside his pipe and paper, he got his shotgun, opened the door and bagged both birds with two shells.

Bus Deadline Passes; New Proposals Made

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

One business Mr. Roosevelt's Thanksgiving speed-up has undoubtedly helped is the joke business. American wit and humor, being still free, have jumped on Mr. Roosevelt and his calendar juggling with both feet.

Now comes a shaft from the other side, and it's a good one, sent us by Johnny Barger (Democrat), editor of Keyser's Mineral Daily News-Tribune. He writes:

"Since so many people, from headline writers to die-hard Republicans, had a hig time calling it 'Franksgiving', would it be out of order to call Nov. 30 'Cranksgiving?'"

Sure, we think it's in order, but Editor Barger better smile when he says that, even in his own home town. And he'd better stay out of Maine and Vermont for the rest of his days.

—o—

But those jokes don't mean anything to us, after the delicious turkey hash and waffles we had for breakfast yesterday.

—o—

The sweets (candies, we mean, and not the girls) in the corner cigar store are covered with a wire netting when the place closes at night, just in case a hungry mouse might wander in.

The other night, two youngsters came in just at closing time, saw the wire, and remarked sourly:

"You don't trust us, huh?"

Frankly, we can hardly trust ourselves when we go past that particular counter and no one is looking.

—o—

The mother of a very young neighbor of ours was trying to impress upon him the necessity for taking good care of his still younger brother, with whom he has been inclined to play a bit too realistically.

"But Tommy is such a tiny, little boy," his mother said with careful emphasis.

"Oh, no, he isn't," said the older lad, "he's a wild turkey."

Police To Test Two-Way Radios

Salesmen on Hand To Show Wares

Mayor Irvine yesterday received word from the Alexandria Radio Service Company that a representative of their firm would be in Cumberland Friday for a demonstration.

The company offered to make a demonstration when informed that the city was contemplating equipping the police automobiles with radio sets.

Officials who will witness the exhibition will be Mayor Irvine, Police Commissioner Harry Manley, and Police Chief Oscar A. Eyerman.

Several other radio companies have also announced their intentions of giving similar demonstrations, Mayor Irvine said including the Collins Company which has installed two-way radio outfits in a number of police departments throughout the country.

Negro Gets Six Months Prison Sentence For Turkey Theft

Earl Guy, 172 Wineow street, a negro, was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction for stealing a turkey, valued at $3.50, from Paul Dawson, of Rawlings.

Authorities said Guy stole the gobbler Wednesday afternoon from Dawson's parked truck on North Mechanic street and fled. Later he was arrested in a Baltimore street shooting gallery by Officer Frank J. Shober, Jr., while in the act of selling the bird.

Guy was sentenced last Jan. 31 to serve six months in the House of Correction for taking a ten-pound bucket of fish, valued at $4 from the Wagner Meat Market on North Centre street. He was held in 1933 for the grand jury on a charge of stealing evergreens, worth $15, from Arthur Bopp.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., imposed the sentence yesterday in Trial Magistrates court.

Union Is Willing To Name Its Member To Neutral Party

Settlement of the union-employe dispute at the Potomac Edison Company still hung fire today, as yesterday's deadline was passed without a strike call.

According to Union Representative Floyd W. Kreisel, an NLRB election to determine the right bargaining agency of the bus drivers was satisfactory to him, provided the company waived its right to contest the jurisdiction of the NLRB after the votes had been counted.

Won't Show Company Union Lists

This proposal of the union came after a deadline set for 5 p. m. yesterday had been passed. The union had determined on Wednesday that the company agree to negotiate by 5 p. m. Friday. The company called this a strike threat.

Although the union turned down the company's suggestion that the union's membership list be submitted to determine the majority question, Kreisel stated that they would be willing to submit the list to any neutral group selected. Such a group could check the union membership with the employed list of the company, he said.

No Statement from Price

Henry W. Price, manager of the Potomac Edison Company, said he had no statement to make last night concerning the union's proposal, which he had just received and which he had not had time to study.

Meanwhile, Lester Levin, attorney for the National Labor Relations Board, and Charles Liller, of the labor department, have arrived in Cumberland and are assisting with the negotiations.

The company still indicated yesterday that it wants to be shown that the new union represents a majority of the bus drivers. The union, an AFofL. affiliate, claims seventy per cent of the drivers on the company's payroll.

Strike Warning Promised

Kreisel, ninth vice-president of the national union, said last night that the progress of the case hinged to a great extent on the company attitude in regard to the jurisdiction of the NLRB.

The union represenattive stated that the public would be given at least forty-eight hours notice in the event the union found no alternative except a strike.

Deaths

Lee Pase

Lee Pase, retired blacksmith, died last night at his home in Thomas, W. Va., after being stricken Thursday with paralysis. He was 80.

Born in Clearfield county, Pa., Mr. Pase was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob C. Pase. He lived in Thomas for half a century and worked there in the mines as a blacksmith. He retired about 10 years ago.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller Pase; four sons, William, Otto and Ray Pase, all of Thomas, and Roy Pase, of Keyser, W. Va.; a daughter, Mrs. Roy Harris; one brother, Jack Pase, both of Thomas; and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Luzier, of Cumberland.

Mr. Pase was a member of the Knights of Pythias, of Thomas.

Mrs. Elizabeth Imes

Mrs. Elizabeth Imes, widow of Irvin Imes, of Chaneyville, Pa., died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Wintermoryer, 103 East Antietam street, Hagerstown.

Mrs. Imes was a daughter of the late David and Mary Leasure Imes.

Surviving are a son, Ellis Imes, of Orleans; another daughter, Mrs. Lula E. Sybold, of Cumberland; one brother, Will Imes, of Everett, Pa., a half-brother, Russell Smith, of Ridgeley, W. Va.; and a half-sister, Mrs. Louis Myers, Bedford road.

The body was brought to Stein's Funeral Home. It will be taken to Mt. Zion, Pa., Monday.

Michael J. Piper

Michael John Piper died Thanksgiving morning at his home in Oldtown. Death was caused by a heart ailment. He was 65.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Piper; three sons, Guy H., Columbus C., and Wilbur H. Piper, three daughters, Mrs. Emma Abe, Mrs. Bertha Davis, and Miss Florence Piper, all of Oldtown; one brother, Lionel Piper, of Spring Gap; and one sister, Mrs. Malinda Hodel, of Cumberland.

Miss Mildred Champ

Miss Mildred Champ, daughter of Mrs. Lee H. Cole, 11 Eutaw Place, died on Thanksgiving at the Maryland State Sanitarium. She was ill.

Surviving, besides her mother and her step-father, are her grandmothers, Mrs. Mary Barkley and Mrs. Sara Champ, of Bowden, W. Va.; and her step-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cole, of Cumberland.

The body, which was brought to Stein's Funeral home, will be taken to Elkins, W. Va., today.

Deputy Improves Slowly At Memorial Hospital

Kelly Unionist Nabbed For Passing Handbills

Rubber Workers Ready To Fight Ordinance In Court Today

The validity of the city's handbill ordinance will be given another test this morning in Police court when a former president of Local 26, United Rubber Workers, faces a charge of distributing pamphlets without a permit.

The defendant will be John Geis of Frostburg, who was arrested yesterday by Police Sergt. Raymond Johnston at the main gate of the Kelly-Springfield plant after he had distributed approximately 500 notices of a union meeting.

Thousand Handbills Seized

Geis, with 1,000 handbills under his arm, took his stand at the main gate yesterday at 2 p. m. and proceeded to pass out the notices as the first shift left the plant and the second shift went to work.

The distributor was arrested by Sergt. Johnston around 3 p. m. and booked at police headquarters at 3:45 p. m.

Heading for a Showdown

Although rubber union representatives were non-committal last night regarding the incident, it appeared certain that the union had made up its mind to go to the mat with city officials regarding the handbill ordinance which they claim is unconstitutional.

Geis will be defended today by I. Duke Avnet, union attorney from Baltimore, who is opening a part-time office here. Avnet will request that the case be dismissed on the grounds that the city ordinance is invalid.

Action Follows Court Rulings

The union's action yesterday follows rulings by the Supreme Court this week which invalidated city handbill ordinances in Wooster, Mass., Los Angeles, Irvington, N. J., and Milwaukee.

In the event the Police Magistrate finds Geis guilty as charged, it appeared almost certain last night that the rubber workers would request a writ of certiorari from the Circuit court to test a magistrate's jurisdiction in such a case.

Council Turned Union Down

The union contends that the handbill ordinance is not applicable to labor organizations and non-commercial organizations and if made to apply to labor organizations is unconstitutional.

Yesterday's arrest of Geis follows council's turndown of a union request to distribute handbills to raise funds during the recent Red Cross drive. . The request was submitted to council by E. M. Pueschell, secretary or the rubber union.

Union Meeting Advertised

The union meeting the handbills were advertising is to be held Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in Rubber Workers hall on South Mechanic street.

The handbill made an especial point of inviting non-union members to the meeting to hear the terms of the proposed contract with the tire company discussed.

Mayor's Statement Loses In Supreme Court 'Test'

Two municipal handbill ordinances which Mayor Harry Irvine declared sometime ago were similar to Cumberland's handbill ordinance have recently been found unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

On Sept. 23 the mayor issued a statement calling attention to the fact that handbill ordinances in Los Angeles and Milwaukee had been upheld by superior state courts.

This, the mayor inferred in his statement, which was published in The News of Sept. 25, was pretty good proof that Cumberland's ordinance was constitutional.

But along came Supreme Court rulings this week which upset the mayor's applecart by declaring the Los Angeles and the Milwaukee ordinances unconstitutional.

And the Supreme Court, of course, has the last say, and not the state courts, whose decisions were proclaimed in the mayor's September statement.

The mayor has made no statement since the Supreme Court ruling.

Business Men Meet Nov. 29 In Hagerstown

Will Ask Localities To Cease Spending Unneeded U. S. Funds

Constantly changing business conditions in this country and abroad which point to new opportunities and responsibilities for business will be the theme of a business conference Nov. 29 at Hagerstown, H. W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, stated yesterday.

Specific purposes of the conference are:

1 — To get expression of business opinion on the new responsibilities and new opportunities which have arisen as a result of the European war.

2 — To see what further steps can be taken locally to acquaint the people with the problems and objectives of business.

3 — To make every effort to have local meetings go on record to cease from demanding or accepting unnecessary federal funds.

Cumberlanders To Attend

Cumberland business men who will participate in the conference at the Hotel Alexandria include John D. Liebau, Frank H. Ankeney, Henry Price, Douglas R. Bowie. A number of others may also attend.

Mr. Smith will speak at the 2 p. m. session, with R. Paul Smith, president of the Potomac Edison Co., Hagerstown, serving as chairman.

The Cumberland secretary will present a plan to "develop and advance locally programs which will encourage closer harmony and understanding among local groups to the end that business and re-employment will go forward."

Youth Breaks Arm While Roller Skating

Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nelson, 930 Gay street, suffered a factured left arm Thursday afternoon when he fell while indulging in the sport near his home.

Labor Leader Fined For Contempt of Court; Alimony Went Unpaid

F. Patrick Allender, business agent of the Building and Construction Trades Council, of the A. F. of L., yesterday was fined $20 in Circuit court for contempt.

Allender was fined by Associate Judge William A. Huster for failing to pay $25 a month permanent alimony to his former wife, Ann Virginia Allender, as stipulated in a court order of June, 1938, when Mrs. Allender was awarded a divorce.

Allender was first arraigned on a contempt of court charge in April, 1939, for failure to pay alimony. He was fined $20 at that time which sentence was suspended on condition that he pay his back alimony of over $200 and continue to pay $25 a month.

Yesterday, the suspension of the April sentence was stricken out by Judge Huster, who committed the defendant to the county jail until the fine was paid.

Allender paid his fine of $20 yesterday around 5 p. m. and was released.

Bus Deadline Passes; New Proposals Made

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

One business Mr. Roosevelt's Thanksgiving speed-up has undoubtedly helped is the joke business. American wit and humor, being still free, have jumped on Mr. Roosevelt and his calendar juggling with both feet.

Now comes a shaft from the other side, and it's a good one, sent us by Johnny Barger (Democrat), editor of Keyser's Mineral Daily News-Tribune. He writes:

"Since so many people, from headline writers to die-hard Republicans, had a hig time calling it 'Franksgiving', would it be out of order to call Nov. 30 'Cranksgiving?'"

Sure, we think it's in order, but Editor Barger better smile when he says that, even in his own home town. And he'd better stay out of Maine and Vermont for the rest of his days.

Lots of jokes are cracked, too, around this time of the year, about the monotony of turkey hash.

But those jokes don't mean anything to us, after the delicious turkey hash and waffles we had for breakfast yesterday.

Turkey hash is all right—if the hash maker doesn't wait until all the turkey is gone before he makes it.

The sweets (candies, we mean, and not the girls) in the corner cigar store are covered with a wire netting when the place closes at night, just in case a hungry mouse might wander in.

The other night, two youngsters came in just at closing time, saw the wire, and remarked sourly:

"You don't trust us, huh?"

Frankly, we can hardly trust ourselves when we go past that particular counter and no one is looking.

The mother of a very young neighbor of ours was trying to impress upon him the necessity for taking good care of his still younger brother, with whom he has been inclined to play a bit too realistically.

"But Tommy is such a tiny, little boy," his mother said with careful emphasis.

"Oh, no, he isn't," said the older lad, "he's a wild turkey."

Police To Test Two-Way Radios

Salesmen on Hand To Show Wares

City officials will witness the first demonstration of a two-way radio outfit for police cruiser cars next Friday, Mayor Harry Irvine said yesterday.

Mayor Irvine yesterday received word from the Alexandria Radio Service Company that a representative of their firm would be in Cumberland Friday for a demonstration.

The company offered to make a demonstration when informed that the city was contemplating equipping the police automobiles with radio sets.

Officials who will witness the exhibition will be Mayor Irvine, Police Commissioner Harry Manley, and Police Chief Oscar A. Eyerman.

Several other radio companies have also announced their intentions of giving similar demonstrations, Mayor Irvine said including the Collins Company which has installed two-way radio outfits in a number of police departments throughout the country.

Negro Gets Six Months Prison Sentence For Turkey Theft

Earl Guy, 172 Wineow street, a negro, was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction for stealing a turkey, valued at $3.50, from Paul Dawson, of Rawlings.

Authorities said Guy stole the gobbler Wednesday afternoon from Dawson's parked truck on North Mechanic street and fled. Later he was arrested in a Baltimore street shooting gallery by Officer Frank J. Shober, Jr., while in the act of selling the bird.

Guy was sentenced last Jan. 31 to serve six months in the House of Correction for taking a ten-pound bucket of fish, valued at $4 from the Wagner Meat Market on North Centre street. He was held in 1933 for the grand jury on a charge of stealing evergreens, worth $15, from Arthur Bopp.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., imposed the sentence yesterday in Trial Magistrates court.
